Pennsylvania Editors Banquet at Pittsburgh
Special to The Telegraph
Pittsburgh, Sept. 30.---With a banquet at the Hotel Schenley, at which Arthur Brisbane, of the New York American, was the orator, the members of the Pennsylvania State Editorial Association last night wound up the first two days of its forty-second annual convention. More than 100 of the editors and about thirty women, most of them wives and delegates, attended the reception.
In his address Editor Brisbane lay special stress on the important place the country editor holds in the everyday affairs of the nation. He also dwelt on need of a world-wide peace, one that the gods cannot overthrow. The speaker declared that the country editor had more actual influence with men of affairs in the nation than had the editors of metropolitan dailies. Congressmen, Senators and all classes of legislators, he said, were afraid of the country paper and its editor.

J. A. Hennessy Bolts Nomination of Glynn
Special to The Telegraph
New York, Sept. 30.---John A. Hennessy has not given up his gubernatorial aspirations in spite of the result of the primaries. He means to run independently. This fact was disclosed yesterday afternoon by Hennessy's campaign managers, Stuart C. McGibbinney and Gustavus A. Rogers.
Hennessy will have to get 6,000 signatures to the petitions permitting him to run independently, and he will be obliged to file these by October 28. The law requires fifty names from each of the counties in the State.
