ORPHEUM OFFICE OPENS ON TUESDAY

Vaudeville House to Begin Season Monday, Aug. 17; Act Married in Europe?

According to an announcement made to-day by Manager Hopkins, the box office for the eighth season of the Orpheum Theater will open next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The season itself will open on Monday, August 17, with the matinee and evening performances, and the theater will continue with its twelve-shows-a-week schedule until next Spring. The staff of employees of the Orpheum will be the same as last year.

lished by the Orpheum has been assembled for the opening week of the eighth season, and few, if any, playgoers will find anything to be desired in the shape of vaudeville entertainment, according to Manager Hopkins. The headliner of the show will be Fred Ardath & Co. In a roaring rough comedy, "Hiram on the Farm." The company consists of four men and three women, uses its own special scenery and presents a horse-play act which is reported to be of a high type.

Another feature of the bill is the Bison City Four--perhaps. The Bison City Four is a quartet which has been at the Orpheum before and which made a hit, and it will be here if it can get across the Atlantic ocean. The company went to Europe in the Spring for a dozen weeks and its appearance at the Orpheum in Harrisburg was to be its first after its return. The company, like thousands of other Americans, probably is marooned in Europe; at any rate, Wilmer & Vincent just now are uncertain of the whereabouts of this number.

AMUSEMENTS

Orpheum Singers Are Across the Atlantic

Among the Harrisburg people who have some special reason for being disturbed over the situation that now exists in Europe is Manager Hopkins, of the Orpheum Theater, for it became known to the local manager of the Wilmer and Vincent theaters that one of the really attractive features announced for the opening bill at the Orpheum a week from Monday, is on the other side of the Atlantic and may be prevented from getting here for the season's start.

who have mapped out a full season's work for them in this country are worried. The Bison City Four went to Europe early in the Spring to fill a twelve-week engagement for an European booking firm in the best and biggest vaudeville houses on the Continent and in England. They had completed their engagement and engaged passage to return to America to begin their Fall and winter's work by a week at the Harrisburg Orpheum when the news of their inability to sail on the ship they had booked passage on reached New York.

Of course, this will not delay the opening of the Orpheum," said Manager Hopkins, last night. "The house will be open a week from Monday, and if the Bison City Four do not arrive in time to go on there will be another good act here to take their places. But we are hoping they are on the water now in some sort of a boat, for we can't get any further word from them, and they are either on their way or lost. Some other act will be sent in to replace them if they don't come in time."--Advertisement.

AT PAXTANG This is the big night of the week at Paxtang Park. The Friday evening fireworks display at the park have become very popular and enormous crowds turn out for the exhibition. The displays are excellent. About every device known to the pyrotechnical art is shown and some new feature is usually arranged for each display. Three or four new pieces are to be shown this evening that it is said will be well worth seeing. Some aerial stuff is also promised that will exceed in beauty anything that has heretofore been shown at Paxtang. The display will start at 8:10 sharp.

Next week King Kelly will be the big attraction at the park. This is the aeronaut's second visit to Paxtang this season. Bad weather prevented Mr. Kelly from doing a great deal in the way of ballooning on his last visit to the park, but with a little better luck this time he expects to be able to hand out a few thrills in the way of multiple parachute leaps and daring ballooning ascensions.--Advertisement.

COUNTRY STORE NIGHT AT COLONIAL. A new line of vaudeville opened at the Colonial Theater, yesterday for a three-days' run, and is winning a great deal of approval at the hands of the audience. The acts include Nina Esphey, a pretty little girl, who plays some very fine music on a banjo. The Harrison-West Trio is a man, woman and boy in a singing, talking and dancing act. The boy is quite a comedian, and keeps the audience in almost continual laughter with his funny jokes. "Whose Husband Is He?" is a good act with singing, talking and some dancing introduced. It shows the troubles of a newly-married couple who stop at a hotel on their honeymoon. This act takes well with the audience and produces much laughter. Altogether, the show is very good, and people are assured of being well entertained while spending their time at the Colonial. Tonight the main feature will be the usual Country Store, where plenty of enjoyment can be had. Next week "Judith of Bethulia" will be played in this theater for three days. This is a great photoplay masterpiece by Thomas Bailey Aldrich in four reels.--Advertisement.
