

Women AND THEIR Interests

"Darlings" Who Are Spoiled

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"She has everything! How can I help envying her?" How often you hear one girl say that of another who is better dowered than she is in wealth and position and beauty. Yet in all the world there are only three enviable things—health and character and brains; and, given the two last named, you are above envy. Health, character and power of thinking are all gifts one may cultivate in growing measure, if one is ambitious. But it is not to these that girls refer when they envy a "spoiled darling" who "has everything."

Beauty, wealth, position, popularity and charm are the things to which girls refer when they tell you that another has everything.

And the spoiled darlings who possess these five gifts of the good fairies have nothing if they fall to appreciate or to be satisfied with what fortune has given them.

A girl who has never gone without her laces for a week in order to own a pair of silk stockings has no means of measuring the delightful "feel" of a first pair of silken hose.

A girl who has never walked to and from work for a month to give her mother a lace collar for her birthday does not know the warmth of satisfaction of true giving.

Life has two sorts of joy—passing pleasures and "durable satisfactions." And few of the "spoiled darlings" of fortune have the happiness of the spirit that wears well.

Contrasts make for appreciation. We all know how bright the sunshine seems after gray days. The girl who has everything takes everything for granted and has no rare and sudden delights when pleasures come to her. And when the pendulum of life swings back, as it must do, and in order to balance life the darling of fortune is deprived of something precious to her, she has no disciplined strength with which to meet disappointment.

Life is based on "compensation." It makes up to us in one way what we miss in another. The girl who is sated by gifts of fortune has no keen power of appreciation, no enthusiasm, no sweet longings left to give her delight in new gifts. And she has no fortifications of pain endured and stings suffered to guard and strengthen her against agony when it comes.

Don't envy spoiled darlings. Their lives generally are "spoiled."

But the girl who has nothing—ah! for her life is full of possibilities when her pendulum swings back. And she has undiminished appetite with which to enjoy her banquet of blessings!

STYLISH NEW FROCK IN GUIMPE EFFECT

Scallops Edge the Sleeves and the Broad Flared Flounces

8334 Dress with Guimpe Effect for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

WITH ELBOW OR LONG SLEEVES, LOW OR ROUND NECK.

Everything that gives the effect of a guimpe is fashionable. The feature unquestionably will remain an important one during the coming season. Illustrated is a charming frock adapted to small women as well as to young girls and suggests the idea although the laces are all in one. It includes also the new flared flounce at the lower edge and, as it can be made with short or long sleeves and with half low or round neck, it is adapted both to evening and to afternoon wear. College and school girls preparing for their return to "Alma Mater" will be especially interested in the design for it is exceedingly good for their use. As shown here, the materials are taffeta and net in one view, flowered crepe and plain in the other.

For the 16 year size, the dress will require 5 yds. of material 27 in. wide, 3 1/4 yds. 36, 2 3/4 yds. 44 in. wide, with 2 3/4 yds. 27, 2 yds. 36, 1 3/4 yds. 44 for sleeves and full chemise. The width of the skirt at the lower edge is 2 yds. and 10 in.

The pattern 8334 is cut in sizes for 16 and 18 years. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

National Insurance Co. Shows Steady Increase

Walter H. Cummings, general agent for the National Life Insurance Company, of Vermont, has received a letter from the home office showing that the July business of the National exceeded that of any corresponding month for nine years.

"The new business figures of all the leading companies for the first six months have been received and the National ranks fifth in amount of increase made over 1913. This is a fine achievement," said H. Cummings.

"The recent unprecedented break in the stock market affecting the best known and standard listed securities and the grave situation in Europe strikingly emphasize the wisdom of the company's management in confining its investment to the United States (and selecting only non-speculative trust fund securities."

Firemen's Parade Marshal to Be Elected August 31

Seven candidates for chief marshal of the parade which will feature the firemen's convention in October were nominated at the Firemen's Union meeting last night. One will be elected at the next meeting, August 31, at the Good Will house.

The candidates are Howard O. Holstein, John C. Kinner, Colonel H. C. Demming, A. Carson Stamm, William S. Tunis, George Anderson and Levi Little. The union accepted the offer of Reading firemen of a large electric "Welcome" sign to be erected in the Square. It was reported that $209.95 was the union's share from the carnival last week, out of which several bills must be met.

New Playground Likely to Be Named "Sycamore"

M. Harvey Taylor, superintendent of parks, said today he would begin work toward equipping the new playground as soon as the ordinance providing for its purchase passes Council. It is not known definitely what name the new playground will bear, but Mr. Taylor said he thought it would probably be called by the same name as the abandoned Sycamore playground.

EXCELLENT SHOW AT COLONIAL

The town is talking about the splendid show at the Colonial this week. Not only is the moving picture feature, "Judith of Bethulia," making a hit, but the acts of vaudeville that are given on the same bill serve to round out a pleasant entertainment that is well worth the small price of admission. Tomorrow there will be a complete change of program. John Delmore & Co. will offer a novelty in comedy acts; Madden and Clark will do the latest dances, and Arthur, the harmonica player, will surprise his audiences Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The Colonial will offer a diving act with three girls all the week, "David Copperfield" in seven reels of movies, and on Thursday and Friday, the Broadway success, "The Greyhound," will be given in moving pictures with Elita Proctor O'Leary in the leading role.—Advertisement.
