Measure Passes Senate After Long Cases Are Speeded Along After Fight by Vote of 50 to 35

By Associated Press
Washington, June 12.—The bill to repeal the tolls exemption for American coastwise ships in the Panama canal law to-day awaited the action of the House. The measure was expected to be sent over to the House to-day from the Senate where it was passed late yesterday after a prolonged fight marked by considerable bitterness of feeling. The vote was 50 to 35.

As finally adopted only one change was made in the repeal bill as it was bassed by the House. That was the Simmons-Norris amendment reserving the right of the United States to exempt coastwise ships from payment of tolls.

exempt coastwise ships from payment of tolls.

The bill together with the amendment is expected to be taken up at once by the House. It has not been determined whether the House would accept the amendment or send the bill to conference. Administration leaders believe the amendment will be agreed to by the House without delay. Should the House without delay. Should the House accept the amendment the bill will not have to be returned to the Senate, except for the signature of the presiding officer, it would then go to the White House for President Wilson's approval or veto. Administration leaders in Congress were to-day practically sure that
