The passengers, seventy-five in number, were brought to port by the wrecking tug Tasco, which had been summoned by wireless to the aid of the stranded steamer. The passengers were in a happy frame of mind when they found themselves safely ashore. While on the stranded Northland, they said, and with the Empress of Ireland disaster so fresh in mind, they were in constant fear that another storm would come up and endanger their lives.

REDMOND DECLINES REQUEST OF IRISH SUFFRAGETTES

By Associated Press

London, June 5.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, to-day declined a request by Irish suffragettes that he receive a deputation to discuss the inclusion of women as electors for the Irish parliament. Mr. Redmond pointed out that previous deputations of this nature had caused only unpleasantness and reiterated the view that Ireland, under home rule, must decide whether she wants women voters.
