RANGE OF PRICES IN NARROW LIMITS

Money Rates Held Easy, Despite Continued Outflow of Gold to Europe During Past Week

By Associated Press. New York, June 6.—The range of prices on the Stock Exchange this week was held within narrow limits and speculation was slow. There were few changes of importance in the situation and professional traders, whose deal with the market, were not expected to be very active.

Money rates held easy, despite the continued outflow of gold to Europe. The rate on call money rose to the high point of the movement.

The cables reported an uncertain state of sentiment abroad, on account of the Ulster crisis and French political affairs, which was at times reflected in the market. The settlement was affected by the course of affairs at Washington, on which Wall Street was inclined to place the heaviest construction. Hopes of a business revival in the near future were hardly as generally expressed as
