

CREASY GUM SHOE WORK REVEALED

Said in Pittsburgh to be Working to Put McCormick to the Front

Special to The Telegraph
Pittsburgh, July 15.—William N. McNair, of Pittsburgh, the Democratic candidate for secretary of internal affairs, does not propose to enter into a fusion deal with William Flinn and the other Bull Mooseers. He thinks it is time for the Democratic leaders to make it clear to the people of the State that they have no intention of trafficking with Flinn.

It will be recalled that "Farmer" William T. Creasy, the Democratic nominee for secretary of government, appeared in Pittsburgh on the night of June 29, the day before the Bull Mooseers held their State conference at the Fort Pitt Hotel. Creasy mingled with the Mooseers at the hotel and was intimate with them as he was to talk fusion. Recent developments show the surmise must have been correct. Creasy has been sounding some leading Democrats to learn how they would view fusion and has even suggested possible tickets. It is understood that he is ready to stand aside if the Flinn plan of sidetracking William Draper Lewis, the Washington nominee for governor, and endorsing Vance C. McCormick, Democrat, goes through. There is talk of making Lewis the candidate for lieutenant governor. This scheme would have both Creasy and Percy F. Smith, the Washington nominee for the place.

The opinion is being expressed that Creasy in authoring the fusion pact with Democrats on the one hand and McCormick and possibly A. Mitchell Palmer, who do not want to appear in the open until they learn how the proposed deal with the Bull Mooseers is viewed, has been acting on several occasions that he would get off the ticket, but there is no record of McCormick ever having said he would not deal with the Mooseers.

RAINY DAY TOYS
On days when children cannot be out and play the ingenuity and patience of mothers are tested to the utmost. Pamos pictures to cut and paste; paper dolls to paint; barns full of animals to color; transfer pictures; books that glow; and soap bubble outfits are here for children's amusement and instruction. Marianne Kinder Markt, 218 Locust street.

WHEN "DRY" IS WET
When clothing and the nest garment is "dry cleaned" it does not mean what the name usually implies. Dry cleaning consists of using a certain kind of soap has been dissolved which acts the same as ordinary soap does in water. It removes all soil and grease spots without injuring or fading the fabric. Phone for Finkelstein, 1320 North Sixth street.

BUSINESS NEGLECTED
Is business lost? Your mailing list or the city direct and the names of people who are interested in your merchandise. Remind them occasionally that you have just the thing they need. Harrisburg School Sketches

BY J. HOWARD WERT

No. 6—Some Contrasts Between 1874 and 1914. What Forty Years Has Done in the Way of Our Public School Development. The High Schools of 1874 and 1914.

As already stated, the seating capacity of all the school buildings of 1874, including many rented rooms, was 4,995. To-day it is 11,500, with a continual demand for more buildings. Forty years ago the city had 92 teachers in its public schools, inclusive of the four special teachers in music and drawing. To-day the number is 295, or more than triple the teaching force of 1874.

In 1874 the city had eighteen school buildings that were its own property, but nine of them were of the most trifling character for school purposes containing but one or two rooms. There were others that were equipped for a teaching force of but three, while the largest number of teachers that could be accommodated in that school building of the city was eight. To-day the city has twenty-seven school buildings, exclusive of the houses used only for open-air schools. But several of these are of a size so enormous and so large as to require the construction of 25 to 30 many rooms that from 16 to 25 teachers are required to instruct the pupils who pour through their portals daily. Indeed, it would be an easy task from these twenty-seven school buildings to select five to accommodate the entire school population of Harrisburg in a single house better than they then were accommodated.

Financial and Property Growth
The public school directory of 1874 gives a carefully itemized statement of the property of the district, which sums up in value to $331,650 for real estate and $19,147 for furniture, making a total of $350,797. To-day the real estate of the district is valued at $1,400,000. The estimated value of the valuation of forty years ago; and it is probable that this is a very conservative estimate. The valuation placed on the present furniture holdings of the district is $125,000, or more than six times as much as in 1874.

