New York, June 15.—The will of Harris C. Farnestock, formerly of Harrisburg, late president of the First National Bank, filed with the Surrogate Saturday, gives various public institutions approximately $540,000.

Mr. Farnestock died on June 4, in his home, No. 457 Madison avenue. The value of his estate is said to be in excess of $1,000,000.

Bequests of $100,000 each were made to the Charity Organization Society; Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor; Presbyterian Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital and the Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital; of $25,000 to St. Thomas' Church, $10,000 to the trustees of the Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and $5,000 to the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Sibel A. Hubbard, wife of General Thomas H. Hubbard, and the testator's sister, receives $100,000. Other residuary beneficiaries provided for. The sum of $10,000 is set aside for the purchase of mementoes to be given to the testator's closest friends, a similar amount for distribution to employees of the First National Bank and $2,000 to be used in purchasing gifts for his servants.

Bryan and President Confer on Make-up of Mexican Government

Washington, D. C., June 15.—Secretary Bryan conferred at length with President Wilson over the progress of the Mexican mediation. Harris and immediately afterward despatched a long telegram to the American delegates at the Niagara conference, which, it was understood, concerned the proposed provisional government and the attitude of the Mexican delegates, with an object personal executive with Constitutional leanings.

Mr. Bryan would not discuss the nature of his conference with the President and would only say that mediation was "progressing satisfactorily." His opinion revealed here that the United States would not recede in its desire to have named as the head of the temporary government which would succeed Huerta a man who would be acceptable to the revolutionary faction.

PERKINS BECOMES AN ISSUE WITH PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Washington, D. C., June 15.—"I think that the objections raised against George W. Perkins as leader of the Progressive party by Amos Pinchot Saturday, are entirely unwarranted," said Representative M. Clyde Kelly, of Pittsburgh, discussing the attack, which has caused great uneasiness in the Progressive party throughout the country. "If we shall continue to stand as a party of principle, we cannot afford to permit Mr. Perkins to be attacked at the head of our party. He undoubtedly stands for a principle governing trusts that is not acceptable to the Progressive voters."

PENROSE DISCUSSES BUSINESS DEPRESSION

Phila. June 15.—A repetition of the industrial depression of 1874-5-6, the reduction of the American working-man to the level of the foreign workman, the removal of many of this country's industries to foreign lands, hard times that would even effect the farmers of the West and Middle West, were in substance the prophecy made by Senator Penrose, for the immediate future, unless speedy and radical steps are taken to counteract the workings of the Underwood tariff bill. The Senator spoke last night at the Fairhill, Baptist Church in Kensington.

The announced subject of his address was "The Cause and Cure of Hard Times." The Senator remarked that he would have preferred to choose a more pleasing topic, but that he had been requested by the pastor Rev. Dr. Charles E. McClellan, to discuss the hard times, since the community around the church was so vitally affected.

The opening of the Underwood tariff bill was in the belief of the Senator, the direct contributing cause of the conditions he complained of. The cure the Senator sees in legislation, which will not open the markets of America to foreign traders to the exclusion of home manufacturers, but which will provide equitable tariff legislation for all Americans. The operation of the new tariff law has brought about, the Senator produced figures to show that the losses to Mexico in foreign trade resulting from the civil war there have only been one-third of the losses to the United States in foreign trade resulting from the Underwood tariff bill.

DEMOCRATS WAR HERE AND ABROAD

the party at the next congressional elections as sure as fate. "I have lived through a good many changes at Washington," said a very eminent publicist, "but I have never known just such a condition as that now obtaining here and throughout the country. There is a growing state of mind that the President has failed to appreciate his opportunities. No body doubts his sincerity of purpose; nearly every one with whom I have come in contact condemns his course in dealing with many of the most delicate and important questions of judgment to his greatest weakness."

Worried Leaders Democratic leaders are not disposed to discuss the revenue situation these days. They are plainly worried, but are hopeful that something will turn up to relieve them of their present embarrassments.

Senator Weeks, back from Washington for a vacation, is gloomy over business conditions and blames President Wilson for the depression. He pointed out that fundamentally conditions were sound everywhere, but business was far from satisfactory. Complaints from all sections of the country, Mr. Weeks said, were due to the balance of trade being against us and a widespread lack of confidence, capital positively refusing to venture into new business until assured of a reasonable opportunity to develop the particular industry involved.

Menaces to Administration The continued depression in business affairs in all parts of the country, the apparent disposition of the Administration to "stand in" with organized labor without regard to the rights of other larger and equally important elements among the people, the falling off in the export trade and in the revenue, the blundering handling of the Mexican question, the breach of good faith as to the armistice with Huerta, which was sought by the Administration when it intimidated the A. B. C. diplomats that it would like to find some way to avert war with Mexico, the unpleasantness with the Grand Army of the Republic—these are some of the causes which threaten the party in power; at least these are the things which the common enemy, of course, and many of the most loyal of the party in power are talking about with steadily increasing cheer.

A former United States Senator, who was seriously talked of a few years ago as the best presidential timber in the Democratic party, returned to Washington last week after a somewhat extended business trip through the West and South with the most gloomy talk of the changes in political sentiment.

A Tobogganing Party A thick-and-thin Democratic member from South Carolina was reported last night as ready to throw up the sponge, saying: "We are tobogganing at a rate which means the defeat of

Ryan for Governor are expected to figure in the attack upon the local option plank. "Speaking as an individual, and as one who has taken an active interest in the advancement of Democracy, I cannot and will not subscribe to the local option plank in what is claimed to be the platform of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania," said Chairman Bromley last night. "The Democratic State committee was adjourned hastily with no opportunity being given for discussion of the issue and the nine men who drafted the so-called platform, which was never submitted to the State committee, simply speak for themselves."
