Greatest News of the Day Is That Kingdom of God Is Coming, Says Ellis

THE DAY'S GREATEST NEWS The International Sunday School Lesson For June 7 is "The Coming of the Kingdom."—Luke 17: 20-27

If a far-sighted man could sit on the earthward side of the Planet Mars and view current events here, he surely would perceive that the biggest news in sight, and the news worthiest to be cried through all the worlds of the universe, is that the kingdom of God is coming.

For that statement is the only adequate explanation of the new order that is now coming to pass in this old world. The present clamor and weeping in Mexico; the groanings and turnings in ancient China; the harsh shoutings and debates in Great Britain; the moans that resound over the Balkans and Turkey and Russia—all these sights and sounds which beheld too near, appear to be portraits of the era of fundamental peace which is coming.

Certainly Jesus proclaimed a kingdom as coming. That was the message oftener on His lips. The basic laws of the kingdom were laid down in the sermon on the Mount. His kingdom was spiritual. In this lesson He makes clear that it is a kingdom of character, of ideas, of spirituality.

"The mind is in its own place, and in itself can move a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven."

One commentator puts it tersely, "Evermore the kingdom of God must be within—within, for within is the moral evil; within, for within is the power of love; within, for within is the will and the hope which must reach forth to the higher ideal of character."

The blindness of Critics Sneering, spying, suspicious, the Pharisees watched Jesus with a censorious attitude. They thought to outwit Him in His favorite message of the kingdom by saying, "When is it coming?"

So fond are men of predicting the hour of the kingdom's coming that in every generation for centuries past there seem to have been one or more self-deluded leaders to rise and cry himself the prophet of the last days. Poor, misguided Dowie was one such.

If there is one thing clear about Jesus' teaching of the consummation of His kingdom, it is that "Of that day and hour knoweth no man." In this lesson He expressly warns against the cry, "Lo here, or Lo there."

Of course, it is easy to see now, as we read of the hostile and incredible blindness of the religious leaders of His own day, that in their very midst stood the King whose rule makes the kingdom.

The Kingdom-Bearer An eternal truth was laid down by Jesus when He said, in this connection, "Whosoever shall seek to gain his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it."

The present lesson tempts one to consider the present, imperial sway of Christ. Most of the thrones of earth are tottering. Great Britain was recently startled by a denunciation of the king in the House of Commons, at which the majority cheered. The German Reichstag has witnessed the same thing within a month. The old monarchical sanctities and privileges are rapidly being curtailed everywhere. Royal absolutism, which ruled the majority of mankind up until within a decade, is dead. One after another of earth's autocracies have been overthrown. What is this, except the very coming of that spirit of democracy and brotherhood and human welfare which is the law of the kingdom of Christ?

Spiritual ideals are to-day the most potent force in political life. Even our severely chastised statesmen are beginning to see this. A new social order, which may freely be interpreted as the sway of the kingdom of heaven, is ruling the world to-day. In all this we see Jesus coming to His own.
