PHOTOPLAY THEATER

In the third installment of "The Perils of Pauline," the villain is disappointed at his failure to injure Pauline in the airship accident, plotting with another villain in whose power he is. They decide that they must lure Pauline away from her home to be successful with their plans. They locate an old sailor who agrees to tell Pauline a history of his life. The pirate leads Pauline to believe that he was shipwrecked once and he escaped ashore with a vast treasure and buried it on an inhabited island. Pauline falls for the story and agrees to help him find his treasure. Then follows a thrilling story. This picture will be shown to-morrow, Saturday. A great program will be shown to-day.—Advertisement.

ROCKEFELLER COULD HAVE PREVENTED LOSS OF LIFE, MINERS SAY

Declare He Should Have Authorized Meeting of Workers and Operators

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., could have prevented the loss of life in Colorado by favoring a settlement of the coal strike through a meeting of the operators and miners, according to a statement issued today by the International Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America in session here. The statement also declares "there can be no turning back of the mining industry. The sacrifices already made are too great."

The statement reviews the strike and continues: "We deplore the loss of life, acts of violence and destruction of property which have taken place. We are for peace and the establishment of right relations between employers and employees. We have exercised our efforts at all times toward right dealings."

The miners asked for a conference time after time, it is stated, and quit work only after they had been refused a hearing repeatedly. "Ninety-five per cent. of all the men employed ceased work and are still idle," the statement asserts. "The statement widely circulated by the coal operators' representative that 10 per cent. of their employees were attempting to force 90 per cent. is absurd and unqualifiedly false. The small numbers of employees are Mexican, Japanese and incompetent strike-breakers."

Tunnel Under Jailyard Exposed by Sudden Cave In? Oh, Rats!

When someone in the Courthouse overlooking the women's side of the Dauphin county prison this morning discovered that a tunnel had been dug under the brick sidewalk there was much curious conjecture as to the possible cause. From office to office the story of the discovery got around. And then half an hour later...

Jail headquarters got the first query as to whether it was really true that someone had attempted to tunnel under the jail yard from the Columbus Hotel and that the attempt had been discovered by the sudden caving in of the earth!

Warden Caldwell promptly made an inspection and inventoried that wandering rodents, perhaps, had attempted to tunnel beneath the surface and that water had collected in the pavement and washed a little hole under the brick. It will be filled in with ashes to-morrow.

"Was there an attempt to tunnel under the jail, and if not, what was the cause of it all?" came a final query. And a jail official succinctly and concisely answered both questions in two words: "Aw," said he, "RATS!"

Baer Will Enigma to Reading Public

Reading, Pa., May 8.—The will of George Baer, late president of the Reading Railway Company, is so vague as to the valuation of the decedent's estate that the executor will have to be taken before even the Baer family can obtain any idea of the amount of the fortune accumulated by the former railroad executive.

An estimate of $200,000 and upward was placed on the estate by the executors, Mrs. Baer, the widow; Isaac Heister and William W. Appel, sons-in-law, when the will was filed with Register Newman for probate.

The document was an all-absorbing topic in business, legal and financial circles here to-day, and there was much speculation as to the exact figures of Mr. Baer's estate. Estimates made by men closely associated with Mr. Baer placed the total net worth figures ranging from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The real estate owned by Mr. Baer was numerated, but no value fixed. This included the Reading residence, here, said to be worth $80,000; his Philadelphia residence, rated at $60,000; the Baer office building and a farm of eighty acres. The latter, according to a local authority, is worth $50,000. The bulk of the estate in bonds and stocks of enterprises with which he was connected and other business interests.

Much surprise was expressed over the discrimination shown in the case of Mr. Baer's daughter, the wife whose share was bequeathed to the Reading Trust Company in trust.

The daughter is the wife of Heber L. Smith of this city, and close friends of Mr. Baer's daughter explain the action of Mr. Baer. "The couple have no children, and this was one reason advanced for the codicil. The Baer family are reticent on the matter and declare the will speaks for itself."

There was considerable disappointment among charitable institutions and church circles because there were no public bequests. It was thought that the Reading Hospital, of which Mr. Baer was a consistent member, would be a beneficiary, and members of the Second Reformed Church, which the former president of the Reading had attended, would be benefited. The executors, however, have made no effort to convey their pleasure. Not a public bequest was made and not a cent of the vast estate will go to charity or to the city.