In this valuation of school properties of 1874 it is interesting to note that the Boas and Verbeke buildings, now mere pigmies compared with more recent erections, head the list at $45,000 each. The Commodore DeWitt building at $35,000, the West State street school at $30,000, the old Harris Park frame and the Pennsylvania Avenue each at $25,000, while the Mt. Pleasant, the Lochiel and the Ridge Avenue (Sixth street) buildings are placed in the $20,000 class.

Thus the valuation trails on downward till we find that the school board of that period had buildings in which schools were conducted which, with the ground belonging to them, were valued at but $3,000 and $2,000, while the little shack in Fourth street, next to the Mt. Vernon firehouse, which was a school room for many years, was rated at $600.

The High Schools of 1874
But perhaps the most suggestive and interesting points of contrast between 1874 and 1914, is presented by the statistics of the high schools then and now.

In 1874 all the high school boys of the city were housed in a single room occupying less than half the floor space of the second floor of the old Lancasterian building. This room was on the eastern side and could be made to accommodate about eighty pupils, or more properly, about eighty boys, could be crowded into it, very much like sardines in a box, with little regard to either comfort or sanitary conditions.

Over this room presided Principal P. Leedy, with two assistants, Miss Martha M. Tomkinson and Miss Edith P. Leedy, in two little recitation rooms.

The Girls' High School of 1874
So much for the Boys' High School. The girls of the city taking a high school course were housed in a portion of the small building in West State street which was smaller then than now, for it had not then received the addition, which was made to it a few years later. In the same small building were also schools of both the intermediate and grammar grades. The girls of the high school occupied three rooms, none of them as large as the lone room appropriated to the boys. The three teachers of these schools were Miss Maria E. Gill, the principal, and her assistants, Misses Eliza A. Bishop and Virginia F. Sample. There was also a recitation room, the teacher of which heard recitations from both the grammar and high schools.

We find, then, that in 1874 the entire high school pupillage of Harrisburg was housed in four meagerly equipped rooms, with a faculty of six teachers, counting the two recitation room teachers, who gave but part of their time to high school work as one.

You all know the two magnificent high school buildings your city has to-day with their many ample and adequate equipped rooms; and yet one of them is crowded with a provision for its pupils has become one of the burning school questions of the near future. In those two high schools forty-two teachers were employed last year as against the six years ago.

Passing Impressions of Finance

By H. L. Bennet

For a patient considered but a month or so ago to have safely come out of a serious crisis, as did the Missouri Pacific when arrangements were made for the extension of a pressing note debt for another year, the present sinking spell in the road's securities has unsettled all the high hopes then raised that it had been saved in place of confidence there now prevails grave doubts in many minds whether it has not become necessary for the so-called financial doctors of the securities to perform another operation on the road's capital obligations so as to bring these obligations within those reasonable boundaries where the property can earn a comfortable living without the spectre of how to meet its bills, constantly arising.

At no time in the Missouri Pacific's history has its securities and those of the properties with which it is affiliated been so low as they are now. Missouri Pacific stock is under ten dollars a share, its convertible bonds around forty-six and one-half. Such low bottoms augur no good. People who own these securities are not selling them unless actuated by fear of the future. Certainly these prices do not follow speculation for the short account. Denver & Rio Grande securities are also selling at low prices. The Western Pacific first mortgage bonds whose interest and principal is guaranteed by the Denver & Rio Grande are under forty-three though when they were first sold to investors they brought ninety-six.

It is in the Western Pacific where most of the troubles of the Gould lines rest. This is Gould's folly. It cost so much money to build the road that in the four years it has operated it has not been able to even earn the interest on its first mortgage bonds. This has necessitated the Denver & Rio Grande digging deep down into its own pockets to make good the deficit. Without this heavy load on its back the Denver & Rio Grande no doubt would be to-day paying the preferred dividend without difficulty which it had to pass about two years ago to help out the cripple which it has been supporting.

