

EMPEROR WILLIAM ON VISIT TO BRUSSELS

War Lord of Europe Reported to Have Spent Saturday Night in Belgian Capital

KING ALBERT IS NEAR DEATH

Belgians Are Making an Effort to Capture Distinguished German Subject

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 2. — 3:20 A. M. — The Daily Mail's correspondent at Abbeyville, France, reports that Emperor William was at Charleroi, Belgium, last Saturday, where he viewed the battlefield, later motoring to Monse. He spent Saturday night in Brussels, where he stayed at the Bellevue Hotel. The young Duke of Brunswick, who is a son-in-law of Emperor William, gave a big banquet last week in the palace of Lacken, in Brussels, according to the same correspondent. The principal guest was the Emperor's son, Prince August William. The Mail's Abbeyville correspondent also reports that an aviator from Antwerp arrived there to-day with dispatches for the French authorities, and continues: "The aviator told of Antwerp's terror over the Zeppelin attack on the city, which is now a place of absolute darkness at night. No lights of any description are allowed, and even in the royal palace only candles are used. "King Albert near death. "King Albert came within an ace of death during a sortie on Malines. He was directing operations from his motor car when a shrapnel burst ten yards away, blowing off the rear wheels of the car. "The Germans have installed quick-firing in the villas all around Antwerp in order to prevent further sorties. A Belgian detachment of 300 men was surprised by a squad of these machine guns, which killed all but fifty of them. These particular guns were installed in a parish church. "One of the principal objects of the Belgian sortie is to secure a distinguished German prisoner to exchange for General Leman, whom the Belgian King and his counselors desire to get back. "There are many wild manifestations of enthusiasm in Antwerp, where crowds continually cheer the English residents and officials. "King Albert has given a decoration and a commission to George Laysen, an 18-year-old Boy Scout, who is in charge of the Boy Scout work of spy detection at Antwerp. Laysen personally captured eleven spies and also killed a German captain at Malines and captured eleven." Turkey Declares War on Russia, London Hears. By Associated Press. IN DELIRIUM, HE SLASHES HIS THROAT

Richard Sheridan, This City, in Dying Condition in Pittsburgh Hospital

Richard Sheridan, aged 48 years, who lived at the Hotel Lynch, Verbeke street, is in a critical condition in a Pittsburgh hospital, as a result of an attempt to commit suicide last night. Sheridan, who was superintendent of shipments for the Central Iron and Steel Company, cut his wrists and throat with a penknife while enroute to Harrisburg. Later he tore the bandages from his throat and was taken to the hospital in a delirious condition. Sheridan left Harrisburg on Monday on a two weeks' vacation. After visiting friends in Pittsburgh, he started for home on the train leaving Pittsburgh at 11 o'clock last night and due in Harrisburg this morning at 5 o'clock. Shortly before the train arrived at Pitscairn, Sheridan, who, it is said, was under the influence of liquor, and appeared to have delirium, drew a knife from his pocket and started to cut his wrists and throat. The train was stopped at Wilmerding and he was put in the hands of physicians and taken to the hospital at that place. He became worse and after receiving attention tore off the bandages. Sheridan was taken in an automobile to Pittsburgh hospital where his condition was reported late this afternoon as critical. Sheridan is a half brother of George Simmers, of Washington, D. C., father of Hiram McGowan Simmers, of Harrisburg. He has two sisters in Harrisburg, Mrs. Robert Gemperling, 1302 North Fourth street, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, widow of the late John R. Hamilton, a former city supervisor, 1333 1/2 Logan street. A nephew left this afternoon for Pittsburgh.

Miss Martha Fleming Says Party Was Well Treated by the Germans

"We were treated just splendidly by the Germans; we would like to emphasize that. And we would like to say the same of the treatment we received at the American embassy in Berlin. Miss Martha Fleming, of the Elphinstone Apartments, paid that tribute to the Germans and the American embassy in the German capital in a brief discussion of the experiences of herself and her party in the European war zone. Miss Fleming traveled with her sisters, Misses Margaretta and Suzanne Fleming, Miss Martha Buehler and Miss Mary Robinson. The remainder of the party remained behind in Berlin. "Why, really, I had no exciting adventures," said Miss Fleming. "I left Berlin on August 19 for Rotterdam on a German ship that had been provided by the embassy. We reached Rotterdam on August 21 and I sailed on the Rymdam of the Holland-American Line. During the first few days after the war began there was plenty of excitement in Berlin, but when I left things had quieted down. Coming over we had no experiences. We were stopped by an English warship, which wanted to know who we were and where we were going, and when they got that information they let us go along on our way." To-morrow will be the first city registration day. You must register or you cannot vote in November.

