SWINGING BACK TO SANITY 7HEN the Democratic candi-date for Governor of this State announced in his platform that he was going to change the rules of the Legislature so as to make that body more responsiv to the Executive, he echoed the present occupant of the White House who has usurped all the legislative functions of the national government.

"It is as true to-day," said the New York Sun, "as it was when Mr. Justice Story made the observation, more than eighty years ago, that the legislative, executive and judicial depart ments ought to be separate, and the powers of one ought not to be exercised by either of the others; and that when all three powers are united in the same hands there is a real despotism, to the extent of their coercive

But there is a gradual swinging back to sanity in government, notwithstanding the attitude of the present little men who have gained control of the Democratic party and its machinery.

Dr. Wilson has succeeded in forcing through the Senate his favor to John Bull in the shape of his bill to repeal the toll exemption clause of the Panama Canal act, but in doing so he has probably driven another wedge in the split-ting of the Democratic party. As the people learn more of the motive back of this measure they will resent still more the President's surrender to a

TENNIS IS POPULAR

F Harrisburg is to keep pace with the demands of an ever-increasing proportion of its youthful lovers of out-o'-door sports, it must make prompt and ample provision for better tennis facilities at Reservoir Park.

Half a dozen additional courts would probably solve the problem for an other year or so; proper observance of the tennis rules would relieve the situation immeasurably for the present. The time and age playing limit regulation particularly should be more rigidly enforced.

The court regulations recently framed and posted prohibit the use of the courts, except Nos. 1 and 2, by children of sixteen or under after 4.30 o'clock week-days and throughout the entire afternoon of Saturdays. This provides an opportunity for play for the adult enthusiasts who have been confined all day to desk, or office, or store, and who only get a chance to get to the parks after business hours.

Whether oversight, doubt as to age limit, or a desire not to interfere with the play of the children on the part of the officials, is responsible for the patience-exhausting waiting of the older players is a matter of conjec ture; that the older players do sit for a half or three-quarter hour waits is management of the Almshouse or any other institution under a Democratic "reform" adminis-Don't we know that every promise that has ever been made by the Democratic reformers has been scrupulously kept. There may be a few uncomfortable insects in the beds at the Almshouse, but it is unreasonable to expect busy little reformers ants in a few months. Of course, a Republican steward and other officials of the opposite po litical faith should have been drawn and quartered under similar conditions, but not a word must be said about the unsanitary surroundings of a Democratic administration.

It matters not that some employe of a former administration are still on duty, as intimated in the defense If they were not doing their wor in the right way they should have been dismissed long ago; but does that relieve the reform administration of the responsibility of main taining unsanitary quarters for the unfortunate wards of the county.

We recall that the present clerk of the Directors of the Poor, who rushes to their defense, was the representative of Boss McCormick's newspaper who had himself committed to the county prison for the purpose of reconditions in vealing alleged awful that institution for McCormick campaign purposes. If his experience amounted to anything, he should have been able to discover the need of sani tation at the Almshouse, especially as his official position imposes this obligation upon him.

Because the unfortunate Italian whose case has been presented to the public is poor and helpless is no reason why he should not have had proper consideration. He deserved and should have received the best treatment possible.

Colonel Roosevelt is quoted in a dispatch from Madrid as having no use for Amos Pinchot, who he "consider is radical almost to the point of foolish ness." Surely our brethren of the Progressive party are having troubles of ACK to the old-time celebration, their own. Amos said unkind this gathering 'round the flag, for about George W. Perkins, who is their own. Amos said unkind things us! The idea of the flagpole kind soul and awfully generous in the

Now that the new formal entrance is only a matter of time, this plan could be carried out, so more tennis courts may be a matter of the not very distant future, after all.

In the meantime more thorough observance of the age and playing limit rules would help wonderfully.

The Rev. Dr. J. Ritchie Smith, the popular pastor of the Market Square Presbyterian Church, has been unanimously elected to an important chair in Princeton Seminary. Members of his congregation and the community generally would sincerely regret the removal sof Dr. Smith from this city, and they will hope that he may decide to remain here, where his activities are so highly appreciated.

One of the men most prominent in the development of storage batteries has been secured by the Engineers', Society for the monthly lecture tonight. He is J. H. Tracy, assistant chief engineer of the Philadelphia Electric Storage Battery Company, and well known to many Harrisburgers. Mr. Tracy has made a study of the subject for years and will give illustrations by means of lantern sildes. These lectures have been a great feature of the activities of the society and have brought many men from the industrial establishments and big engineering undertakings in this section of the State to Harrisburg for professional discussions and entertainment. In fact, the society is filling a very large part in the life of men engaged in engineering by its meetings, discussions, lectures and publications. One of the men most prominent County Detective James T. Walters has been awarded the prize for an unusual accident. He has a summer cottage near Inglenook and while repairing a screen door found that he had to pry off some of the screen. He used a screwdriver as a lever and the netting flew off, the keen edge striking him at the edge of his nostrils. It made a painful cut and a lot of annoyance. The detective has drawn five diagrams showing how the accident occurred.

James Sweeney, the State chief of standards, who is the boss of the weights and measures, has had some funny experiences with people who fail to understand that the State's standards are not for the verification of the weights of private persons, but for counties and municipalities. The other day a man dumped a whole set of weights at the office and asked for prompt verifications. He was not afraid of the weights, but he just thought he would use Father Penn's equipment. He was hard to convince. On another occasion a milkman brought in some measures and said that he wanted to be sure they were right so that Commissioner Foust's sleuths would not nab him.

