WEATHER PREVENTS WORK ON SUBWAYS

Approval of Bridge Plans Means Early Start on This Contract

Weather conditions are causing a delay in preparing for the start of the work on the subways at Front and Mulberry and Second and Mulberry streets.

At the office of the Philadelphia division engineer, George Brown, to-day it was said that work would start not later than Monday, but that some of the details would be looked after this week by the contractors.

It was also stated to-day that work on the new Cumberland Valley Railroad bridge across the Susquehanna may start before June 1. The delay on this work is due to the holding up of the right of way permits which must come from the State Water Supply Commission and the United States War Department.

Engineers to Discuss Relations of State and National Activities

At the meeting of the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania, Friday evening, representatives from the national engineering societies will discuss the relation of the national engineering societies to State engineering societies and the relation of each of these to public works.

Officers of all of the national societies will be present and Commissioner John Price Jackson, president of the Pennsylvania Society, anticipates an unusually instructive meeting.

The Engineers' Society has asked the Harrisburg section of the National Council for Industrial Safety to participate in this meeting. Following the regular business of the meeting, several safety motion pictures will be shown, accompanied by talks by Lewis Palmer, chief inspector of the Department of Labor and Industry, and others connected with the National Council for Industrial Safety.

This meeting will be held in the lower room of the Board of Trade building.

Patrolman Henry Bush to arrest his attacker. Trouble, it is said, arose over a lease of a building in the Eighth ward.

Ommert had sublet a storeroom to Abraham Zerger. Last night he and his tenant got into an altercation. One had a hatchet and the other a hammer, and they were brandishing these primitive weapons in the vicinity of each other's faces when Patrolman Brine separated them.

At police headquarters Ommert got $42 and continue the business. Rosenberg, it is said, sent for Ommert on behalf of the owner of the building with objections as to subletting it.

Calm Before the Storm. Ommert and Rosenberg were in the hall of the first floor and had rung for the elevator. Nobody heard any high words, but the stillness was suddenly punctured by a bullet from Ommert's left hand hooked Rosenberg's jaw. The blood flowed from the lawyer's mouth. The attorney went to the door, and the husky form of Ommert was close behind him.

Rushing across Market Square Rosenberg clutched Patrolman Brine's sleeve and directed him to apprehend the belligerent partner, which he did. And at police headquarters Ommert got ball and will appear to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to answer the charge of a one-hook assault with intent as to the battery end.

LAWYER'S SLIP-UP LOSES HIS CASE

Mention Amount Desired to Jury and Bottom Fell Out of Suit

The whole bottom fell out of a trespass case in May Common Pleas Court, this morning, before counsel for the plaintiff had finished his opening address to the jury; the fall was accompanied by a burst of the dull, sickening kind. Thus:

Mary Patrich began a suit against Paul Lovranich, alleging trespass in that she had been slandered by impolite remarks made by Paul. In addressing the jury Lovranich, counsel for the plaintiff, started to read a portion of his complaint from the plaintiff's statements. Inadvertently he mentioned that $5,000 damages was desired. That that mere slip-up had started some of the jurors to laughing. The fall was evident to the other members of the bar—and even to Additional Judge Judge McCarrall on the bench. They all grinned. The rules of law and court do not permit the statement to the jury of any fixed amount that detail being left to the judgment of the county's twelve good men and true.

Neither Mr. Lovranich nor James G. Hatz, counsel for the defendant, remembered that until too late for Mr. Rosenberger, Mr. Hatz, however, was on his feet with an objection. Judge McCarrall asked if that was all he had to say. The defendant asked for the withdrawal of the jury and the dismissal of the case. The Court would grant the request. Mr. Hatz did.

Trespass action of Sarah and Benjamin Prowell against the Harrisburg Railway Company was sent to the jury to-day. The case was argued by the plaintiff's counsel, Mr. Hatz, and the defendant's counsel, Mr. Rosenberger. The case was argued by the plaintiff's counsel, Mr. Hatz, and the defendant's counsel, Mr. Rosenberger.

Philadelphia Pays Tribute to Her Sons bodies removed by sailors and marines to caissons, the deep-toned bell in the tower tolled as the caissons were taken by the families and friends of the dead.

In the line were bluejackets and marines from the navy yard, many military organizations of the city and patriotic societies. Mayor Blankenburg and Captain Benson, commandant of the navy yard, members of City Council and the citizens' committee were also in line. Members of the Pointsett and Smith families were in carriages immediately behind the caissons carrying the bodies of the sailors. The pageant came to an end in the northern part of the city. Pointsett's body was taken to Hillside Cemetery and that of Smith to Fernwood Cemetery.

Guard of Honor Meets Body of Meisenberg By Associated Press. Chicago, May 13.—The distinction which never attended the young Jewish marine, Sammy Meisenberg, in life, was his to-day when his body, wrapped in the flag for which he died at the front, was brought back to his home. Not only the city but the State united to honor his memory.

When the funeral car reached the station police were present to maintain order but the great crowd was silent and orderly. A guard of honor received the coffin and an escort of 500 men appointed by Governor Dunne and Mayor Harrison escorted it to the City Hall.

Here the body remained on view for hours while the men and women filed past. Thousands will be in the funeral procession to-morrow, including the governor and the mayor.

Wilson Will Abide by Caucus on Credits By Associated Press. Washington, May 13.—President Wilson will abide by the Democratic caucus action in abandoning rural credit legislation at this session of Congress. Representative Glass, of Virginia, chairman of the banking and currency committee, conferred with the President to-day and explained that in his opinion the Federal Reserve Band act will extend credit aggregating $500,000,000 on farm lands. This will, in a measure, cover the ground for which the rural credits act was designed. Moreover, it was pointed out, the rural credits bill framed by Representative Bulkeley and his subcommittee, was not broad enough in its provisions to satisfy the full committee. The President, it is understood, especially desires that the rural credit act should extend credit to the tenant farmer.

ASK PRIEST'S AID IN UPLIFT WORK

Want Spiritual Heads of People to Help Educate Foreigners of Steelton

In order to secure their co-operation in his plan to educate the foreign-speaking resident of the borough to a proper observance of the rules and regulations governing a well-ordered municipality, Burgess Wigfield has addressed a letter to all the priests at the head of the borough's foreign churches requesting them to take up the work from the pulpit.

Last week the burgess had a number of posters printed in foreign languages and distributed throughout the foreign section. These posters point out some of the simple rules of hygiene and tell some of the things that a good citizen must not do. The burgess now plans to have the pastors of the foreign churches read these posters from the pulpit and urge the members of their churches to observe these rules.

Speaking of his plan this morning Burgess Wigfield said: "I am thoroughly convinced that fully one-half of the trouble we have with the foreigners is caused by an ignorance of the laws and the sanitary conditions of the entire foreign section is caused by a lack of knowledge of the fundamental rules of hygiene. Most of these foreigners are of a nature accustomed to living by rules which are hammered into them from childhood. I believe that if we tell these people what they do and what they may not do, that we will have fewer cases in police court and a much cleaner foreign district."
