Judge Duffy and Daughter, of Baltimore, Visiting at Dauphin After War Experience

Special to The Telegraph

Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 8. — Judge Henry Duffy, of the Baltimore City Court, and Miss Maude Dugy, also of Baltimore, who are visiting their sister, Mrs. Robert Fulton Stirling, arrived here on Sunday, directly from the German capital.

Judge Duffy and his sister were touring Europe and when war broke out on August 1 they were in Dresden. To be nearer the American Ambassador they went to Berlin and registered at the Pension Tschewschner. Among some Americans also stopping at that hotel were Miss Mary Robinson and her nieces, the Misses Margaretta and Suzanna Fleming, of Harrisburg, who have been there for the past year, and Miss Martha Fleming, of the Seiler School faculty, who is now in Harrisburg.

During their stay in Berlin, Judge Duffy said that they were treated with great kindness and courtesy everywhere they went. There were 5,000 Americans, 30 per cent. of whom were women, in Berlin, waiting to be taken to Amsterdam by trains, which the German government were running twice a week for the American Ambassador, to enable him to get his people into Holland, which was crowded with Americans. The usual length of time taken for a train to run from Berlin to Amsterdam is eight hours, but it took the train on which Judge and Miss Duffy were on no less than thirty hours.

Because he could not secure reservations on the Holland-American line, Judge Duffy went to London, and by chance obtained them on the Calgarian, of the Allen line.

The Calgarian sailed on August 28 with over 1,000 passengers. No emisgrants were taken on board, but the steerage was turned into third class staterooms. During the seven days' voyage not a light was exposed after dark. The captain issued orders that no matches were to be lighted on deck after nightfall. The young people, however, moved a piano to the deck and enjoyed a dance in the moonlight. On September 4, after an uneventful voyage, the Calgarian docked at Quebec, Canada.

Judge Duffy says that there was no suffering among the Americans when he left Germany, except in a very few isolated cases. He declares that the Americans have no cause for complaint, because the Germans are under a terribie strain, but are trying to get the foreigners out of the country as soon as possible and in the mea

Demonstration of Caponizing to Be Made by West Fairview Fancier

The first of the regular fall and winter meeting of the Central Pennsylvania Poultry Association will be held at 225 Walnut street Thursday evening. This meeting will be open to all members of the association and others interested in poultry keeping. Members of the association will exhibit a number of birds, the merits and demerits of which will be freely discussed. Walter F. Fisher, of West Fairview, will demonstrate caponizing, and in other ways this meeting, as well as those that follow, will be made interesting.

The association has formulated plans for guaranteeing the freshness and purity of eggs sold by its members. Each member desiring the association's guarantee agrees to submit his poultry plant to the inspection of a committee, and if the stock is found to be in good health and conditions sanitary generally a license will be issued to the member to market his eggs under the association's guarantee. The eggs will be sold in one-dozen cartons and each carton will bear the license number of the seller and the following: "Fresh Eggs. Produced under the inspection of and guaranteed by Central Pennsylvania Poultry Association, Harrisburg, Pa." In addition to this the buyer will be told to file license number and complaint with the secretary of the association in case the contents of package are not as represented. Special to The Telegraph
