SAMUEL POORMAN'S

Veteran Organbuilder Enjoys Quiet Years After an Eventful

Life

SAMUEL POORMAN

Many old friends of Samuel Poorman, 207 Boas street, the veteran organ builder, will send him gifts and congratulations to-morrow in honor of his ninetieth birthday. After an eventful life, most of which has been spending his days quietly, pottering about the house and tinkering with machinery.

With a natural talent for organ building, he followed that trade after serving as ship's carpenter in the United State Navy when quite a young man. He has rebuilt the old organ at St. Patrick's Cathedral and the Calder memorial organ of Grace Methodist Church, as well as repairing many other organs in this vicinity and in New York city, where he spent several years.

Mrs. Poorman, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth Stees, of this city, died a few years ago after fifty-seven years of wedded life, and since then Mr. Poorman has resided with his daughter, Miss Bessie E. Poorman, of this city.

OUTING AT WILD CAT FALLS