ROTHROCK URGES MORE CONSERVATION

Support For State Policy of Forest Reserves Must Be Given by the Public Now

The dangers to which Pennsylvania is subjected if the State policy of forest conservation is not supported by the people are being told to audiences throughout the State by Dr. J. T. Rothrock, for years State forestry commissioner, and father of State conservation of forests. Dr. Rothrock was the man who started the purchase of forest lands of which the Commonwealth now owns more than a million acres and who was publicly honored by Governor John K. Tener for his conservation work at a notable luncheon given here last Spring. Dr. Rothrock is telling what the State is doing and asking support for it. In a recent speech he set forth what was needed. "The State is not yet entirely desolate," asserted Dr. Rothrock, "but one-seventh of the land, comprising 6,400 square miles, is absolutely in waste. On this ground no agricultural products can be grown and only forests can be raised at great expense. These naked hillsides are the nurseries both of floods and of droughts, and the sterile tract is rapidly growing. "The United States is within less than thirty years of a timber famine that will pinch every industry of the nation. We must have forests to absorb the rainfall, so that floods will not pour down upon fertile lands, and so that water for electrical power shall not be wasted. But unless tracts like the desolate areas of Pennsylvania are planted with timber at once we will have not even lumber enough to build houses or to manufacture articles of daily use slightly, but are maintaining the defense heroically. The battle is still undecided. "The point from which the correspondent files his dispatch is omitted. "European nations have learned to their cost what spoliation of forests means, and we can profit by their experience. Larger appropriations than have ever been made are needed for forest restoration and for the forest reserves, which are to be forever the property of the State and the outlet grounds of its people. The desolate area of the State formerly was covered by forests. It is there that the State can make its best beginning to provide for the economic safety of the next generation."

War Between Turkey and Greece Now Only Matter of Few Days

London, Sept. 2, 4:40 a. m.—A St. Petersburg dispatch to the Reuter Telegram Company conveys a semi-official statement to the effect that in well-informed circles in St. Petersburg the opinion is expressed that war between Turkey and Greece is now only a question of two or three days. "The Chronicle's correspondent sends a report of a third British battle in the Upper Rize Valley, where the Germans are flinging the whole of their weight to force a wedge. The battle raged throughout Sunday and Monday when the Germans, it is stated, sacrificed lives recklessly. The British were compelled to give way slightly, but are maintaining the defense heroically. The battle is still undecided. "The point from which the correspondent files his dispatch is omitted. London, Sept. 2, 4:00 A. M.—In a dispatch from Paris dated Sunday, August 31, the local correspondent of the Daily Mail says there is one circumstance regarding the position in which the allied armies now find themselves which may be regarded as hopeful. This is that at St. Quentin, the angle of their position, they appear to have thrust forward a threatening wedge into the enemy's center. There is, therefore, a hope that a vigorous counter-attack from La Fere might succeed in cutting through the German center. "So here is the enemy within sixty miles of Paris," the correspondent declares. "What will happen if the fortune of this battle again goes against the allies? We may perhaps see British troops falling back with their French comrades on Paris." Over-weary Army on Its Way to Paris. London, Sept. 2, 5 a. m.—The Times correspondent at Dieppe, France, has telegraphed his paper as follows: "In the main northern theater of the war the German advance appears to continue without slackening its pace. It must, indeed, be an over-weary army that Germans are bringing towards the north of Paris. They have made an effort which nearly reserves to be called superhuman. Nothing like it ever before was seen in war. Yet we may be sure they have spent themselves in vain."

M.—The following official announcement was made here to-day: "Our forces invading Galicia have continued their advance in the direction of Lemberg. The enemy fell back gradually before our troops. We captured some cannon, some rapid fire guns, and some caissons. The pursuit continues.
