COAL COMPANIES FILING APPEALS

Some of the Largest Have Taken the Settlements of Anthracite Tax to Court

Over fifty anthracite coal companies have filed appeals from the amount of the anthracite coal tax assessed against them under the act of 1913 in the Dauphin county court in the last forty-eight hours and probably 100 coal companies have taken the matter to court. The Auditor General's Department went ahead with its making out of bills for the amount of the tax based on the reports of the anthracite producers made on their output last year some weeks ago. The test of the constitutionality of the tax brought in the Dauphin county court by the People's Coal Company, of Scranton, in which a dozen or more companies joined, has not yet been decided and the companies have determined to tax the settlements into court pending the decision on the case. Thus far but two coal producers have paid, and one of them paid under protest, so that it may be months before the coal tax is settled. No matter which way the case is decided in the Dauphin county courts the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

WHITE TAGS MUST BE WORN ON ARMS

Only 1914 Hunting Licenses Will Be Accepted; State Expects Rush For Licenses

Hunters who may desire to gun for ducks when the State's game season opens on Tuesday will have to display the white 1914 hunter's license if they do not want to be arrested for violation of the hunter's license act according to the officials of the State Game Commission. The buff colored tags issued last year are no longer valid and new licenses must be shown. It is estimated by the Game Commissioners that 205,000 licenses were issued last year and that probably 100,000 other persons hunted, the latter figures including farmers and members of the families who hunted on their own lands and persons who violated the law. Under the act farmers, their tenants and their families may hunt on their properties without taking out licenses. The income from the licenses is being held in the State Treasury pending passage of an appropriation act which will divide the money between the game commission and game propagation and counties for payment of bounties for scalps of noxious animals and birds.
