

Women and Their Interests

Man's Affection Based on Monopoly

By DOROTHY DIX

A correspondent, presumably a woman, asks me if there are any sure signs by which one may tell when a man is in love.

According to the old story, "men were deceivers ever," and it is no more difficult than to tell when a man is in love for keeps and when he is merely toying with the tender passion. Still, there are certain indications of love that, while not an infallible test, are valuable hints to the girl who is trying to assay a man's attentions and find out whether they are with intentions or not.

Of course, the first thing to take into consideration is the regularity with which a man visits you. A mere casual call now and then means nothing. Too much stress, however, must not be put upon the fact that a man comes to see you every week, or even twice or three a week. This may be merely the force of habit, or because he has nowhere else to go, or you had the wit to select comfortable chairs, or your mother has a knack of brewing refreshing drinks.

Still, a man becomes a steady beau at his peril, and if in addition to regularity he develops a particular night tendency, and especially a Sunday night habit, and manifests a disposition to be morose and look injured if anybody else calls, you have a right to regard it as a premonitory symptom of love.

Based on Monopoly
A man's affection for a woman is based on monopoly, and as soon as he begins to love her he begins to feel he has the sole right to her society.

The next sign of importance is when a man begins to lecture you about the way you dress and what you eat. As long as a man feeds you on chocolate creams and when you go to a restaurant with him and he lets you make your dinner unrebuked on entrees and vol au vents and ice cream he is not serious. But when he insists upon your wearing high-neck dresses to the opera and eating roast beef and potatoes for dinner he is beginning to take a personal interest in your physical welfare and to think of assuming your doctor's bill.

A third sign is when he begins to talk to you about his business, because that shows that he is beginning to think of taking you in as a side partner. Girls don't know it, but there is more in it when a man commences telling them about the price of salt codfish than there is in his quoting reams of passionate poetry. As long as a man's sentiments are up in the air he talks generalities about the theater, the last party and "Shakespeare and the musical glasses," but when he is genuinely in love he discourses about the subject nearest his work.

A fourth indication of love is when a man begins presenting you with cook books and moral essays on family life instead of novels. This shows that he expects to have to eat your cooking. As long as a man is merely fluttering like a moth about the flame he likes a woman to be frivolous and amusing, but as soon as he thinks of her filling the exalted role of his wife he desires her to become serious and intense. Hence no faith is to be put in the man who presents you with a supply of light literature and who looks amused and not shocked when you announce that you would rather go to the matinee than darn stockings.

Cooking Wins Husbands

Indeed, when a man seeks to know a girl's views on domesticity she has a right to regard his inquiries as leading questions and answer them with discretion. A pronounced passion for the cooking stove has gotten many a girl a good husband.

Still another indication that things are growing serious with a man is when he begins to describe to a girl the matrimonial felicity of one of his friends who is married and lives in a flat on $4 a week. As long as a man talks vaguely to a girl about palaces and automobiles and things, and how if she were his wife he would dress her in silk attire and never let her little white hands do aught harder than soothe his weary brow, he is concealing through his hat. He means nothing, and never expects to have to make good on what he is saying. When a man tries to ascertain a girl's views on being happy on a definite amount of money a month he means business.

A final test that a man is hard hit for keeps is when he develops a sudden fondness for a girl's family. When a young man maintains a smile of absorbed interest while papa pours forth his reminiscences of the Civil War, and mamma relates her sorrows with the cook, it is up to the girl to decide whether she will say "yes," or merely be a sister to him.

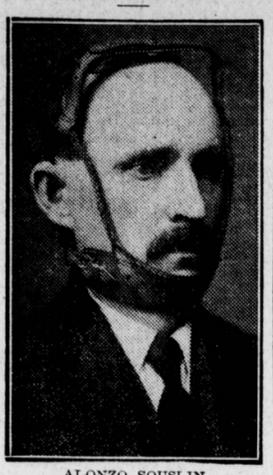

But All Signs May Fail!

It must not be forgotten, though, that there are times in love, as in all weather, when all signs fail, and no matter how many indications a man has given of being in love, a girl has no right to base any hopes upon them until he tells her so. And even then she should take his vows at 50 per cent. discount. It is up to the girl to reiterate them in the broad light of day and asks her when he shall speak to papa.

NECK BROKEN

Alonzo Soussin a Visitor to Harrisburg This Week

His is One of the Most Surprising Cases Ever Known in Surgical History.

ALONZO SOUSSIN

Who Sustained a Broken Neck While at Work

Mr. Alonzo Soussin, of Dayton, Ohio, is in the city for a few days. Mr. Soussin is selling post cards to make a living for his wife and eight-year-old son as well as himself.

