Officers and Committee Will Have the Year Book Ready in October

MRS. EDWIN J. DECEVEE
The Wednesday Club's programs for the season of 1914-15 promise a most interesting, unique and instructive line of work for the musicales which will be given in Fahnestock Hall alternate Wednesdays from October until May.

Dr. George Coleman Gow, director of music in Vassar College, has compiled the programs which illustrate by vocal and instrumental compositions a study in the rhythm, melody, harmony and color of music. The various numbers are necessarily of great variety, progressing from the simplest form of rhythm and melody to be found in the earliest expressions of the art up to the ultra-modern school of intricate harmonies.

The year books are now in the hands of the printer and will be distributed the first week of October. The officers of the club, Mrs. E. J. Decevee, president; Miss Nancy I. Shunk, vice-president; Mrs. Bent Weaver, recording secretary; Mrs.

ing the audience feel and imagine the story.

Mrs. Ross Hull, secretary of the Club, will read a letter from the President of the "Bound Table," of Athens, Ga., about forming an ane-dote committee, and one from the editor of the Story Tellers' Magazine, in which he says he referred a request for ideal programs for story tellers' clubs to the president of the Harrisburg the programs for story tellers' clubs to the president of the Harrisburg to the programs from here.

An informal discussion of plans for the year's program will be followed by "Allegorical Tales" with Miss Ella Yost, leader. Miss Yost will tell "The Palace Made by Music." Miss Dolores Segelbaum will relate a Japanore stale, "Autumn and Spring," by Frank Rinder, and Miss Cella Hoffman will give Kate O'Nefil's "The Little Prince Who Never Laughed." Miss Esther Wengert is visiting at Allen and Carlisle for a few days.

William L. Keller, because the individual time early in the week, and saw many of their former acquaintances, while the first through the committee, and miss Cella Hoffman will give Kate O'Nefil's "The little Prince Who Never Laughed." Mrs. Stanton Wilson and Mrs. Harry Swope spent two or three days of this story from "The Alhambra," by Washington Irving, with which to close the program.

great need is the restoration of Republican control at Washington.

"I maintain that it is is the especial duty of the farmers to take the lead in the movements of public opinion and political action which are necessary to guide the country from distress into guide the country. The farmers labor unremittingly in their industry which provides this basis, and their labors and investments are to a great extent made fruitless if the country as a whole is not prosperous. The farmers, therefore, have an especial reason for insisting upon reasonable and moderate presidents and the proposition of the properties of the country as the country and the country as the country
