

Life-Size Portraits of Safe Home Matches

Examine them carefully. Note how strong and sturdy they are. Note, too, what fine heads they have—full, round, well made. Safe Home Matches are better than any matches you have used heretofore. They are made in a better way. No poisonous materials are used. A child might suck the head or several heads off Safe Home Matches. He wouldn't be poisoned. He wouldn't even be seriously ill. For that reason alone Safe Home Matches should be in every home. Safe Home Matches burn with a steady flame, not by fits and starts. They light anywhere. And yet they are safer than any other brand or type of match.

We ask you to use this new match and to urge others to do likewise. We do not ask you to pay more than you have been paying for matches—merely to see that you get better matches than you have been getting.

The new safety "strike-anywhere" match.

DUST IS CAUSE OF MUCH SICKNESS

Dr. Dixon Issues Some Timely Hints Regarding the Care of the Nostrils

The part dust, plain ordinary street dust, plays in carrying disease is shown by State Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon in one of his weekly talks on health. The doctor's remarks are interesting because they show how minute particles may cause sickness and death.

The commissioner says: "The hot, dry winds of August eddying through the city streets and along the country roads, will carry everywhere clouds of dust. It is the pet abomination of housewives and their instinctive dislike is well founded, for in the city streets each tiny particle that is blown about may be a raft which bears the minute disease-producing organisms which we call germs. The means by which many of our contagious diseases are transmitted have been discovered to be through personal contact or through insects which carry the disease germs from the sick to the well. While the ancient theory that plagues were transmitted by the air has been disproved by the investigations of modern science, a dust-laden atmosphere may be responsible for spreading certain infections. Experiments have shown that some of the germs of communicable disease die under brief exposure to the sun's rays. Others are less susceptible and thrive for a certain length of time amid the tiny particles of dust. The germs of tetanus or lockjaw are found in roads and about stables, and if the tiny particles of dust carrying these germs are introduced into a wound, tetanus is apt to result. "In the sputum of a sufferer from tuberculosis, in the dust of the streets or sidewalks, we often find the tubercle bacillus, the germ responsible for consumption. We have reason to believe that the germs of smallpox and possibly pneumonia may also be transmitted in this way. "Dry sweepings of streets with its accompanying clouds of more or less infected dust, and the dry sweepings of buildings may be a possible source of disease infection. In many of the European and in some American cities the streets are washed every day. This is a sanitary measure of no little importance and should be followed wherever possible. Dry sweeping and dusting with the old-fashioned duster should be abolished."

When Swatting Flies Don't Use a Butcher Knife

While swatting flies in Gordon's grocery store, Cameron and Cumberland streets, with a long-bladed butcher knife, yesterday afternoon, a young boy, aged 16, of 1002 Cumberland street, accidentally let the knife fall across the palm of his right hand. He was taken to the Harrisburg Hospital. It required three stitches to close the wound.

The Kuma Japanese Troupe clearly proved their right to headline honors at the Paxtang Park theater last evening. The Kuma Troupe consists of a Japanese woman, man and a very clever child. The child sang in a pleasing manner and was the hit of the act in spite of the fact that the other two members of the troupe did some excellent magic and acrobatic work. Two of the magic stunts were particularly mystifying and had the audience guessing.

The Dooley Trio in a singing, dancing and talking act kept the audience in good humor for fifteen minutes. A burlesque cabaret finish was right up to date and very funny. Restivo, an Italian accordionist, responded to several well earned encores and was the recipient of much applause from the appreciative audience. When anyone sees a dog act billed on a vaudeville program they usually feel like getting up and going out to "see a man," but Mrs. Daugherty and her troupe of twelve white poodles quite dispelled all of our ill feelings toward canine actors. The little fellows do some really clever stuff and furnish a great entertainment. Whether you like dogs or not, you cannot help liking Mrs. Daugherty's company. Fouchere, the novelty bicyclist, put over one of the most interesting wheel acts we have seen in a long while. Fireworks will be the special attraction at the park on Friday evening. There is nothing so popular in the way of free attractions as the fireworks seem to be.—Advertisement.

KILLS LARGEST COPPERHEAD

Special to The Telegraph. Lewistown, Pa., Aug. 4.—W. S. Bishop, night watchman on the Pennsylvania railroad in the narrows, east of town, was attacked by a copperhead snake while making his rounds. The watchman heard a blow in the darkness, he noticed a stream of poison dripping from a reflector. Bishop jumped quickly aside and grabbing a bolt, he struck the snake, breaking its back. The snake was over four feet long and very thick. A short distance from where the man killed the snake he came upon a groundhog that had just been killed, and it is thought that the snake killed the little animal.

AT THE PALACE—MARY PICKFORD IN "THE EAGLE'S MATE"

In "The Eagle's Mate" Mary Pickford portrays a girl who inherits a little valley home. Anemone rises to great heights, and in the stress of that mounting, realizes the earnest self-sacrifice for love.

The mountains of Virginia, are a lawless mountain clan, who dwell on a nearly inaccessible peak, called the Eagle's Eyrie, and because of their crazy abode, are called the "Eagles." Lancer, son of the leader, has been to court by Anemone's aunt, Mrs. Brockenridge, who is a fortune herself, though Anemone is ignorant of this. Lancer's father is arrested for moonshining, and Lancer leads the clan to the rescue of his father, joining the Eyrie. Fisher, Anemone's cousin, and repulsed by her, carries her off to the Eagle's Eyrie. When Anemone finds Lancer at the Eyrie, she begs him to save her and send her back to the Eyrie. Lancer, however, intends to have her for himself, fights Fisher for her, and conquers. Lancer replies that he will never give up his love for her until she asks him to, and they live in the Eyrie as strangers. Fisher shoots at Lancer, and she returns to the representative of the law, for she has returned to love Lancer. She reaches the clan in time, and the baffled posse returns. Anemone's aunt comes to the Eyrie, shows them the folly of outlawry and its inevitable end. The Mornes promise no longer to rebel against their State. Lancer and his bride begin their honeymoon in the Eyrie, and Anemone is at last truly happy as the Eagle's mate.—Advertisement.

DO MODERN DANCES MAKE WRINKLES?

It is strictly a newspaper notion that because the dances of the day are strenuous they develop signs of age. Worry and carelessness may make wrinkles, but the activity of clean dancing never! Wrinkles are due more to improper care of the skin, neglect and too strenuous mental activity. They may be avoided or cured by using a simple protective and stimulative vegetable cream jelly before retiring. Just get one ounce of almondin from your druggist—dissolve it in ½ pint of water and, before retiring, cover the wrinkled surface with this cream, which dries quickly and both protects against the night air and draws the skin smooth, will not grow hair and immediately forces the blood to bid out the flesh so wrinkles disappear.—Advertisement.