Back of this simple announcement lies an unusual story, which is the wonder of the modern surgical world. Seven years ago, October 23, 1906, to be exact, he had his neck broken while at work in the plant of the National Cash Register Company at Dayton, and he is one of the few who have suffered a broken neck who have lived.

His greatest affliction, however, but by his undaunted courage he has maintained his little family in comfortable circumstances and at the same time has retained his cheery disposition which spreads sunshine with all with whom he comes in contact.

Mr. Soussin was born on a farm, for twelve years was a railroad trainman, three years a sailor and has worked as boiler maker, painter, decorator, carpenter, coal hauler and ditch digger—all these on the heroic presumption that "there is no labor too hard for a man who is determined to work."

Once he had three ribs broken, later was afflicted with locomotor ataxia, typhoid fever, rupture of the sciatic nerves and a broken right leg.

The greatest affliction, however, which he has suffered, was a broken neck, which occurred while engaged in decorating an office building in Dayton. He was stooping to remove some rubbish when a six-foot plank fell, striking him edgewise on the back of the neck. He was taken to the hospital unconscious and there remained eight days in that condition.

When I finally came to and my physician told me that I was suffering with a broken neck, I wondered if God would spare me to get back to my wife and little one before I died," said Mr. Soussin yesterday in speaking of his misfortune. "I could hardly realize that my neck was broken, it didn't seem that I could possibly be alive if such were the case; but the doctors said so and then and there I determined to make a game fight for life. My boy was a baby then, and somehow, all I could see as I lay on my hospital cot was that wife and bright faced boy back in the other part of the city, and I knew if I ever went back to them again it would be nothing short of a miracle.

"Finally a plaster cast was placed about me and for weeks I lay, silently waiting for the time to come when I could return to my loved ones. At last the cast was taken off and a brace substituted. In a short time I went home. Many a night I have lain awake wondering how I was to provide for my wife and child. Finally I thought of a plan whereby I could have different views taken of myself and perhaps sell them. I took up this plan and when I saw my fellowmen I have been able to provide for my own."

Mr. Soussin wears a jourmaste and headgear, which fits about his body and extends to the top of his head. A large cup-shaped piece of leather encloses the chin and helps to hold the head in position. He has no free movement of his head whatever. The only time the headgear is removed is when he is shaved. Then he takes his headgear off, steadies his head with his hands while the barber places the chair flat down. The barber shaves him, raises the chair, removes the padding and places the headgear back in position.

"I can't do any kind of food," he said, "and all the time there is a continual dull ache at the back of my head. Sometimes it gets unbearable, but seven years of that ache have sort of accustoming me to it. When I lie down in bed I am the most comfortable of all. The rod which runs up and down my back will not permit me to lie down flat in bed, so I have to sleep on my right side."

"Oftentimes my head seems to be inclined to go backward, but I have no desire to turn my head. My left arm and leg sometimes have a feeling which I can't describe. They become numb and stinging and at those times the back of my head aches unbearably."

Mr. Soussin is a member of the Dayton M. C. A. and usually stops at these institutions. He carries high recommendations with such signatures as Governor James M. Cox and officials of Dayton. One of his booklets, containing his own story, which underlies his motives in traveling about the country. "It says, 'To my wife and boy—the ones that I believed God meant me to live for—and to my many friends who are enabling me to make a living for them, this little booklet is sincerely dedicated.'"

Mr. Soussin says he was dismissed from service by the Panhandle Railroad because he refused to go to Chicago and take part in breaking up the A. R. U. strike.—Advertisement.

The retail prices of the "principal articles of food" in forty industrial cities advanced sixty-six per cent. in fourteen years. The price of

has remained the same, and it is just as satisfying, strengthening and sustaining as it was fourteen years ago—a complete, perfect food, supplying more real, body-building nutriment than meat or eggs, and costs much less. Your grocer sells it.

Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits (heated in the oven to restore crispness) eaten with hot milk or cream, will supply all the nutriment needed for a half day's work. Deliciously wholesome with baked apples, stewed prunes, sliced bananas or other fruits.

The Shredded Wheat Company, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

$5.00 Is the Interest on $100 for one year at 5 per cent. You save $5.00 when you buy 10 tons of coal at this month's prices for next winter. 10 tons of Wilkes-Barre Egg Coal will cost $59.50.

Figure this out and you will find that the money invested in this amount of coal will earn you more than 10 per cent.

Besides you usually get better coal at this time of year than is shipped during freezing winter weather.

