STEELTON MIDDLETOWN CHESHIRE ROYALTON OBERLIN EPHRAIM

BUSINESS STOPS AS FLAG GOES BY

Many Activities Mark Day in Lower End of County; Simple Services

Memorial Day was observed in many ways in the lower end of the county to-day. In practically all of the lower end towns business activities were suspended so far as possible and the general public spent the day in seeking whatever form of recreation best suited the individual taste. From early morning there was a procession from the towns to the river and to the various parks. Steelton people in large numbers spent the day at Reservoir, Paxtang and the cross-river parks. At Middletown there was a big parade. Municipal Park was crowded with family picnics and pleasure seekers who wanted to see what the borough's new recreation place was like. At Highspire the principal event was the baseball game with New Cumberland, and there was a big crowd on hand when the umpire shouted "play ball." Baseball games also drew large crowds at Steelton and Middletown.

Practically the entire plant of the Pennsylvania Steel company at Steelton was closed, allowing the men a holiday. Only a small portion of the office force was on the job and enough men to keep the various furnaces in operation.

Of course the feature event of the day was the simple yet impressive services at the graves of the veterans of '61 and '65 who have responded to their last "Taps."

The few remaining grizzled old veterans of Sergeant Lascomb Post, No. 251, Grand Army of the Republic, assembled at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the post rooms, in North Front street, attired in their neat uniforms of blue. A short time later they left in a large motor car for Highspire where a simple memorial service was held over the graves of veterans. From Highspire the truck load of veterans went to Oberlin where services were held at 10:30 in the cemetery there. Then the silvery-haired "boys" returned to their homes.

Up the Hill
Again at 1:30 o'clock they assembled at the post rooms and at 2 o'clock proceeded with steady step up the steep hill to the Baldwin cemetery. Here the most impressive services of the day were held.

The services opened with a selection by the Steelton Band and a prayer by the Rev. C. B. Segelkin, pastor of Centenary United Brethren Church. Centenary selection by the band and the "General Address" were read by the Post adjutant.

Frank B. Wickersham, assistant district attorney of Dauphin county, then delivered the orator of the day. He paid a glowing tribute to the few remaining band and gray veterans, who answered their country's call during the stirring days from '61 to '65, and eulogized the men over whose graves flowers were about to be strewn. At the conclusion of his speech a number of little girls clad in white scattered flowers on the graves. The band played "The Star Spangled Banner." There was a short pause and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. J. M. Waggoner, of the Main Street Church in God.

The Spanish War Veterans then filed away from the crowd and facing the west fired a salute to the Dead. There was a short pause until the echoes of the bugle rang out. A moment later Bugler William Lowe stepped out in front of the ranks. As he raised his bugle to his lips there was a movement and heads were uncovered.

"Taps" rang out, stirring strains of "Taps" rang out—and another Memorial day was done.

Friendship Company Tells Its Side of Controversy

Members of the Friendship Fire Company committee appointed to draw up a letter to the public explaining the company's side of the controversy between the Friendship company and the Firemen's Union met last night and drafted a letter. In this letter the members of the Friendship committee claim that the politics is back of the turnout given the Friendship company and that men now in control of the union affairs in preparing for the big time in October, having lost their position through the introduction of the commission form of government in Harrisburg are using means to antagonize the Friendship company because its membership includes men who are factors in the present government.

The letter also calls attention to the fact that the committee gave the printing contract to outsiders when a local bidder offered $1,000 to the union for the contract. It is stated that the Friendship being the oldest company in Harrisburg is entitled to first place in line and that a gross injustice has been done by the action of the union.