How dull and unpsychological business is, is borne out by the week's copper producers' statistics showing an increase in metal on hand of over 21,000,000 pounds. The steel industry remains almost as quiet. Yet we may safely regard both these unsatisfactory showings as shadow good, the while other brighter signs from another direction portend that a turn in the road has come leading to better things. Europe on one hand gives every indication of less dependence upon our financial stores. British consols are steadily advancing in price. It was the British consols which first haunted the signal of a world-wide depression to shadow good, the while could not escape, and we had to take back bags of our securities. France succeeded in arousing optimism all over the world by the brilliant success it met in placing its last government loan. Were it not for the pressure placed on market by the Gould and the New Haven incidents we might by this time have seen considerable recovery in our own securities.

The most hopeful sign with us is the prospect of a bumper harvest. She has rubbed her Aladdin lamp and lo! there has gushed forth a new mountain of wealth. A few years ago when it was predicted a harvest of over $9,000,000,000 but he has not only lived to see his estimate realized but exceeded by a few billion dollars, for every sign indicates that when the farmers count what wealth Mother Earth has brought them this year it will top Hill's figures by such an amount.

The general bond market was inactive. There was not as much return of July dividend and interest payments for new purchases as was anticipated but in financial circles the inactivity is ascribed to a desire on the part of investors to wait until the Interstate Commerce Commission has rendered its freight decision and the present squalls in the stock market centering about the important railway systems passes as it will.

NEWSPAPERMAN AT HERSHEY
Hershey, Pa., July 15.—On Monday the Lancaster Press Association visited the famous chocolate town. The party, which comprised about twenty-five men, was royally received and entertained by J. R. Snively, manager, and L. R. Meekins, editor of the Hershey Press. Upon their arrival at this place they were provided with a large auto to take them to several of the Hershey farms, the industrial plant, Prospect Heights, and also later visited the chocolate plant. In the evening an elaborate dinner was served at the Hershey Cafe.

Mifflinburg Boy Scouts and Campfire Girls Active

Special to The Telegraph

Mifflinburg, Pa., July 15.—People of Mifflinburg are certain proud of their Boy Scouts, Troop No. 2, under the efficient leadership of Scoutmaster Guy F. Roush, of Mifflinburg, who during the Spanish-American War served in Company D, of the Eighth Regiment of Harrisburg. The organization of the Mifflinburg Boy Scouts was formed several months ago, and is comprised of about 60 of Mifflinburg's gentlemanly young men. They have their own Hall located on the second story of the Grammar School building, which is fitted out complete, including a gymnasium outfit. The female branch of the Boy Scouts, termed Campfire Girls, is composed of thirteen Mifflinburg young women, and they are equipped with suitable suits and uniforms. They are drilled and instructed like the boys by Miss Eva Shookmaker, Mrs. George I. Reish and Mrs. William F. Romig.

The members of the Boy Scouts recently were on a three days "hike" to Buffalo mountains and return.

FUNERAL OF JOHN A. WARNER
Special to The Telegraph
Mechanicsburg, Pa., July 15.—The funeral of John A. Warner, who died at his home in Monroe township, near Locust Point, on Sunday morning, will be held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral will be held in the Trinity Episcopal church. Interment will be made in the cemetery at Harrisburg. Mr. Warner was a native of Pennsylvania and was a member of the Trinity Episcopal church. He was a well-known citizen and was highly respected in his community.

COUNCIL PAYS FOR COW
Special to The Telegraph
Mechanicsburg, Pa., July 15.—At an adjourned meeting of the borough council Monday evening final action was taken in regard to payment for the loss of a cow belonging to Tolbert Sweger, who lives on the Gross farm at the west end of the town. The animal fell into the borough sink, which is located on the farm, and was killed. Sweger presented his claim for damages for $90, which the borough agreed to pay. The council also put around the enclosure to guard against similar accidents.

