Improvident administration of the New Haven as shown in this investigation are the Boston and Maine despoliment; the iniquity of the West Chester acquisition; the double price paid for the Rhode Island trolleys; the recklessness in the purchase of Connecticut and Massachusetts trolleys at prices exorbitantly in excess of their market value; the unwarranted expenditure of large amounts of money for the purchase of the 'educating public opinion'...

MAN FILED IN COURT SENTENCED TO HANG

According to Attorney William L. Looser, chief counsel for Fleming, his appeal case to the Board of Pardons and ask for commutation of life imprisonment.

Fleming was convicted of having shot his mother-in-law, Mrs. Louisa Brien, a year ago last May when she surprised him during the early morning hours kissing his sleeping wife and baby daughter, while he was making a surreptitious visit to the home of his mother-in-law.

Fleming's appearance in court was more or less of a surprise to attorneys and the comparatively few witnesses and other spectators who had gathered in the courtroom for a brief session of sentence court. Fleming himself appeared bright and cheerful.

Unlike his former appearance when he moved to the new trial, Fleming was clear-eyed and alert. Heretofore Fleming sat constantly with his head bowed on his breast and never raised his eyes.

Should Fleming's final effort to save himself from the gallows by appeal to the Board of Pardons prove vain, he will be the last man who will be executed by hanging. Thereafter the condemned murderers will pay the law's penalty in the electric chair.

Judge McCarrell's opinion was comprehensive and dealt exhaustively with each of the points raised by the defense upon which it hoped to obtain a reversal. Much of the opinion was given to overruling the "after discovered" evidence of Dr. Thomas Blair, the State's insanity expert.

Fleming thanked his counsel and the jury. He said he was a direct descendant of the city's founder.

DAUPHIN COUNTY'S OLDEST RECORD DOCKET

Attorney B. Frank Nead presented the gift and on the inside cover is a brief note to the effect that it was included among a list of books purchased from Major William C. Armour, the old curiosity and bookseller who held forth until his death a few years ago, at the store in Court street just north of Market.

The old docket is in comparatively good shape although the pages are yellowed with the passage of more than a hundred years and the ink, while gradually fading, is still legible.

The book which is about the size of the average corner grocer's ledger is devoted entirely to the appearances booked for consideration by the courts of Dauphin; part of the volume is taken up with much figuring, the private accounts of canal boat cargoes kept by Robert Harris, Harris, Thomas and his direct descendant of the city's founder.

In a similarly yellowed book in his filing case Prothonotary Holler found a book which gave the dates and names of prothonotaries who served during the period established.

CHARCOAL FUMES END HOUND LIVES

Dogs captured last week by City Dogcatcher William Layton, were put to death in the pound this morning by James Martin and his assistant, Harry Harp. Charcoal fumes did the work and it is estimated that from three to five minutes time was required to end the life of each doomed canine.

Considerable interest was attached to the killing to-day, this being the first of the season, and because the S. P. C. A. believes that electricity would provide a more humane way of ending the dogs' lives than charcoal fumes.

While at the pound this morning Colonel Hutchison ordered that another pen be constructed in which small dogs must be kept until the time when they can be put to death. Of the more than forty dogs in the pound this morning several of them were very large and these snapped and bit savagely at the smaller canines.

ALL THE WORLD IS GOING TO SCHOOL

"All the world is going to school and to work," declared the Rev. Dr. A. W. Halsey, secretary of the Presbyterian church board of foreign missions, yesterday morning in an address at the Paxton Presbyterian church, Paxtang.

The Rev. Mr. Halsey said that during a recent trip through the mission countries along the Mediterranean Sea he was surprised at the spirit of progress being awakened in the northern African and Asiatic Minor countries.

He declared the religions of the East are fast weakening as the banner of Christianity is unfurled. Co-operation of the many Protestant denominations in the work of foreign evangelization, the mission secretary holds as one of the most important factors in bringing the eastern peoples to Christ.
