PASSENGER CARS MUST ALL BE SAFE General Manager A. C. Long Issues an Order Regarding Foreign Cars; Affects All Roads

With the inauguration of the annual weekly excursions to the seashore this week the order from General Manager A. C. Long, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to inspect thoroughly all foreign cars will go into effect.

The order is to accept no car that will not pass inspection under the Interstate Commerce Commission's new regulations. All foreign cars must be thoroughly inspected before allowed to continue over the Pennsylvania lines to points of destination.

The law was passed several years ago by Congress after the recommendation of the Interstate Commerce Commission and applied to all the rolling stock of railroads in the United States.

HARRISBURG VERY FORTUNATE CITY

hundreds of railroadmen have been on furlough for many months, that neither freight nor passenger traffic is up to what it was a year ago; that the iron mills are working at 30 to 40 per cent. capacity; that mills and factories report very poor business, and that many of them are working only part time, by the large amount of improvement work under way in preventing anything like general suffering.

The construction of nearly two miles of sewer wall and steps, the building of a new sewer, the paving of streets, the laying of sewers, the extension of the water mains and the sewerage of Paxton creek, all municipal developments, are giving work to hundreds of skilled and unskilled laborers who otherwise would be idle.

Added to this, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is going ahead with its preparations for the erection of a great freight station and yards in the lower end of the city and, with the placing of subway beneath the tracks of the Cumberland Valley Railroad in the Mulberry street when they intersect Front and Second streets.

The strikers began calling the men at work names, and finally they went to the men and dragged them from their work.

When the strikers saw Backenstoss' badge and club they left in a hurry.
