

Go to Church To-morrow

That is the invitation which all of the Protestant churches of Harrisburg extend to you. They want you to attend at least one service to-morrow---to participate in the worship of your Maker---to give thanks for the blessings you enjoy.

To extend this invitation to everyone by personal visit is well nigh impossible. So these churches are paying for this space that all may receive it. But because it comes to you in this form it is none the less personal, none the less sincere, none the less cordial.

Nor does any one church extend this invitation more than another. They have the same interest in common--to give to every man, woman and child the message of Eternal Happiness. It matters little to the church-collective through which unit that message is heard, so long as every person in Harrisburg hears it.

Naturally, if you are affiliated with any church, that is the one to which you should go. Perhaps that may be impossible, or it may be that you have no church connection. In such event choose any one, but---go to church to-morrow

It's a duty you owe to yourselves and to your fellow-men. Unconsciously your life may be the pattern by which the lives of others are fashioned. Don't you see, therefore, that aside from your own happiness, the happiness of others may be at stake?

Go to church to-morrow--unloose the bonds of your soul--let it enter into the solemnity of God's house--let it listen to the lesson that is taught--let it join in the hymns that are sung--let it get a little closer to God and praise Him.

You'll feel better and you'll radiate that feeling among your fellow-men--and who knows, it may be the sign-board that will point the way to the betterment of their future.

Go to some church to-morrow. Just remember that denominational beliefs are all merged into one identity, the Church of the Living Christ. That is the church that beckons you--that invites you to---

Tranquil as Time, He Still Marches Abreast of the Age

"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

The Rev. J. T. Spangler, since last October pastor of the Boas Street United Brethren Church, has had an interesting career as teacher, college professor and divine. "His has been a life of hard work, lofty ideals and a long struggle to achieve. Like Marcus Aurelius, the Rev. Mr. Spangler is a man of thought by nature, but a man of action, not so much by necessity as the Roman Emperor was, but because he believes that his talents should be put to use. Notwithstanding the constant call upon his services that the duties as pastor of the strong and growing Boas street church entail, the Rev. Mr. Spangler still finds some time to maintain and widen his already vastly broad acquaintance with the philosophy of all ages and the literature of all times.

From the Calm Depths The Rev. Mr. Spangler's keynote is peace and profundity. His personality is quiet, but one is not long in his presence until the calm depths of his own mind shed an influence over his visitor. Tranquil as time, from whose storehouses he has drawn all—or, if not all, certainly the best—of the honey of the ages, the Rev. Mr. Spangler is, however, not one of those whose dim eye is always engaged in exploring the dark recesses of the past. Far from it. Although apparently non-militant and certainly not at all pyrotechnic nor dramatic, the Rev. Mr. Spangler is one of those who marches fully abreast with the best and most advanced of the ages.

A constant searcher for truth, and one of the rarities, an open minded man, the Rev. Mr. Spangler is also one of those who "march breast forward, never doubting truth will triumph." From Aristotle to Bergesen The pastor's acquaintance with philosophy from Aristotle down to Bergesen and Eucken is extremely wide. Also he has a knowledge of Greek that is valuable in scripture interpretation and sheds an illuminating light over many of the passages in the new testament and enables him to make them clear and construe them in a modern sense. The Rev. Mr. Spangler was born in Somerset county a few miles from the county seat, Somerset. He attended public schools and afterward taught in the schools of the county. While he was studying at Lebanon Valley College in 1899 the instructor in Greek became ill and he acted as his substitute for a year. Later he entered the ministry and became pastor of St. Paul's Church at Hagers-town after taking a course in Berea Theological Seminary at Dayton, Ohio.

From Chair to Pulpit Then Lebanon Valley College needed a Greek instructor and the chair was offered to Mr. Spangler. He accepted and for twelve years taught the young idea the intricacies of the Hellenic paradigm, but united with "boning" that was always insisted upon, a knack of making the student appreciate the wonderful majesty and beauty of the Greek poets. Overwork, due to his taking on in addition to his regular duties those of the professor of philosophy compelled him to relinquish this place. After a year's rest he received a call from the United Brethren church at Mt. Joy and accepted this charge. And from that place, last October, he came to Harrisburg.

RAINY DAY TOYS On days when children cannot be out and play, the ingenuity and patience of mothers are tested to the utmost. Pamos pictures to cut and paste; paper dolls to paint; barns full of animals to color; transfer pictures; books that glue built, and soap bubble outfits are here for children's amusement and instruction. Marianno Kinder Markt, 218 Locust street.

WHEN "DRY" IS WET

When clothing and the nest raiment is "dry cleaned" it does not mean what the name usually implies. Dry cleaning consists of a gasoline rinsing in which a certain kind of soap has been dissolved which acts the same as ordinary soap does in water. It removes all soil and grease spots without injuring or shrinking the garment. Phone for Finkelsteine, 1320 North Sixth street.
