CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST INSPECTOR

could not be dismissed with the statement that this was not the first time charges have been preferred against an inspecting official. He termed these charges a bill of indictment, which would have to be handled thoroughly and impartially. He said that Mr. Linnen, by virtue of this position and because of his methods of investigation, espionage and vindictiveness, had such an influence over the entire Indian service that no official of that service was in a position to make an unbiased investigation of his conduct.

Finally Mr. Friedman says that while the Indian Office has printed and spread broadly since his resignation the charges against him and has from time to time continued these tactics through the newspapers, the complete answers have been suppressed in the Indian Office. Mr. Friedman's letter follows:

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8, 1914. The President, Washington, D. C. Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 7th inst. against Chief Inspector E. B. Linnen, of the Indian Service, who has recently made an investigation of the activities of the Indian School. I am impelled to send these charges direct to you because for some time past I have heard and have gone the worst possible prosecution at the hands of this man, whose investigations were conducted in a manner which if allowed to go unchecked in other places will result in an impairment of the entire Federal service. It has been impossible for me to obtain full justice through the regular channels, hence this communication to you.

The charges follow: CHARGE I. EMPLOYMENT OF IMPROPER AND DISHONORABLE METHODS IN INVESTIGATION.

SPECIFICATION 1. That in his entire examination of witnesses he encouraged and magnified adverse testimony, and that he so intimidated that subordinate employees that he was unable to give testimony, favorable to the superintendent, which he made known to the superintendent and to discredit those heads of departments who gave favorable testimony.

SPECIFICATION 2. That the statements were openly made, and his conduct reflected the sentiment therein, that the superintendent and his staff would be protected and welcomed, and that the inspector made improper remarks to the superintendent, and that he heard adverse evidence against the superintendent, for the purpose of making adverse public opinion among students and employees and to create a hostile atmosphere.

SPECIFICATION 3. That he solicited by special privilege and favors, and to the Indian students their support, and by his conduct and speech, and that he was antagonistic to the superintendent to believe that they had been ill-treated in the past, and that he was antagonistic to the superintendent, and friendly and partial to others, and that he was antagonistic to the superintendent, and friendly and partial to others, and that he was antagonistic to the superintendent, and friendly and partial to others.

SPECIFICATION 4. That he wrote to the incompetent and disgruntled employees of the school who were transferred or removed for cause during the period of six years of the present superintendent's superintendency, and encouraged them to assist him in his effort to discredit the superintendent and his staff.

SPECIFICATION 5. That he wrote to the incompetent and disgruntled employees of the school who were transferred or removed for cause during the period of six years of the present superintendent's superintendency, and encouraged them to assist him in his effort to discredit the superintendent and his staff.

SPECIFICATION 6. That he over-ruled the superintendent's suspension of certain employees, who were disloyal, showing his investigation to be biased.

SPECIFICATION 7. That for an extended period he had an Indian girl servant in his home, who was drawing a large salary, and an additional $4 per diem for expenses, whereas he had no other servants, and that he employed unremunerated personal servants in his home, and that he employed unremunerated personal servants in his home, and that he employed unremunerated personal servants in his home.

SPECIFICATION 8. That he looked against certain employees, who were disloyal, showing his investigation to be biased.

SPECIFICATION 9. That he looked against certain employees, who were disloyal, showing his investigation to be biased.

SPECIFICATION 10. That he looked against certain employees, who were disloyal, showing his investigation to be biased.

Store Clerks Make Merry on First Closing Day

Two big outings and scores of smaller picnics marked the beginning of the Friday half-holiday season today. It was a full holiday for the employees of the Bowman department store, who went out in autos early this morning to the Old Mill along the Conodoguinet.

The employees of the Moorhead Knitting company also suspended operations for the entire day in order that its employees might disport at Hershey. The start was made at 8:30 this morning. Employees of many stores celebrated the day in the open with picnics at the parks and excursions to nearby places.

OLD GUARDSMEN GO RIGHT TO WILSON

Philadelphia Chieftains Tell the President About the Democratic Troubles

THEY EVEN RAPPED DR. BRYAN

Notice Served That Palmer's Leadership Will Be Bitterly Attacked Hereafter

Special to The Telegraph.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—The chieftains of the Old Guard in Philadelphia's Democracy are not wanting in nerve anyway. While Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer was in Philadelphia slating some postmasters for districts where congressmen are opposing his selections, B. Gordon Bromley, chairman of the Philadelphia city committee, and John O'Donnell, a stiff Ryan man, came here and went to the White House and kicked. They kicked right to the President, too.

The visit of the Philadelphians was a surprise and attracted attention of men from other States to the split condition of the Keystone Democracy, which has been proclaimed by the Palmer-McCormick belovs brigade to be united and harmonious. They had an engagement at the White House about which even Jim Blaklee knew nothing and they got in to see the President and protested vehemently against the recognition of Palmer as the dispenser of patronage. It is also said they had the nerve to rap Bryan for dabbling in Pennsylvania affairs.

Means a Revolt

The general impression here is that the visit was serving of notice on the President that the Pennsylvania machine was not the whole thing and that congressmen who have been ignored by Palmer will get busy. It is openly stated here that some of the congressmen are going to meet the Palmer and McCormick hustle for themselves. The Democratic congressional campaign committee members are somewhat inclined to help the congressmen and to let Palmer look after his own affairs, several of them being urged to do so.

The denunciation of Palmer by the Philadelphia Democrats in Congress has started men from other sections and when he gets back here, having been away for some time, he will find men demanding to know about the selections for various post offices. It is said that efforts to frustrate the establishment of the Scranton revenue district because Palmer wants it are under way. The Senate is bucking the White House anyway and a slap at Palmer would not be hard to engineer.

Democratic Story of the Split in This State Told the President

The Philadelphia Record to-day carries this account of the visit of Chairman Bromley and O'Donnell: "The chief political happenings of the past several months which have a bearing upon the present unwholesome situation of the State are sketched in the official dispensers of patronage evidenced for the wishes of loyal Democrats in all parts of the State in dishing out the jobs to their partisans. The total of the disloyalty toward the national administration which has been aroused by Secretary of State Bryan and other Palmer adherents in seeking to thrust the Palmer-McCormick candidacy down the throats of the Pennsylvania Democrats with the argument that the Palmer-McCormick ticket was White House made and stamped."

"He told of many other incidents which had irritated Democrats of the State who otherwise were loyal to the national administration and of the consistent failure of the chief candidates of the State Democracy to seek to bridge the gulf which exists between them and the united support of their party. In conclusion, Mr. Bromley indicated the belief that unless some forceful means are found for remedying the ills of the present condition there will be a sad paucity of Democratic congressmen and a still sadder outlook for the approval of the Wilson administration in the national campaign two years from now.

"The city chairman told of the dissatisfaction that is depressing the minds of Democrats in the Keystone State and thus depreciating the chances for electing Democratic members of Congress. He told of the ugly feeling which has been aroused against Senatorial Candidate Palmer and his political lieutenants, both by the personal unpopularity of many of the patronage jobs they have secured and by the high-handed methods they have employed in making these appointments. The picture which Mr. Bromley painted brought an expression of pain and surprise to the face of President Wilson, who, until this time, had been receiving most of his information from other sources, where rosy and imaginative optimism had greater sway than in the practical mind of the city chairman."
