WHEAT SHIPMENTS GOING TO BALTIMORE

Northern Central Lines Taking Big Western Crop to Maryland Port Elevators

The first shipments of western wheat to the export elevators at Baltimore are now passing through this city daily. Carloads and trainloads of grain have been noticed on their way south over the Baltimore division within the past week or ten days and now that the prospect of war in Europe has created a big demand for American wheat in the foreign markets there is every prospect that the Northern Central will break all records in handling shipments during the next three weeks. Already arrangements have been made by the railway to carry considerably more than last year. Until a few years ago the trainloads of western wheat, which reached Harrisburg via the Pennsylvania lines from Pittsburgh and the west and via the Northern Central from Williamsport and Buffalo, went directly through Harrisburg to elevators in Philadelphia. Much of it continues to be shipped to the Quaker City. But beginning last year, Baltimore entered the field as a point of importance in the shipment of grain abroad and the erection of several large elevators there by the Northern Central Railway and steamship lines has caused a great deal of the western grain to be shipped over to the Baltimore division at this city. August usually brings western wheat to the Pennsylvania and other railroads in the east with a rush. September sees vast shipments of grain and the climax is usually reached in October, when the shipments are in full swing. Much of it is transferred from lake steamers at Buffalo and Erie, but a great deal comes east by an all-rail route, via various roads. To handle the Buffalo and Erie shipments the Pennsylvania Railroad has erected at Girard Point, on the Schuylkill river, in Philadelphia, a fireproof elevator capable of loading 60,000 bushels, or 1,800 tons, of wheat on a ship every hour. This elevator has a capacity of 1,100,000 bushels of grain. Fall is coming on and your shoes will need repairing. If you want a job give them to J. F. Hook, 241 Reily street, that's all.—Advertisement. Erie Has Engine List.—The Erie Railroad has just conducted a test at Hamilton, N. Y., of the pulling power of the new Centipede locomotive, which weighs 410 tons, and has twenty-four driving wheels, eight of them being under the tender, to secure additional driving power. The officers in charge kept adding car after car of coal to the train until it consisted of 256 fully loaded steel "bat-tleships," with a total weight of 21,000 tons. The locomotive pulled this train for forty miles at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, establishing a new train-load record for American railroads, as well as for the world. The train was easily 10,000 tons heavier than any ever pulled by a locomotive. To Lessen Sunday Work.—Following the movement of all railroad managers to lessen Sunday work as much as possible, the officials of the Central Railroad of New Jersey have issued a new rule, which will greatly minimize the work done on Sunday. The plan is to stop the running of coal and freight trains between 6 p. m. Saturday and 6 p. m. Sunday. Only passenger, excursion and perishable freight trains will be run on Sundays. This step will allow many of the employes to attend church services at home and enjoy Saturday night at the club and attend church services on Sundays.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company is expected to take the same steps in the near future. The plan agreed upon is similar to that followed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Jail Delivery Blocked; Man's Efforts Futile
Special to The Telegraph
Reading, Pa., July 31.—Using a knife and fork to dig through the heavy stone wall of his cell, Otto Miller, 34 years old, a New York city burglar, was caught yesterday in an attempt to escape from the Berks county prison. He is awaiting sentence for the burglary of the Kutztown Silk pleader guilty and for which two of his companions are in jail awaiting trial. Watchmen in the prison yard yesterday saw mortar dust dropping from a service between stones of Miller's cell and also saw his fingers at work. The jail officials learned that it was his plan to break out into the yard, overpower the guard, take his keys and release his comrades. They were to have had outside assistance in scaling the high walls. Miller is now in an iron-clad cell.

DAVID CHALLENGER
David Liddle Challenger, four-year-old son of Oliver Challenger, a well-known cigar dealer and printer, died last night at his home 1207 Chestnut street. Death was due to peritonitis, following an internal abscess. The little fellow had been ill a year ago, but recovered. He was again taken ill a week ago.
The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be held at the home of the parents and will be conducted by the Rev. J. Bradley Markward, pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran church. Burial will be made in Paxtang cemetery.

Consolidation of State Government and Enrollment of Members
Consolidation of certain branches of the state government and enrollment of members of the State College and the building operations of the new eastern penitentiary as well as the building of additions and the maintenance of state hospitals, will engage the attention of members of the State Economy and Efficiency Commission during the early part of August. Commissioners Harry S. McDevitt, chairman; Jacob Soffel and William H. Fisher will make a thorough examination of the future plans at State College and go into the building program at the eastern and western prisons which will be consolidated. Dr. E. E. Sparks, president of State College, has tendered his services to the Commission and he will discuss educational development and probably the making of donations. Mr. Sparks, who lived for a number of years at Columbus, is as familiar with the Ohio state government as with Pennsylvania and other states well. The Commission will inquire into the offices mentioned in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and elsewhere by the State Highway, Labor and Industry, and while departments are making the tour will visit the fish hatcheries and inquire into methods used, the State Forestry Academy, several State insane hospitals, and investigate the more active of the forestry reserves. Practically every state enterprise outside of Harrisburg will be investigated and much attention given to the routine of departments between now and October 1.

Bids Are Asked.—The State Department of Health has asked for bids for equipping the State Sanatorium at Hamburg. The bids will be opened on August 12. Mothers' Pensions Grow.—A statement issued to-day by Auditor General Powell shows the big jump occurring in mothers' pensions during July. The figures show that the month started off with 383 claims and that 101 were made during July as follows: Allegheny, 7; Luzerne, 9; Philadelphia, 25; Potter, 18; Schuylkill, 38; and Westmoreland, 4. Beaver and McKean did not present any. Luzerne leads the number of pensions with 138. Philadelphia being next with 121. The total payments in July were $3,290.50, Philadelphia getting $1,494.50. Altogether the figures of Auditor General Powell show $14,339.50 paid to date. Philadelphia being highest with $6,472.

Big Day's Work.—The Water Supply Commission approved thirty-eight plans for bridges last night, including several for York, Lancaster and Berks counties. Two applications for permission to fill in streams were turned down. The certificate of the Harrisburg and Mechanicsburg for the extension of its route on Market Square and Market street was filed at the State department to-day. This is a formality required by law and is in effect an amendment to the charter permission having been granted by the Public Service Commission. Listing Creameries.—Steps are being taken by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture, to list all of the creameries of the state.
