Paul had a bundle of the sparklers in his pocket when Joe Albitz lit another sparkler and dropped it in the boy's pocket, it is said, as a joke. In a minute the fire had communicated to the other sparklers and flared up, setting fire to Paul's coat. Members of the family rushed out and put out the fire.

Mrs. Erb, his mother, asserts that she was not notified of the accident until this week and Thursday went to Halifax and secured an auto with which to convey the burned boy home. Although suffering great pain, he stood the twenty-seven-mile ride well. The attending physician says that the boy will recover, although it will take a long time. His whole left side is a mass of burns.

Hundreds of inquiries were made at the Erb hame to-day regarding the boy's condition. His screams were heard throughout the neighborhood last night.