W. A. Megauchey, of 1640 Fulton street, is the possessor of a copy of the Ulster County Gazette, published by Samuel Freer & Son at Kingston during the close of the preceding and the beginning of the last century. One interesting adversing death of Washington and proceedings of Congress. One interesting advertisement is by John Schoonmaker, who offers for sale a sawmill in the town of Rochester and also "a stout, healthy, active negro wench." He suggested in this advertisement that any person inclined to purchase might learn the particulars by applying to him. It is an interesting old paper and the editor makes the announcement that the London papers had arrived by a late steamer and from these papers of October 20 coplous extracts are made in the issue of the Gazette of Saturday, January 4. ### ROOSEVELT AND BRUMBAUGH

General Carranza threatens to upset all of Secretary Bryan's peace plans, which is mean of Carranza after all the nice things the great Chautauquan has said about him.

Crop news remains very good, according to the trade reports, but the foreign figures, show the widespread in activity of American textile plants, and all reports from industrial centers indicate the steady lessening of production and the absence of orders.

Perhaps the most impressive fact, and it may be psychological at that, is the shipment of many millions of gold out of the United States in the last few weeks without any influence whatever upon the money market of the United States. Money is so plentiful here by reason of the absence of demand that bankers are beginning to wonder what they will do with it.

George W. Perkins says he will stay in the Progressive party despite Amos Pinchot's attack. Wonder how Gifford feels about it?

Auditor General has authortly to scale down a bill rendered for work done after competitive bidding has been made, but they have not been brought, and a good many people who see the possibilities of primary bills running away up are doubtful whether the action would stand.

Thus far the Auditor General's department has paid fifty-nine of the sixty-seven counties for the expenses of the 1913 primary and two more will be settled soon. Practically all of the counties in Central Pennsylvania have been paid, Dauphin having received its share some time ago. Philadelphia, Allegheny and a few of the big ones are outstanding and it is thought that there will be a big deficiency after the 1914 bills, which have not commenced to come in, are audited. A few inquiries have been made about the expenses for this year and it looks like an enormous amount.

the expenses for this year and it looks like an enormous amount.

In Northampton and Luzerne county seats there are protests being made against reduction of bills and the commissioners have made demands for payment, asserting that if they are not given what they ask they will have their solicitors mandamus the Auditor General on the ground that his reductions were arbitrary.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, dis

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, discussing campaign expense accounts, says of the Palmer-McCormick statements filed to date: "The 27 counties, all of them except Lackawanna, relatively small, received from the Palmer-McCormick campaign committee an aggregate in contributions of $6,800 and the two Philadelphia wards an average of $175 committee an aggregate in contributions of $6,800 and the two Philadelphia wards an average of $175 each. If this average held good throughout the State, the contribution of Palmer-McCormick money to the counties, estimating Pittsburgh by wards, will be between $25,000 and $30,000. It is believed lavish expenditures in Dauphin county will make the total fully $30,000, which means that the uplift comes high in Pennsylvania, requiring $63,000 to make the President's friend a candidate for Governor. This is thought to be a low estimate. Some keen observers say the county committee expenditures, the personal expenditures of the candidate and of various other committees will run the sum well over the $100,000 mark, and that if the same lavish system obtains in the election it will require a cool half-million to finance the campaign. Most of the more than nearly $7,000 sent into the 27 counties heard from went to 'watchers,' some of whom sold their services as cheap as $2, and others of whom received as much as $15."

Warren Van Dyke, for the last three

Warren Van Dyke, for the last three years resident secretary of the Democratic State headquarters, was last of the Democratic State committee. The position entails the general management of headquarters and details and Mr. Van Dyke's friends extended their congratulations to him. Mr. Van Dyke succeeds Arthur McKean, who was elected as chairman of the tenth division. He comes from Carbon county, where he was for some time active in Democratic politics. Mr. Van Dyke was named for city chairman last year and is being talked of for the same place this year.

In view of the declarations of the Democratic candidates in favor of local option and the uproar made when they tricked the State committee of their party out of a chance to wote on the question. Will Buck whites Earn Record are interesting: "In no county in the State, perhaps, is the local option feature of the Democratic platform so unpopular with the rank and file of Democratic option feature of the Democratic platform so unpopular with the rank and file of Democratic organization here are the Democratic organization here.

and file of Democrats as in the county of Luzerne! The men who make up the Democratic organization here are largely opposed to local option. This feeling of antagonism is best reflected in the attitude of the Democratic candidates for the Legislature from the various districts. Not a single Democratic nominee in Luzerne county is willing to abide by the party platform in case he is elected. This situation is unusual, to say the least, and is without parallel in the political history of this county—if not the entire State."

This is the title of a pamphlet which, according to Amos R. E. Plinchot, was widely distributed by George W. Perkins from Progressive headquarters in the Presidential campaign of 1912. Mr. Pinchot says that when Colorado headquarters wired to Mr. Perkins for Progressive literature he responded by sending large crates containing this pamphlet, which had these lines:

"It was the night before Albert J. Beveridge delivered his keynote speech of the new political crusade. He asked Colonel Roosevelt, George W. Perkins and a few other leaders to come to his room and hear him read the manuscript. The reading proceeded in tense silence. Beveridge was evidently laboring under emotion, and Colonel Roosevelt was himself visibly moved.