Woman Takes Stand to Save Own Life

Chambersburg, Pa., May 8.—Zelda Keller Gerhold will stand the stand in her own defense in her trial for murder now running through its eleventh day. Whether her mother, Mrs. Jennie Rieker, who is also indicted for the murder, will stand the stand has not been announced. The defense began this morning and fifteen witnesses testified to how much Floyd Keller drank. They and others swore that the Kellers lived happily together. B. H. Ocker, first cousin of Mrs. Keller, told of a visit to Floyd Keller's early in his illness and related how Floyd told of his illness exhibiting the midseason special at this large store is assurance of extraordinary values.

LAST OF BIG BILLS OUT OF COMMITTEE

Railroads Would Have to Obtain Permission to Issue Stocks and Bonds

Washington, D. C., May 8.—The third and last of the big subjects upon which President Wilson considers it imperative to legislate at this session of Congress came from the House committee on interstate commerce today in the form of a bill for federal supervision of the issuance of stocks and bonds by railroads. The committee's report places the measure on the House calendar along with the Clayton anti-trust bill and the Covington bill to create an interstate trade commission.

Democratic members of the lower body of Congress will caucus next Tuesday in an effort to determine upon a legislative program which will facilitate the passage of the three bills. It is probable they will be called upon under a special rule providing a limitation on the time for debate.

Republican members of the interstate commerce committee will oppose the railroad capitalization bill, and probably will prepare a substitute with the intention of offering it at the conclusion of the House consideration. They declared tonight that the measure as it now stands would result in a complete demoralization of transportation conditions throughout the country, as it carries in its provisions a requirement that the railroad systems shall at once rid themselves of stock interest or control or other control in all subsidiaries.

The dominating features of the capitalization bill are summarized as follows: "First, a provision, requiring railroads, before issuing stocks and bonds, to obtain authority for such issues from the Interstate Commerce Commission. Second, a provision requiring full publicity, through the Interstate Commerce Commission, of all facts bearing on the issue of railway stocks and bonds. Third, a provision making it unlawful for any person to hold the position of officer or director of more than one railroad. The last of these provisions reads as follows: "Unless the previous approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have been secured it shall be unlawful for any person to hold the position of officer or director of more than one carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce. This, it is believed by the Republican critics of the bill, is fraught with danger to the big railroad corporations, as it might afford the Interstate Commerce Commission a means of ordering the dissolution of practically every railroad system which is made up of more than one line. It is provided in the bill that it shall be unlawful for any railway corporation to issue any capital stock or certificates of stock, or any bond or other evidence of indebtedness, or assume any other obligation, unless and until upon application and after investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the purposes and uses thereof, such issue is approved by said commission as necessary and appropriate for the purpose stated in the application."

To Drive Away Ugly Pimples Take Lax Links

It is easy for a woman to have a clear, bright, rosy complexion. If you will keep your blood pure, the pimples will disappear and stay away. If you are subject to constipation, your blood absorbs the poison from the waste matter contained in the body. Therefore, you should see that your bowels are kept open naturally. Lax Links, the delicious candy laxatives, exquisitely flavored with the oil of spearmint, and which do not contain any habit-forming or dangerous drugs, will keep your blood pure and keep you well. Ideal for children. Recommended by physicians. Sold by all druggists. 10c. and 25c. boxes. Write for free sample. Boro Salicine Co., Philadelphia.

FOR CHRONIC COUGHS

Milton, Pa., Woman Has Found a Remedy

Mrs. Howard Wagner, of Milton, Pa., says: "I had a bad cold for months, and would cough every night until midnight. I consulted a doctor and took two kinds of medicine, but got no relief. Vinol was recommended and after taking it a week I could sleep all night without coughing once. I continued its use and now have a fine appetite, never felt better and my cough is entirely gone."

It is a well-known fact that when a person is run-down, stomach out of order, or the system overloaded with waste matter, vital resistance is lowered and colds and coughs are easily contracted.

The safest and surest method we know to overcome this condition is by taking our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. In the most natural manner Vinol tones up the digestive organs, promotes a hearty appetite, enriches the blood, and as a specific for chronic coughs, colds and bronchial troubles Vinol is unexcelled.

Try a bottle of Vinol on our offer to return your money if it fails to help you. George A. Gorgan, Druggist, Harrisburg, Penna. Vinol is Sold in Steeltown by John L. Porro.
