Suggested as Possible Source of Income For Band Concert Fund

CHARGE SMALL FLOOR FEE

Taylor Thinks Enough Money Could Be Obtained to Fill Out Season Program

The pavilion or dance floor could be erected and the expense of building and operation could be more than made up by charging a nominal admission fee per couple—some cities would fix a rate of five or six cents per head. The expense would include a up-keep of a good orchestra, providing good music, for keeping the pavilion in good shape, and for a sufficiently large and qualified staff of attendants on hand to attend to the needs were properly conducted and objectionable characters admitted.

Ice will be lower in price this summer in Harrisburg than last summer. Prices are 5 cents a hundred cheaper and indications are that the price will remain at this point throughout the hot weather. Thirty-five cents a hundred and 25 cents a hundred on orders of 200 pounds or over is the quotation today. The cold snap at the tail of the winter is the cause of the lower prices. The storage houses are jammed to capacity. There will be no dearth.

BIG GOSS SEXTUPLE PRESS BUILT FOR THE TELEGRAPH WILL PRINT 72,000 AN HOUR

BIGGEST AND BEST PRESS EVER BOUGHT FOR A HARRISBURG NEWSPAPER WILL PRINT THE TELEGRAPH

There is no more important factor in the making of a modern newspaper than the press or presses upon which it is printed from day to day. Time was when the public had little or no concern in the mechanical equipment of the newspaper, but nowadays the importance of the newspaper to the average community is so well recognized that anything that has to do with the production of that newspaper is of interest to the public. Throughout its long history the Telegraph has maintained a close relation to its constantly increasing body of readers. Only recently there came into possession of the management files of the Telegraph covering the whole period of the first Mexican War, the fact that these files were preserved by a prominent citizen of one of the important Central Pennsylvania towns, shows a personal interest and appreciation of the Telegraph of that earlier period. It is quite a common thing to receive letters from readers of the Telegraph of the third and fourth generation, these readers representing continuous family subscriptions.

It is for this reason that the announcement that the Telegraph is to have within a few weeks the most complete and modern newspaper press ever installed in Harrisburg has passed every interest to the large and ever-increasing family of Telegraph readers. A contract has been made with the Goss Printing Press Company, of Chicago, for the building of this press, which will weigh approximately eighty tons and contain over 9,000 parts. It will be twenty-five feet long, eight feet six inches wide and ten feet eight inches high. A sixty-horsepower motor will be required to drive the big machine. While the etching herewith gives a slight idea of the proportions of the press, it does not convey any adequate conception of the many ingenious devices for the production of a modern newspaper at high speed. This press is known as the Goss high-speed, straight-line, sextuple press. It will produce 38,000 four-page papers, eighteen, twenty, twenty-two or twenty-four page papers per hour, and on the days the Telegraph does not exceed twelve pages it will print 72,000 papers per hour. It will be so built as to make possible the printing of the Telegraph up to forty-eight pages.

The new press will include many devices which will make possible the printing of a newspaper such as has never been turned out in this city, and as it will be constructed for high speed, it will make possible the overcoming of difficulties under which this newspaper now labors in caring for its present large circulation. All manner of time-saving devices have been included in the specifications and the order was placed with the Goss company after a thorough investigation of the best machines now on the market. Great care has been given the minor details to provide every convenience for the operation of the machine and the elimination of the small losses of time which, singly, are trivial, but in the aggregate amount to a considerable item. It is the opinion of the makers of this press that it has almost reached the point where there does not seem to be any prospect of further improvement.

OVERHEAD WIRE AND POLE ORDINANCE IS NEARING COMPLETION

Further assurance that the proposed city-wide overhead wire and pole removal ordinance is in process of preparation and that its introduction in City Council will be just a matter of time, and a comparatively short time at that, was given today by City Commissioner Harry F. Bowman, superintendent of Public Safety.

Commissioner H. F. Bowman and City Electrician Diehl Collecting Data For Regulations

Some weeks ago Commissioner Bowman announced that City Electrician Diehl and himself were collecting data for the purpose of drafting an ordinance which would require the removal within a certain period of years of all the poles and wires in the city. The measure, Mr. Bowman said, will likely provide for the clearing of the overhead network in certain districts within certain terms of years, the wireless-poleless zone to be spread gradually. In effect the proposed ordinance will carry the same provisions as the present merger ordinance required, under which the Harrisburg Light and Power Company is operating. This ordinance, in fact, will be taken as a model.
