signs telling them not to expectorate. The conference with the market-house representatives resulted in a complete expression of a willingness on their part to co-operate in the movement toward giving Harrisburg cleaner food, and also developed several valuable suggestions which may be carried out in the future. One of these suggestions was that the market-houses install co-operative refrigerators and that each butcher rent a portion of it. Another was the idea of placing all the meat stands in one section of each building so that better safeguards could be provided to keep the meat free from infection.

To Provide Screens
The discussion brought out the fact that the market-house owners are willing to provide screens for doors and windows, and one house has already ordered them. In respect to the individual stalls or booths, each must be responsible for the cleanliness of his own stand.

One of the practices against which special vigilance will be maintained is the handling of food by the public. In addition to signs cautioning the public against this practice, the inspectors and market-house officials will co-operate in breaking up this practice. Section 19 of the food regulations reads: "The owners of market-houses or other enclosed places where foodstuffs are exposed for sale shall provide proper protection against handling by the public. This shall not apply to fruit and vegetables."

In Various Languages
It is believed that the public will co-operate in these measures, and to insure the impression reaching every one, Dr. Raunkjvill probably have the regulations and the big signs above mentioned printed in several foreign languages.

The taking out of licenses has been going on steadily. Yesterday 150 licenses were issued. Of the fourteen cases brought by the Board of Health as an example to recalcitrant dealers, all paid their licenses and costs, amounting to between $3 and $4. The fines were not imposed.

The Board of Health yesterday let a contract for furnishing drug supplies to E. Z. Gross, 119 Market street, from a field of eight bidders.

What's to Be Done
Here is a summary of the general regulations imposed by the Health Board:

"Food dispensers must be licensed. Contaminated food must be removed as directed. Uncleanliness bars sale privilege. Food dispensers must quickly tell of infectious diseases. Absolute cleanliness in room or shop or vehicle. No food made or sold in living rooms or sleeping rooms. Transported food must be fully protected from dirt. Tickets or coupons in milk bottles barred. Animals not allowed where food is made or sold. Public to co-operate by informing of violations. Keep the place clean."

third group of boilers. She sprang a leak which, however, could be kept under control. The damage to Kaiser Wilhelm II apparently is less considerable than was at first supposed.

The first class dining saloon of the Kaiser Wilhelm II was badly drenched with water and the passengers were compelled to take their breakfast to-day in a saloon on the upper deck.

A. G. Eames, of Chicago, a passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm, said: "I was in my cabin when I heard sound like the report of a cannon. My steward immediately after-ward and began speaking in German. I said, 'For God's sake get out of here, as I wanted to dress, but he caught hold of me and pushed me out, saying they were closing the watertight compartment and that if I did not hurry I should be shut in.'"

"When I reached the deck I found the first and second class passengers behaving very calmly. There was great excitement among the steerage passengers. The women were shrieking and crying and the men running about aimlessly waving their hands."

"One woman who, I believe, was an Italian, threw her arms round my neck and I had to force her off."

"I cannot understand how the collision occurred because our fog signal was sounding all the time. We had come almost to a standstill and had just started moving again when we were struck."

D. M. von Schilling, of Hampton, Va., who was on the deck when the vessels struck, said:

"I was in the smoking saloon when I heard two blasts of a whistle on the starboard side of the Kaiser Wilhelm II. I immediately went on deck. Our vessel was blowing single blasts. I heard two more blasts a little closer and then about 200 yards off saw the dim outline of a steamer coming out of the fog."

"She struck us amidships and I distinctly saw the bows of the Incomore crumple up while the men on her deck were thrown flat by the force of the impact."

"It seemed to me at the moment of the collision that the engines of the Incomore were stopped, as I could see no movement of her propellers."

"The discipline on board the Kaiser Wilhelm II was perfect. The lifeboats had been cleared and were ready for lowering within ten minutes."

"The first and second class passengers remained quite calm, but there was considerable commotion among the steerage passengers, who had been provided with lifebelts."

"We expected to have to take to the boats, as the impact was so great that serious damage seemed certain."

"The Kaiser Wilhelm II stopped for half an hour after the collision, while the Incomore slipped back into the fog and we did not see her again."

HOGESTOWN SHOW
VISITED BY 5,000

At 10 o'clock, when the judging of horses was started, a big crowd surrounded the enclosure. This afternoon the crowd had grown to such an extent that live and six rows of people stood all around the circle watching the judging. The judging ring is at the base of a hillside and stretching along this latter place hundreds of persons found points from which to see the various entries.

Show Best Ever
As a whole this year the show appears to be better than in former years. The graded stock is excellent. Registered cattle is one of the features.

During the two days of the show C. S. Smith, secretary, and S. C. Babbie, treasurer, of the Central Pennsylvania Poultry Association, have been here in the interest of the poultry show which the association will hold in Harrisburg in December. Mr. Smith has a number of blue ribbon winners entered here.

For the children there are many amusements, but nothing interests them more than the fifty ponies and colts brought here from the Carlisle Shetland Pony Farm. For hours at a time the youngsters enjoy themselves playing with the pretty little animals.

Beautiful, Soft, Fluffy Hair an Aid to Beauty

Who does not love a head of pretty hair? Some women think it is a gift of nature and envy their more fortunate sisters. If your hair is not fluffy, soft and lustrous, it is falling out, streaked, faded, brittle, or full of dandruff, and if the scalp itches, do not think it must always be that way, for pretty hair is only a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots. Hair is something like a plant—it neglected it soon withers and dies, while with a little attention it keeps fresh and beautiful.

Parisian Sage is a scientific preparation that supplies just the elements needed to invigorate the hair roots and stimulate the hair to grow long, thick, fluffy, soft and lustrous. It removes dandruff with one application and quickly stops itching head and falling hair. It is the ideal hair tonic and scalp treatment for men, women and children—contains nothing injurious and is delicately perfumed.

H. C. Kennedy or any drug or toilet counter can supply you with Parisian Sage—it is inexpensive. You cannot be disappointed with this delightful and helpful hair tonic, for the first few days' use will give the hair the life and charm of youth.—Advertisement.

PASTOR TO RESIGN

It is reported that the Rev. A. I. Colton, for more than three years pastor of the Coxetown M. E. church, has resigned from the pastorate and will retire from the ministry.

A FINE COMPLEXION

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter to concern her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Parents should be watchful of their daughters' complexions, and should see to it that these danger signs are corrected, not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. Every girl should read the chapter on "Chlorosis" in the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood." It tells just what to do and gives directions regarding diet, exercise and rest.

The girl with a muddy complexion should have the booklet, "A Dainty Laxative," which tells about Pinklets.

These books will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist can supply Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Advertisement.
