Thousands of patients who have been treated at my office back up my statement that I fulfill every part of my advertisements. That I do all work without the least bit of pain and that the work is of the highest character for very little money.

Call and have your teeth examined before they are decayed so badly that they have to be extracted, and avoid wearing a plate.

I am making a specialty of teeth without plates, which are cemented on, so that it is impossible for them to get loose.

MRS. SHARPE DIES AT INDIANAPOLIS

Former Resident of This City Passes Away in Her 92nd Year

Mrs. Mary Ellen Graydon Sharpe, a former resident of Harrisburg, died at Indianapolis on Thursday, May 14, in her 92nd year. Mrs. Sharpe was born in this city in 1822, and was the daughter of Alexander Graydon, III, and Jane McKinney Graydon, and niece of the late H. Murray Graydon. She moved to Indianapolis in 1843, and was married in 1847 to Joseph K. Sharpe, who died in 1900. One son and three daughters survive her. Although separated from her friends here, her thoughts always turned back to the city of her birth. Living at one time at the corner of

Shun Professionalism Is a Golf Warning

Special to The Telegraph

New York, May 15.—In a letter now being sent to secretaries of clubs in its organization, the United States Golf Association sounds a warning to amateur golf players, who are treading on the border line of professionalism.

"Owing to the fact that certain situations now exist," says the letter, "it is necessary to change Section 7 of the by-laws of this association which defines the status of an amateur golfer."

The "situations" complained of in the letter include the writing of articles for money on how to play certain shots; accepting free board from hotels to play in tournaments held for advertising purposes; and accepting certain makes of golf clubs and balls.

The letter asks each club to make suggestions regarding changes in the rule defining amateurs with the aim in view of barring evidences of professionalism.

IT'S A POOR RULE THAT DOESN'T WORK BOTH WAYS

THE RATES IN THIS HOTEL ARE FIFTY DOLLARS A DAY ON THE FIRST FLOOR, $49 A DAY ON THE SECOND FLOOR, $48 ON THE THIRD AND SO ON UP!

LET ME GET THIS THING RIGHT—EACH FLOOR AS YOU GO UP IS ONE DOLLAR CHEAPER?

YES!

HOW TALL IS THIS HOTEL? FIFTY TWO STORIES.

ACCORDING TO THAT RULE THE FIFTIETH FLOOR WOULD BE A DOLLAR! WHAT WILL THE HOTEL OWME IF I SLEEP ON THE ROOF?

Electric Cos. Keep Motorcyclist Repairmen Ready For Quick Calls

Electricity is so easily controlled either by the push of a button or by automatic apparatus especially designed for that purpose, that one oftentimes loses sight of the complexity of the distribution system and the source of supply. Indeed, there are as many as a thousand points between the electric light station and the lamp where the most trivial fault will result in failure to receive light.

Trouble in the electric light station itself is never permitted to interfere with the service to customers; it is the trouble in the lines and house circuits which causes the lighting company most concern. In the great majority of cases there is only a minute or two of work between no electricity at all and perfect satisfaction. The blowing of a fuse will place a house in entire darkness, yet a new fuse can be installed in a fraction of a minute.

Electric light companies throughout the country make it a point to remedy these faults as speedily as possible, and in order that electric light men may reach the seat of trouble as rapidly as possible, the companies provide motor cycle repair men. The fact that one of these men is able to make an average trip and arrive at the home of a customer within fifteen minutes of the time when the call is telephoned to the office gives electric light companies an advantage and prestige. It is usual to have the motor cycle repair men on tap at any time of day or night. This of course involves heavy expense, but the lighting companies are more than compensated in satisfied customers.

AN ACTOR WHO DREADS THE STAGE

One morning when James Whitcomb Riley and I were quite alone he gave Shakespeare's "Seven Ages of Man." It was so startlingly realistic from the pulling infant to the palsied old dotard that I exclaimed: "If you'll do that on the stage it will make you a million dollars."

"I'd not do the stage for a million dollars," he quietly answered.

Sol Smith Russell used to declare that Riley had the most wonderful face he had ever seen. "If I only had Riley's face," he would say to his friends. "Yes," answered Riley, "and if I only had Sol Smith Russell's legs! He has the most versatile and accomplished legs in the world."

Russell, in response to an encore in his "Poor Relation" at Terre, gave "Nothing to say, my daughter!" and rendered this bit of exquisite dialect pathos with most touching effect. The audience was moved to tears. "I beseech your pardon," he modestly said in answer to the applause, "no one living can do justice to those tender and beautiful lines but James Whitcomb Riley."

How strange it seems that this wonderful gifted actor never became reconciled to the stage! He had a vague aversion to the stage. Often I have heard him say that it was the

A SENSIBLE FROCK.

For the tiny tot nothing could be more in keeping with comfort and be at the same time stylish than this design in etchelyn cotton, one of the new fabrics for children's frocks.

For a child of four years, two yards of 36-inch or 1 1/4 yards of 44-inch material will be needed for the dress. In cutting out the design, which closes over the shoulder and is to be slipped over the head, the pieces of the pattern marked triple "TTT" perforations should be arranged on a lengthwise fold of the material. The girle, however, is placed on a crosswise fold, and the remaining pieces with line or line "O" perforations on a lengthwise thread of the material.

If the belt is made of the same material enough may be saved from the cuts to make the simple fold used for this purpose. The first step in the construction of the design is to turn under the shoulder edge of front on slat perforations. There are small "o" perforations on the back on which this should be lapped, with notches even. Now stitch to position on the right shoulder, leaving the left shoulder free for the opening. Now close the seams, making them even with the notches on either side. The inverted pleat may be formed by creating on slat perforations; bring folded edges to seam and press. At this stage the little straps may be added through which the girle is to be run. Their places are indicated by small "o" perforations. On the girle pattern the large "O" perforations indicate the upper edge. After turning and sewing in the hem the dress is finished, with the exception of sewing the collar to neck edge as notched. If the round neck is used it may be piped or finished with a tiny ruffle of lace.

Pretty little dress for a small child, to be slipped on over the head and adjusted at the left shoulder. It is made of etchelyn cotton and trimmed with embroidery.

While one finds a great deal of variety in children's frocks, the sensible and the fanciful both being favored, there is seldom a minute's hesitation about accepting the former once it is seen.
