SEXTON IS DEAD

For Many Years He Drove Horse Cars of City; Sewed in Civil War

Henry Frickman, aged 71 years, 1725 Susquehanna street, for many years a diver on the old City Passensor Railway Company lines, for some Cheekway Company lines, for some Cheekton of Augaburg Lutheran Church, died at his home yesterday. Mr. Frickman had been ill only a short time. The survivors are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. C. Hauseman, and three sons, John and Edward, of this city, and Howard, of Lancaster. The funeral wil be held Wednesday afternoon. Services will be conducted by the Rev. A. M. Stamets, pastor of Augsburg Lutheran Church, assisted by the Rev. Peter H. Balsbaugh, pastor of the Sixth Street United Brethren Church. Burial will be made in the East Harrisburg Cemetery.
Henry Frickman was born in Dover, York county, July 11843. He came to was employed by the City Passenger Railway Company. When the electric lines supplanted the horse cars Mr.
Frickman remained in the employ of the Harrisburg Traction Company and later the Central Pennsylvania Traction. For five years he has been sexton at Augsburg Church. He served during the Civil War in the First Pennsylvania Volunteer Artillery. He was a member of Post 58, Grand Army of the Republic.

MRS. KAUTZ BURIED

Funeral services of Mrs. Laura E. Kautz, aged 58 years, 1103 Cowden street, were held this afternoon at 20 clock, from the lecture room of the Pine Street Presbyterlan Church. The Rev. J. W. Moore, assistant pastor of Pine Streets Church, Third and Pine streets, officiated. Burial was made in the East Harrisburg Cemetery.

*Railroad + Dews THE MARKETS

Loss in Gross Income Was Very Small; Expenses Were Not Reduced

Special to The Telegraph

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—Unofficial but accurate figures show a decrease of 12 per cent. in railroad income during the year ending June 30.
The fiscal year ending 30. 1913, was the most prosperous one the railroads ever had. At the time they filed their application for 5 per cent. advances there has been some falling off from the high water marks achieved during the most prosperous year.

In a general way the figures, which will be completed in about ten days, it is believed, will show that the recently ended fiscal year was about the same as that which closed on June 30, 1912. notwithstanding the lossees caused by the unequaled floods of 1913. There were big floods in 1912, but the losses caused by them fell chiefly on South cently ended fiscal year was about the same as that which closed on June 30, 1912, notwithstanding the losses caused by the unequaled floods of 1913. There were big floods in 1912, but the losses caused by them fell chiefly on Southern property.

Almost infinitestimal was the loss in the gross income. It was 2.32 per cent, or about $54,946,880.

The total operating revenue of the railroads for the eleven full months and the part of the twelfth covered by the partial reports amounted to $2,366,696,909 in the year ending June 30, 1913. During the year ending last June their total operating revenue amounted to $2,311,660,029, showing the loss before indicated.

Loss in Net Revenue

The loss in net revenue amounted to $85,746,614. The net revenue for the year ending June 30, 1913, was $729,361,979. For the part of the recently expired fiscal year for which there are returns the net revenue amounts to $643,615,365.

Inability to reduce expenses in the ratio that gross operating revenue fell off was one of the main factors leading to the reduction in net revenue Expenses increased nearly 1% per cent. That ran the expense account up from $1,637,244,930 to $1,668,064,664, or $30,819,714.

The tendency of expenses to keep on climbing while the income is going down was checked during the month of June, 1914. During June, 1913, expenses amounted to $138,755,236, but in the corresponding month of this calendar year they fell to $133,819,886, a reduction of 3.56 percent. in expenses. While the expenses were falling 3.56 per cent. the operating revenues were falling 4.7 per cent.
