

Women AND THEIR INTERESTS

Are You Helping Your Grandchildren

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Years ago a busy wife of a country physician was the mother of nine children. Two years was the greatest birth of any two. There were no electric lights in those days, and no running water or steam heat. The lamps had to be filled each day; the wood had to be brought for the fire; and water was drawn from a well. Nevertheless, this busy mother insisted upon finding time to keep up her practice of music which she had been taught before her marriage. Besides this she insisted that each one of her children should become her pupil, and she taught them all the rudiments of music and directed their practice.

In consequence the home was a center of pleasure for the whole neighborhood. The children all enjoyed good music when they went out into the larger world and were better able to appreciate the achievements of celebrities because of their early education.

But the good work of this good mother was not ended here. She passed away, leaving her children with one exception all here. And among the grandchildren she left one musical genius.

A young girl has flowered into the perfect culmination of the grandmother's ideas and ideals; and she recently returned from her third year of study with the greatest living masters in her particular line in Germany and Russia, where she received two prizes, first and second, for skill and technique. Without question this lovely woman who so wonderfully performed her duties of motherhood in a small country town so many years ago is now able to watch over and inspire and help this gifted young descendant, who is carrying out her own early ambitions.

Without doubt it was the grandmother's enthusiasm and patience and persistence which are responsible for the granddaughter. And without doubt the ego of this wonderful woman who made ready the furrow for this flower harvest will incarnate again in time to come, and herself come to earth a great musician.

Just as we build and fashion our lives mentally and spiritually here so will we come back to enjoy the result of the new conditions.

Nothing we do is lost. Not only do the children and grandchildren of such parents derive benefit from their persevering efforts, but those grandparents prepare for themselves harmonious conditions and bodies for the next incarnation.

It is never sensible to say "I am too old to begin," when speaking of some loved study or line of pursuit.

Not only may we in our late maturity accomplish things which will be a pleasure and a gratification here on earth now, but we are preparing ourselves for high accomplishments in that line when we visit earth again. Visit it we must, and will, while we have ungratified desires.

Whether good or bad, those desires must make themselves manifest. Whatever you wish you might have done in the beginning of your life, try to do now, to such an extent as is possible with your environment.

Just as the child who has learned to spell in three letters starts into school in a more advanced class than one who has not learned his letters, so will you start farther along your desired path, when you come again, if you make a beginning here before you pass out of the body.

In the lands and realms which lie between this earth and your return you will gather new spiritual strength and new powers of application.

We are building our heavens hour by hour and day by day; and if you do your chosen study, you are building a pathway in the world just beyond where your feet will be led after you drop this special earth body.

If you are a parent, then you are helping your children, or your grandchildren perhaps, to carry out your desires also.

HARRISBURG, PA.

Merchandise that will bear national advertising has to have exceptional merit. else the manufacturer could not afford to spend large sums of money for the advertising, and to attach his name and reputation to an article that was not extraordinarily meritorious, for it is the repeat sales that he depends on. It is therefore quite evident that when an article is nationally advertised and nationally sold, year in and year out, year after year, it is exceptionally good goods to stand the test and prove worthy of continued sales and growth. It is conceded by experts that when an article is advertised generally—nationally—it is the best possible product. The wise always, in consequence, prefer nationally known goods and ask for what they want by name. Read the magazines and keep posted on nationally advertised goods.

"Made in Harrisburg" Slogan Helps City Take Place Among Manufacturing Centers

One of the new Harrisburg industries which has been growing and developing without much public stir is the Morton Truck and Tractor Company, which purchased the new building of the Model Typewriter Company, in Nineteenth Street. This company has produced some trucks and tractors of unusual quality. One of the officials announced this morning that the company had just closed a contract with E. B. Van Atta & Co., of New York city, for 100 trucks of different sizes to be delivered within a year. This order totals about $300,000. Another order has been placed with a Buenos Ayres Company for a large number of tractors to be delivered from ten to twenty-five per month. These tractors are remarkable machines in that they can be driven over all kinds of obstacles and where an ordinary machine would stall.

The four-wheel drive is one of the specialties of the new concern and the demand for this kind of truck is increasing so rapidly as to require day and night operation of the plant.

Not only an entire factory building is in use, but parts of the trucks and tractors are being turned out at the Harrisburg Boiler Works. Next week in the firemen's big parade one of the fire engines turned out by this company will be in the procession and the firemen of the State will doubtless be interested in the new machine. It is understood that three of them will go to Lebanon.

The officers of the company are S. F. Dunkle, president; J. V. Kuntze, vice-president; John Campbell, treasurer, and Walter Morton, secretary and manager.

"Made in Harrisburg" is becoming an important slogan and it should be emblazoned on the walls of the world. This city is taking its proper place among the important manufacturing communities of the Atlantic seaboard. "Made in Harrisburg" ought to be printed and written wherever possible and the products of our industries should be known wherever first-class workmanship is appreciated.

"The Cave" in Old Opera House Wall Is Closed

Just because the sentinel went to sleep, "The Cave," located beneath the walls of the old Opera House building, at Third and Walnut streets, has been closed.

For some time it has been a favorite place for Sunday drinking parties. This fact was not known until yesterday morning.

A man looking over the advertising signs on the Opera House plot, thought he saw a man's foot sticking out of a hole at the south end of the old wall. Patrolman Greer, who was nearby, was notified and he called in Patrolman Shoemaker. An investigation brought the discovery of the sleeping sentinel at the entrance to "The Cave." Two other occupants were on the inside.

A GREAT HISTORY OF THE WORLD

Offered to Readers of This Paper

Seventy Centuries of History in Five Beautiful Volumes

The name of Josephus Nelson Larned carries weight wherever English is spoken. He is known as one of the greatest historians of his time. His genius for grasping essentials and for picking up the right threads and weaving them into a fabric of clearly marked design has never been surpassed. It is this feature that renders his work unique. The reader understands the trend of events as never before, and it has been said by competent judges that an acquaintance with Larned's writings is equivalent to a liberal education. The readers of this paper have an opportunity that will probably never present itself again to acquire Larned's wonderful History of the World at a nominal cost—the expense involved in the actual distribution. No profit is sought, the coupons being the main consideration. The latter are printed daily in these columns, and our readers are urged to lose no time in cutting them out and securing a family treasure for many years to come.

Perseverance Lodge of Masons Has Charge of Elizabethtown Services

Perseverance Lodge of this city had charge of the Sunday services at the Masonic Home, Elizabethtown, Pa., yesterday. Fully 250 members of the fraternity with their families were present, making, with the guests at the home and other visitors from the neighborhood, an audience of 500, which filled to overflowing the spacious reception halls and corridors.

W. Harry Musser, worshipful master, presided. The address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Lyter, of the Derry Street United Brethren Church, chaplain of Perseverance Lodge, who delivered an inspiring and impressive sermon on the subject of "Man's Threefold Relationship," discussing man's duty to himself, his fellowman and God.

The Haydn Quartet, well known here, Ralph E. Steever, Jerome M. Hamilton, Howard H. Fram and Nevin R. Seltzer, all members of Perseverance Lodge, led the congregational singing and rendered four anthems in a most acceptable manner. On all sides the uplifting sermon and excellent music called forth the highest praises. The superintendent of the home, N. Franklin Heckler, stated at the conclusion of the services that it would ill become him to make comparisons, but that this service stood out conspicuous as a mountain peak among the weekly services since the home was opened.
