St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—A semi-official statement gives Russia's reply to the assertion in the Norddeutsches Gazette that Russia had forced Ger-many to take warlike steps and de-

Special to The Telegraph Lebanon, Pa., Aug. 5.—Gilbert Stewcline to take part in an international art, of Harrisburg, must answer a charge of involuntary manslaughter conference to preserve peace. The Russian statement accuses the at the September quarter sessions Kaiser of having advised Austria not court, Alderman R. L. Miller, of this safety of the German empire forced him to take the defensive and that the onus for war was on Russia, adding that peace could still be maintained if Russia ceased her threatening movements against Austria. GAZETTE ACCUSED The Russian statement accuses the Norddeutsche Gazette of attempting to deceive the British people in re-ference to the fact of the mediation proposal. It asserts that the British Cabinet was aware than when Russia had given her consent to an internati-onal mediation conference, Germany had advised Austria to refuse her ac-quiescence, and when Germany began her efforts at Vienna which seemed to be sincere it was too late to influence Austria, as the dual monarchy had by that time taken steps which resulted in the fatal denoucement. Russia suggests that Germany did not appreciate the gravity of the dis-pute between Russia and Austria-Hungary or was unwilling or unable to influence Austria in favor of peace. The statement maintains that Russia did her utmost to avoid bloodshed, in the hope that the secular and dynastic bonds between Russia and Germany would help in the attempt to find a way out. Russian mobilization in the Kieff, bonds between Russia and Germany would help in the attempt to find a way out. Russian mobilization in the Kieff, Odessa, Kasan and Moscow districts was not ordered until after Russia had informed Germany that she was not mobilizing, and when (after Aus-tria had declared war on Servia) Rus-sia ordered the mobilization she in-formed Germany that, assuring the Berlin government that the mass-ing of troops was not directed against the derman Empire. Pourparlers were in progress when the Austrians were bombarding Bel-grade until Russia, realizing that her talk was fruitless and that delay could only help Austria, decided on complete mobilization, but solemnly declared that she would not act as long as the pourparlers continued. The Holy Synod has sent messages to the priests and congregations of the Orthodor, church throughout the empired and Mr. Graeff contended that Stew-art was guilty of criminal negligence in running into the Ford car after he was that far away and with that much opportunity to observe caution. Un-less Stauffer recovers, however, and tells his part of the story. His evidence that the body of Witters showed no evi-dence of having been run over by an auto, the only marks being abrasions and the back of the head crushed in, was seized upon eagerly by the de-fense as being in their favor. Trosper Boyer testified to having met Wilbur Reed at Annville on Sat-urday night about 11.30 o'clock. He said they took a drive in Reed's rig and were returning to Annville via the pike when they saw the Ford car ap-proaching from the east. He testified that they were in the middle of the road, but turned to the right when the street railway tracks when the Ford car stripped them, tearing off the two wheels on that side and breaking the struck the bugs. Paris Aug. 5.—Bombs dropped from German dirigibles and badly damaged the historic town of Luneville, in the Department of Meurthe at Moselle. In the early hours of the morning just as the first streak of dawn were showing in the sky, a big Zeppelin dirigible sailed out of the fog. It was flying low, and, as it passed over the Church of St. Jacques, a quantity of high explosives were dropped. It mis-sed the church and fell in the square alongside. The concussion was terrific. One of the side walls of the church was de-molished and a patrol of troops sta-tioned there was annihilated. The dirigible then proceeded over the fort-ifications, dropping other bombs there and demolishing part of the embank-ment.

and demolishing part of the embank-ment. French aviators were dispatched from Nancy to-day to locate the Zep-plin dirigible that dropped the bombs on the town of Luneville. There is in-tense indignation in official quarters over the actions of the Germans. While it is admitted in war it is the privilege of an enemy inflict every possible damage on the fighting force of his opponent, the dropping of bombs on unprotected towns without warning is declared to be a violation of the rules of civilized warfare. According to the reports available here the bombs dropped at Luneville were made up of Germany's new high explosive and were particularly deadly. The fifteen soldiers killed are said to have literally been blown to pieces. Bodies were rent into small pieces and heads and limbs torn into shreds.

It is stated that the Germans tried to destroy the historic palace of Lor-raine but that their bombs missed the mark.
