Five Cardinals Who Are Being Considered For Vacant Papacy

Alessandro Lualdi, born at Milan on August 12, 1858, created Cardinal on April 15, 1907. Domenico Ferrata, born at Gradoli on March 4, 1947, created Cardinal on June 22, 1896. Pietro Gasparri, born at Ustia on May 5, 1852, created Cardinal on December 16, 1907. Pietro Maffi, born at Cortelona on October 12, 1858, created Cardinal on April 15, 1907. Gaetano de Lai, born at Malo on July 30, 1853, created Cardinal on December 16, 1907.

Five cardinals of sixty-six in the Roman Catholic Church are being seriously considered for the place left vacant by the death of Pope Pius. The new Pope must be a Cardinal whose piety, intellectual attainments and executive ability are well known. He must be an Italian, as although the Sacred College is free to elect a foreigner, for many centuries the Pope has been an Italian, and a foreign Pope, it is feared would compromise the question of temporal power. Every Cardinal is bound by oath to defend, integrally and strenuously, the temporal rights and the liberty of the Holy See, especially the civil pre-eminence of the Pope. This implies that if elected Pope he is expected to oppose reconciliation with Italy, and a foreigner may fall to do so, while the three Italian Popes since 1870 followed implicitly this policy.

The new Pope must be comparatively young so as to insure a long pontificate. Finally, he must not belong to a monastic order. The majority of Cardinals are secular priests, and although hard to explain, it is obvious to any one even slightly acquainted with Rome that a monk or a friar will never be elected Pope.

Otterbein Pastor's Door Favorite Spot For the "Down-and-Outers"

THE REV. S. EDWIN RUPP The Rev. S. Edwin Rupp, who was born not far beyond Paxtang, and after being educated at various schools, has returned here as pastor of the Otterbein United Brethren Church, is extremely interested in sociological work. In fact, after graduating from Ursinus he took up two years at the University of Pennsylvania, law, the study of sociology and allied topics. And this he finds very useful in his present work. The other day a German reservist—this is a bit of war news—stopped at the Rev. Mr. Rupp's door.

Finally resulted in his attending and graduating from Lebanon Valley College and later from Ursinus. The Rev. Mr. Rupp was then a full-fledged dominie, but he still had a hunger to find out why some folks ride in autos while others have to wear their pants for two years and darn them and why everybody shouldn't ride in autos or own a corner grocery. So the Rev. Mr. Rupp pursued this subject theoretically at Pennsylv and is now applying it practically at the Otterbein charge. It is said that he has had a tremendous influence for good in this section.

For instance, the writer of this was inquiring as to his place of residence from one of the residents, and got the reply, "Darnine, but he's a fine man." So there you have it.

Also, instead of going away during the summer, the Rev. Mr. Rupp fixed up his front porch and the neighborhood followed suit. Just another little instance to show how popular the Rev. Mr. Rupp is in that neighborhood, why, out of thirty-five funerals the past year that Hr. Rupp conducted, only five were members of the parish.

Why Advertise the Church?

The church does not have anything to sell, but she has a business. She freely gives her wares to everyone---her business is religion.

The church has business with all the world. There is no quarter of the globe which is not her field. Everywhere men dwell; she has business with those men. The church is universal.

The church's business is religion. It is a part of that business to reach all of the people and tell them what she is offering. It is one reason for advertising.

Should everybody in Harrisburg go to church on Sunday, there would be almost one thousand people in every church. The task of reaching every one by personal invitation is beyond physical possibility---yet all of the people must be reached. The church knows no class distinction---her invitation is sent to every one. The newspaper is the common meeting place of all the world---therefore the newspaper is the one medium through which this invitation may be extended to every one.

The church wants you to receive her message and her invitation. She wants you to know of her desire that you attend church services. Therefore she is taking the means of newspaper space to extend that invitation to you.

The churches of this city unite in one unanimous invitation that to-morrow you

STATE'S BIG FIREMAN DIES AT CARLISLE

Danny Lauver Hoped to Win Prize at State Convention at Harrisburg

DANIEL LAUVER (Photo taken three years ago when Lauver was 18 years old.)

Some years ago he joined the Empire Hook and Ladder Company and was one of its strongest supporters. All his waking thoughts of late and even his dreams, his friends say, were given over to securing a prize at the State convention as the "State's Biggest Fireman." A special suit was even made for him and it was among his last requests that he be buried in it.

At the Vatican

Where the Italian skies Arch with their azure span, Silent of lip he lies There in the Vatican. What of his high estate? That does not make him great: Prelates and Popes and Kings. They are but petty things Unless in the mortal urn. The fires immortal burn: Sympathy, charity, faith, The simpler, larger trust; Love that mounts like a wreath Over the greener dust. Place and pomp and power, They are of little worth; Creeds abide for an hour; Deeds, they sweeten the earth; Not for the robes he wore, Not for his churchly ties, But that his fair life bore All that is good in man. Do we honor him who lies There in the Vatican? —Clinton Scollard, in N. Y. Sun.