Coal Is Cheapest and Best Now

To buy coal now is to buy it at the cheapest price for which it can be obtained during the year. And then you gain in quality, too, for the coal sent from the mines at this time of the year may be thoroughly screened before delivery, a difficult matter in cold weather when frost will cause the dirt to cling to the coal. So to buy Montgomery coal now is to buy the best quality of the best coal at the lowest prices. Place your order.

OBSERVE MOTHERS' DAY, SAYS MAYOR

Issues Proclamation Enjoining All Citizens to Pay Floral Tribute

"Mothers' Day" will be observed in Harrisburg Sunday next, May 10. As has been his custom, Mayor John K. Royal to-day called upon the citizens of Harrisburg to give a wide-spread observance to that day. In his annual proclamation Mayor Royal says: "The custom now so general of celebrating Mothers' Day is one of much excellence, because the purpose is so full of significance that we should bring to it hearts filled with love and veneration as a tribute, not only to motherhood, but to the best mother that ever lived, your own mother.

"Therefore, I, John K. Royal, Mayor of the City of Harrisburg, do designate Sunday, May 10, 1914, as 'Mothers' Day' for our city, and ask each citizen to joyfully do honor to her who unselfishly sacrificed so much; who wrought and cared so much for us, desiring yet more to bestow upon us. I would request the general wearing of the white carnation, whose color signifies purity, its shape beauty, its fragrance love and its lasting qualities fidelity—all which are embodied in our mothers. This do as an evidence that you hold her in loving remembrance, if departed. If living, do some special act of kindness to her, token of your love and appreciation of all she has done for you.

"JOHN K. ROYAL, Mayor."

FIRE AT REFORMATORY

Huntingdon, Pa., May 7.—Fire broke out at the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory, where six wards of 900 inmates are confined, yesterday. A spark from the casting room of the foundry went into an adjoining room and caused the blaze. An inmate discovered the flames before they had gained much headway, and turned in a general alarm. Several streams were placed on the blaze, which was extinguished, after a slight loss had been sustained.

WOODMEN OF STATE WANT OFFICES HERE

Delegation Instructed to Do All Possible to Bring National Headquarters to Harrisburg

At a meeting of the State camp of Modern Woodmen of America at Altoona yesterday, the movement to move the national headquarters of the organization from Rock Island, Ill., to Harrisburg, was laid out. Jesse J. Lybarger spoke at the meeting yesterday morning, pointing out the advantages of bringing the headquarters to Harrisburg.

One of the main reasons for wanting the change is a recent Illinois law which places a tax on the reserve fund. Mr. Lybarger pointed out that Pennsylvania's laws are favorable to beneficiary orders. Definite instructions were given to the ten delegates from Pennsylvania that they should make every effort at Toledo next month to land the headquarters for Harrisburg. This city must compete with Detroit and several other large cities. The delegates who will have the fight in charge were elected yesterday, and are as follows:

Harry C. Kepner, Allentown; E. T. High, Reading; M. H. Lybarger, Harrisburg; B. G. Walter, Sunbury; Thomas Carrig, Susquehanna; H. H. Shumaker, Rockwood; J. Allen Crawford, Dawson; E. J. Seyler, Erie; R. J. Shabo, Kane, and M. W. Cargo, Turle Creek.

TAKE UP THE QUESTION

5 times as man's mothers use Nestlé's today

WHERE one mother gave her baby Nestlé's seven years ago, five give it today. And why? Simply because in the last seven years mothers have learned more about keeping their babies than ever in all the thousands of years that went before.

First they learned—these wide-awake mothers—that the babies who left them one in six—died from the wrong food—that that great terror of mothers—summer complaint—came from cow's milk.

And then they learned that many of our dairies (11 out of 12) are dirty—that one cow in three carries sickness. They learned that even if the milk came from a clean dairy and a healthy cow—no little baby stomach could digest it. Keep your baby away from the sickness and the indigestion that may cost his life. Give your baby your own milk as long as you can. Then wean him slowly on that is clean—and free from sickness, and fresh, that does not grow sour—whose curd is soft, and digestible as mother's milk itself. Nestlé's is a complete food as it comes to you in its air-tight can. You add no doubtful cow's milk to prepare it, but only fresh, clear water. Give your baby Nestlé's once a day. Then twice—and gradually increase—till the baby is weaned and both you and the baby will be better and stronger.

Nestlé's brings to your baby all the good of cow's milk and none of the harm. In Nestlé's the best cow's milk from healthy cows in sanitary dairies, is so changed that it contains just what your baby needs. The milk is so purified, and so packed, that it is free from mother's milk from germs and impurities.

Send the Coupon. It brings a box of NESTLÉ'S (enough for 12 feedings) and an important Book by Specialists, full of things you ought to know.
