STANDARD RULES

Commissioner Jackson and Industrial Board Will Sit at Capitol on Wednesday

MOVIE REGULATIONS READY

News of the Day Found About the Departments of the State Government Today

The standards of safety agreed upon for the conduct of "movie" theaters, for the regulation and standardizing of machinery and mechanical transmission of power will be submitted to the public by the Pennsylvania State Industrial Board at a public hearing to be held in the Capitol on Wednesday, morning, July 8. The standards have been prepared by committees representing safety experts, managers, superintendents, employes, supply firms, casualty company inspectors, architects and engineers who have held numerous meetings and if the regulations prove satisfactory they will be adopted and promulgated to take effect at times to be announced.

These hearings will be the first of a series to be held and will mark an important step by the board. Arrangements have been made that those desiring to make suggestions, but unable to attend may send them by letter to Commissioner of Labor John Price Jackson.

The regulations for "movies" will be for buildings now in operation and rules for buildings to be erected for that purpose will be made later. They have been under discussion for weeks and numerous meetings have been held, the fire marshals of the State, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh having met with the members in efforts to decide upon standards for exits, alsies, equipment and other details for quick emptying of theaters. Several tests of means to empty buildings were made and fire proof materials subjected to severe measures.

Herman Zook, of Belleville, Mifflin county, complains to the commission that the tolls exacted by the West Kishacoquillas Turnpike Company are unjust and unreasonabe for the service furnished. ONE FIRE; ONE ACCIDENT

One Fire; one serious accident is the Fourth of July record in 1914. A slight blaze at Rhoads' stable, Forster and Cowden streets, was put out with a few buckets of water before firemen arrived. It is said that a lighted fire-cracker, thrown carelessly through the window, started the blaze. The only accident recorded, aside from a few minor burns, was the burning of the eyes of Robert Deen, 12, son of William Deen, 556 Forster street, when he was hit by a ball from a Roman candle. He is being treated at the Harrisburg Hospital.

AT THE PALACE

When Lucille again finds herself in the hands of Hugo Loubeque all the spirit of fight is temporarily taken out of her. Consequently she allows herself to be led to another of Loubeque's strongholds.

To make easy his plans for removing the girl to his Mexican estate, Loubeque orders her drugged. Realizing the useless of combating him, Lucille agrees to drink a potion of drugged wine, providing that a lady attends her during the trip to Mexico.

Thompson, Loubeque's right-hand man, knows that Lucille has the costly

July Reductions-

This season our sales have topped all previous Doutrich records---thanks to the growing appreciation of Dauphin County men of such good wearing apparel as Kuppenheimer Clothes---but up to this hour we have kept our stock complete and replete in every particular. For while ragged broken lot assortments are now the order of the day in other stores, it is the Doutrich idea to replenish our lines as they are depleted--keeping the stocks full so that you can make as satisfactory a selection July 1st as April 1st.

But as a direct result of that, we must now take steps to see that this "up to the hour" stock is passed from our racks to our fellow citizens' backs, in accordance with the Doutrich principle of selling merchandise in its season---and in its season only. Understand we have no complaints to make about "backward season"; no "job lots" to offer; none of the usual subterfuges offered by merchants in "reduced circumstances."

This Doutrich event has nothing in common with such sales. It is not the result of bad merchandising judgment or anybody's mistake. It is simply a stroke of good business --- a method of keeping the pledge we have made to Harrisburg people, and we say it sincerely and in all earnestness: profit is a secondary consideration with us now. For what we lose in money, we more than make up in the measure of good will which such events as this have won for the Live Store.

The result is the greatest July money saving opportunity Clothing buyers of this community have had in years.
