

A Laxative Tonic

Peruna is a laxative tonic because it acts gently on the bowels. At the same time it gives tone to the appetite and digestion. Many people get seriously sick by allowing the bowels to become clogged, which destroys the appetite and depresses the whole system.

Mr. R. H. Foster, 28 Rockeyford Ave., Atlanta, Ga., suffered 4 years with indigestion. Spent hundreds of dollars for medicine. After using two bottles of Peruna he is well. Sleeplessness all gone, heart palpitation also. Great praise for Peruna.

"PAIR OF SIXES" A CLEVER COMEDY

Well Balanced Cast Presents Play of Amusing Situations With Good Acting

The company which presented "A Pair of Sixes" at the Majestic last night was organized to play Edward Peple's farce comedy in London. But the company is making audiences laugh on this side of the water. And that is just what they do—make you laugh. For without a doubt "A Pair of Sixes" is the funniest farce that has been shown in this city in months. George Nettleton and T. Boggs Johns are two businessmen who have perfected a pill; the one invented the inside, the other the covering. But they cannot get along well in business together. So many arguments come between them that their lawyer decides the issue by giving them each a hand of poker, and the loser to be the servant of the other for the same length of time. Johns loses and becomes the butler of Nettleton, who does everything in his power to make Johns feel his loss and to humiliate him, even before the girls who are to marry. But the worm turns and Johns, through the intrigue of his fiancée, makes Nettleton wish the bargain over. Florence Cole, the fiancée, gets the entire scheme through the lawyer, who is also in love her, and then she defeats the scheme on the ground that gambling is illegal.

The play in conception is new and novel. Edward Peple has woven a new strain in his comedy which could be made, with one or two corrections, the cleanest and funniest play on the stage. There are certain expressions which businessmen have become accustomed to use daily to express their feelings, but when the name of the Delty is repeatedly used to the point, as it was last night, of becoming obnoxious to an audience, it is time to say that such usage should either by law or by common sense be stopped. The name of the Delty is so readily nothing to be used as an expression simply because a man is "up in the air."

The company which presented the comedy in its entirety was evenly good that discrimination is almost out of the question. If it were possible to give one player more credit than another, Albert Andrews as George Nettleton, Paul Nicholson as T. Boggs Johns, deserve that credit. And Mildred Booth as Florence Cole, who, with Portia-like cunning defeated the schemes through which the lawyer, who wanted to marry her, put Johns in a position where marriage might be a question of long months, deserves a lot of credit.

TREE TRIMMER INJURED

Special to The Telegraph

Anville, Pa., Sept. 15.—Arthur Maulfar, who lives back of the pike near Anville, was the victim of a serious accident on Saturday, when he and Harry Erdman, of Lebanon, were trimming trees on the estate of E. R. Coleman. Climbing to the end of a limb, Maulfar attempted to cut the largest upper part of the tree off when through miscalculation the part gave way and, striking the young man, knocked him to the ground and severely injured him.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Use it like a cold cream and dry Eczema eruptions right up.

The moment you apply bold-sulphur to an itching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a known dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and the fact that it has been found to take its place in relieving irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing permanent cure, yet, in every instance, it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

Any good pharmacist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with tortuous itching. This is published for Walter Luther Dodge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.—Advertisement.

ORPHEUM BILL 57 PER CENT. MUSICAL

Pereira Sextet Plays Classical Melodies; Annapolis Boys' Clever Quintet

The man "that hath no music in his soul" had better not order Orpheum tickets this week, for out of seven acts four, or to be precise, 57.1-7 per cent, are musical.

Not that music is the only thing. Far be it from the astute C. Floyd Hopkins to look a bill that way. For instance, there is a clever cartoonist act with two men and a girl—a very pretty girl—doing the contortions; again there is a skit, "When We Grow Up," which proves to you that things are not always what they seem, and Tom Johnson with two trained dogs that grin ever so wisely at you.

But music is the principal thing, see? The way they sing "Good Night, Mr. Moon," with Bronson as singer, Paul Pereira as director, the violin and the viola and his work is particularly noteworthy. Perhaps the selection that pleased the audience most was the opening one—"The night we played in a way that was a revelation to those who did not know the effects possible with string instruments.

You'll Wish You Were Bronson

But pardon me if I hurry to Bronson and Baldwin

For I'm just crazy to tell you about "The way they sing 'Good Night, Mr. Moon,'" with Bronson as singer, Baldwin—who is a mighty pretty, witty and cleverly dressed little lady—makes fellow almost wish he was Bronson. And the way they sing "The night we played in a way that was a revelation to those who did not know the effects possible with string instruments.
