COMPLAINTS ABOUT WAY
William Lauder Retires After Forty-six Years in the Iron Business in Bedford

Nathan R. Buller, State Commissioner of Fisheries, today announced that the fishway at McCall's Ferry would be extended and a number of changes made which he hoped would improve conditions. Work will be started on Monday and the way extended about 300 feet into the stream on the lower side and betterments will also be made to the upper end.

Complaints have been made to the Department of Fisheries that the fishway was not a success and that it did not permit shad to get up owing to the steep approach and the swiftness of the current. It is now the plan to extend the way so that there will be an easier approach.