EVANGELICAL CAMPMEETING
Special to The Telegraph
Marietta, Pa., July 15.—The twelfth annual campmeeting of the Harrisburg district of the United Evangelical church will be held commencing July 29 at Millway and continuing for two weeks. The services will be in charge of the Rev. F. H. Erdman, presiding elder. The Rev. M. H. Jones, of Tremont, will be the musical director and have full charge of the music. There will be a service for the aged, missionary meetings and children's days in the program being arranged.

Puddlers Get Advance of 25 Cents Per Ton

Pittsburgh, July 15.—Announcement was made here to-day at the offices of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, steel and tin workers that the boiling scale of the iron mill workers has been adjusted for a year with the Western Bar Iron Association. The men are to receive an advance in the base rate of pay for puddling of 25 cents a ton. Under the new scale the base rate is made $5.50 a ton on a one cent card, advancing ten on each point of advance in the average selling price of bar iron.

HOMEMADE MOVIE TOMORROW
The reward that is being meted out to Wilmer and Vincent for looking the high-class of vaudeville to be found at the Colonial these days, is crowded houses at each performance. This week's bills, both the one that completes its stay to-night and the new one to come to-morrow, are made up of excellent material. A great deal of interest centers in the latest of the comedians, Vincent Astor, who will be shown for the last three days of the week, beginning to-morrow. This is a comedy and tells the story of how a woman who thought she had the best cook in the world sold the wonderful queen of her kitchen. These scenes of this piece are all in Harrisburg and the neighborhood village of Womelsburg, and more than 250 persons who are residents of this city will be found to have the privilege of seeing the play. Among the scenes to be shown are: Market Square, The Senate, the police station, the merchants' restaurant, Diener's Jewelry Store and the Courthouse. —Advertisement.

CHICKEN THIEVES AT WORK
Special to The Telegraph
Waynesboro, Pa., July 15.—Chicken thieves have begun operations near Waynesboro. The coops of Harry W. McDowell and S. Clinton Martin were visited and fifty-five young fowls were carried off. "Gentlemen—In the fall of 1905 I contracted a very severe cold which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum, and my physician told me I must take salicylic acid immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week of October. I began to improve and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now seven years since my recovery has been effected, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly."

Arrested For Attempt to Kidnap Berry Picker

Special to The Telegraph

Hazleton, Pa., July 15.—George Noss, a young man of this city who was arrested three years ago for the same offense and recently released on parole, was taken into custody here to-day by County Detective McKelvey on the charge of attempting to kidnap Anna Brogan, a 13-year old girl huckleberry picker in the woods near Beaver Meadow. Noss was identified by the girl and her companion and committed to jail without bail amidst the hostile demonstration of a large crowd that surrounded the office of Alderman J. H. Reich, where the hearing was held.

The Brogan girl said that Noss threatened to cut her throat if she did not stop crying and had the knife ready, but changed his mind and stuffed his handkerchief in her mouth.

TERRIBLE ITCHING BURNING ERUPTION

In Water Blisters On Hands. Spread All Over Body. Could Not Sleep Or Rest Or Put Hands In Water. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Hands Completely Healed.

Centre, Pa.—"The trouble began on my hands in small white blisters and completely covered them. Both palms and backs came out in water blisters like ivy poison and my hands became so badly swollen because so badly swollen that I could not move my fingers. The blisters burst and then became full of pus and came off in scales. It then spread all over my body and the skin became red and like raw meat. I could not sleep nor have any rest day or night without terrible itching and burning and I could not bear to put my hands in water.

"I tried every remedy that could be thought of but nothing did any good until a friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Relief was almost instant and in less than a week my hands were completely healed after using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used a cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment and I know there is nothing better." (Signed) Miss Anna J. Couch, Feb. 6, 1914.
