

ALL RESIDENTS TO ASK BETTER SEWER FACILITIES AGAIN

Old Question of Inefficient Drainage Re-Opened by 18th St. Folks

Allison Hill residents whose properties are drained by the sewer that extends in Eighteenth street between Park and Walnut empties into the Market street drain are again demanding better and larger drainage facilities.

Preliminary steps to present this several years' old complaint to City Council were taken to-day when a committee of interested residents and property owners called to discuss it with City Commissioner W. H. Lynch, superintendent of streets and public improvements.

For the last several years the people in that vicinity have complained, declaring that the 18-inch section which leads northward from Park and the 20-inch section that leads down from Walnut are not big enough to supply the necessary drainage facilities.

Commissioner Lynch said that the change asked for will cost considerable money. This fact and the fact that perhaps the plumbing regulations in installing plumbing in the houses had not been properly complied with are questions that he intends to consider before taking any definite action in the matter.

Council's session to-morrow will likely be more or less brief, as there is little to occupy the commissioners except the passing of an ordinance authorizing the appropriation of $1,840 for office supplies, equipment, etc., of the City Planning Commission.

Whether or not the ordinance granting the Valley Railway Company right of way for additional car tracks in Market street will be offered to-morrow is problematical, although it is believed that this measure will not go in to-morrow.

In order to avoid unnecessary delay after the contract for hauling earth from the Second street subway to fill in along the Market street right-of-way, the city park department to-day submitted to the State Water Supply Commission the plans for the treating of the embankment. Bids for hauling the fill will be opened August 3.

Former Congressman Leaves Cane to Sons

Special to The Telegraph. St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The will of Martin L. Clardy, ex-representative in Congress and general solicitor for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, which has been filed here, leaves the entire estate, estimated at $500,000 to the widow. Each of Clardy's sons is bequeathed a gold-headed cane, and the will expresses the hope that they may find no more use for them than "I did."

At the end of the bill Mr. Clardy wrote the following: "I will have been in court a good many years when I die, and I am going to ask that my estate, as far as the administration of it is concerned, may be closed in a reasonable time, and my name dropped from the docket, not to appear any more in any earthly court."

SAYS 'BOOM' WAS TO PROTECT BATHERS

Independence Island Owner Declares Rowdies Annoy Women and Children

In a letter to this paper to-day E. C. Ensminger, who Saturday withdrew an application for the construction of a boom between Independence and Bailey Islands, asserts that his purpose in constructing the boom was to protect the bathers from canoes who swarm down from the upper end. The letter ends with a threat of action against those who annoy swimmers in the pool. Mr. Ensminger says: Editor Telegraph:

Sir—In answer to the article published in your Saturday's edition, concerning the application filed with the Water Supply Commission to construct a boom from Independence to Bailey's Island at the upper end of the swimming pool in the Susquehanna river, permit me to say that, in constructing the boom, I was not actuated by any desire to compel canoeists to pay for the privilege of patronizing the swimming pool, but solely for the purpose of protecting the bathers, many of whom are young women of refinement, and children from annoyances and insults from a class of canoeists who made a practice of entering the pool and making insulting remarks to the bathers, as well as endangering their lives by indulging in impromptu boat races and other acts of violence.

That the action of the respectable canoeists of Harrisburg in supporting the indefensible conduct of these young rowdies, who have the whole river upon which to indulge their propensity and profane and obscene remarks, has encouraged them to not only continue but increase their misconduct, is a matter to be regretted by all persons with a sense of decency.

However, I propose taking most effective means of taking care of the bathers in the future, as any canoeist who comes there with the intent to annoy them will learn to his cost.

Respectfully yours, E. C. ENSMINGER.

the result of his efforts he would be satisfied that his life's work was well done and that his descendants admirably carried out his ideas.

However, there are here those who saw the town burned and it is from these that knowledge of the great strides taken by the town during the past fifty years can be learned. HAIL STORM CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGES

Fruit and Truck Ruined; Houses and Barns Struck; Poles and Trees Down

Lightning, rain and hail swooped down on this region Saturday afternoon. At 3:30 the rain began and soon was falling in torrents. Sharp bolts of lightning struck in close to many houses. Several trees throughout the city were struck. A barn owned by D. J. Shover near West Fairview was burned down; several homes at Camp Hill were struck; at the home of Harvey Nissley a bolt tore a hole through the roof, throughout this vicinity was damaged to the extent of thousands of dollars.

When the storm had been in progress a short while hail formed, and the electrical discharges ceased. Some of the hail was as large as chestnuts. Considerable damage throughout the county was done to grain and truck. Combined weight of rain water and hail broke in a skylight at Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart's store and let a down through the roof, scattered like Methodists. Telephone and telegraph wires went down in some parts, although by this morning all but a very little of the damage was repaired.

At Island Park 1,500 crowded into the grandstand to escape the fusillade of hail. Right after McCarthy's steal of home with the winning run the rain broke. Then when the hail came the players made "snowballs" of it and threw them at each other.

Lightning struck a brick chimney at the home of Professor C. A. Ellenberger, 3207 Riverside drive, and shattered it, while at the same time all the lights in the house went out. At Front and Division streets the wind picked up a sign office and carried it across the street.
