U. B. Conference Meets at Mechanicsburg Wednesday

Special to The Telegraph. Mechanicsburg, Pa., Oct. 5.—This week the one hundred and twenty-fifth session of the Pennsylvania conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ will be held, the opening session being on Wednesday morning. The Rev. W. M. Weekley, of Parkersburg, Bishop of the East District, will preside. The sessions will be held in the First United Brethren Church, in the magnificent new edifice recently erected at a cost of $65,000, under the pastorate of the Rev. E. C. B. Castle, who, with his congregation, will entertain the members of the conference. The Rev. W. H. Washington, D. D., of Chambersburg, who has occupied the position of presiding elder for nearly thirteen years, and has been superintendent of the conference for the past ten years, will make his annual report.

A GOOD PICTURE—BUT

It may need the touch of an artist to make it serve your commercial purpose. Good engravings require clear, contrasting negatives. But with the aid of an artist's brush and pen a faint line can be retouched and the shadows and high-lights toned so as to bring out the salient features of the house or piece of mechanism. Send your commercial photographs to our art department for skillful retouching that is essential to good engravings. Telegraph Printing Company.

BRUMBAUGH TALKS ON OUR CHARITIES

Gubernatorial Candidate Makes a Telling Address at Eagleville Sanatorium

Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, Republican nominee for Governor, made the principal address at the dedication of the administrative school buildings and other added improvements at the Philadelphia Jewish Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Eagleville yesterday. When he arose to speak the audience of several hundred persons, including leading Jews of Philadelphia, greeted him with such hearty applause that he was prevented from speaking for several minutes. In opening his remarks Brumbaugh referred to the dedication coming upon the day which President Wilson had fixed for prayers for peace among the warring nations. He declared that every man, woman and child in America wanted peace, for the reason that "peace is constructive and war is destructive."

"This great beneficence, like all great charities," declared Dr. Brumbaugh, "springs from the religious heart of the people. And Pennsylvania from its founding until now has been the most charitable State in the Union. The hand that withholds is impoverished, while the hand that gives is enriched. This is only one of a thousand agencies by which Pennsylvania gives; each for all and all for each, is the only slogan. This is all historic ground. Back of me is Valley Forge, in front of me is Pennypacker Mills. All about us men marched and suffered and fought for the liberty which we now enjoy. Pennsylvania has always been a refuge and a home for all people. In our schools we have taken the nations of the earth and molded them into foremost American citizens in this whole land of ours."

Dr. Brumbaugh declared that Philadelphia is taking the right course in looking after safety. He referred to the recent carnival of safety in Philadelphia, and told of the "safety-first" idea that is prevalent throughout the Commonwealth, and declared: "The safety of the State and land of ours lays in the conservation of our churches, schools, institutions and homes. Out of these will flow what will make it forever the land of the free and the home of the brave."

"Those who dwell in camps of kindness of heart, such as these in which we are assembled to-day," said Dr. Brumbaugh, "through restored health will go out into the world with an equal chance before God to make good in the struggle of life. We are a great people; we are a wonderfully self-satisfied people. Probably we are. It is better that we should think so, because thinking so will help us to become so."

"But let us not forget the lesson in our progress in this world that those who are strong must bear the burden of those that are weak, and that it is only when we give in a large way the service of our lives, of our thought, of our money, of our property, of whatever the thing is ours to give, that we ourselves become strong and rich and secure."

"My friends, you and I forget that there are a thousand opportunities almost every month of our lives to do business on a small capital; to say a kindly word, to give a cheering smile, to send the needy gifts, to put into the lives of others some of the sunshine that God has put into your own life. Doing business on a small capital. Oh, if only all of us had somehow the vision of our relation to things that would make us glad for the opportunity to help!"

HAPPY BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Oct. 5.—Twenty happy children gathered at the home of Mrs. Harry J. Wise, East Main street, on Saturday evening to celebrate the twelfth birthday of her son, Robert. Hallowe'en decorations brightened the rooms and games and contests were enjoyed by the young guests. In the drawing contest Leonard Hinton and Rachel Shelley won first prizes. The consolation prizes went to Ralph Raach and Isabel Hamelbaugh. For guessing nearest the correct number of grains of corn in a jar, Lawrence Resh and Esther DeArman won first prizes, with Robert Berkheimer and Mary Koller winners of the consolation prizes. Many gifts were received by the host, and all enjoyed a birthday cake with candles. The guests included Mary Koller, Rachel Shelley, Isabel Hamelbaugh, Esther DeArman, Claribel Geiger, Mabel Cook, Marjorie Wise, Ralph Raach, John Rantz, Leonard Hinton, Lawrence Resh, Harold Resh, Charles Stover, Charles Brunhouse, Robert Berkheimer, John Cook, Fridley Schafhirt, I. S. Eberly, Gerald Shavey and Robert Wise. Mrs. Guy M. Eberly assisted Mrs. Wise in the entertainment of the young folks.

Sees Moral For U. S. in British Naval Disaster

DUCKS EAT UP THE MOSQUITOES

Dr. Dixon Points Out How the Duck Can Be Made Still More Useful to the Farmer

The common, ordinary duck will clear ponds of mosquito life as a mere incident in the day's swimming around and not only clean up mosquito-breeding places at far less cost than would be expended for oiling or draining, but will also furnish at the same time duck meat, eggs and feathers. Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, the State Commissioner of Health, has completed some experiments which demonstrate to his satisfaction that the duck is useful and valuable as well as ornamental.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the bird is well known for many good qualities, its great economic value as a destroyer of mosquito larvae and pupae has been sadly overlooked," says the commissioner. "Even since the great warfare has been carried on against the mosquito to overcome yellow fever and malaria the scientific world has not awakened to the value of the bird for the purpose."
