HUNTING SEASON GETS ANOTHER BOOST

Wing Shooting Will Be in Order Commencing Tomorrow; Game Plentiful

Hunters will be busy for the next six weeks. The season for quail, grouse and pheasants, woodcock and squirrel starts to-morrow. Local hunters will be out in large numbers. Many will leave to-night for their favorite hunting grounds. Cool, crisp weather is the forecast for to-morrow and indications point to an ideal day.

According to reports, game is plentiful in Pennsylvania. In this locality the farmers have again posted trespass notices. The best hunting, it is said, will be in the South Mountains, in Lancaster and Franklin counties and in Union county. One Harrisburg party, including Alderman George A. Hoverter, Commissioner Harry Bowman, ex-Councilman William Killing-er and Solomon Rupp, left to-day at noon for Union county. Game in season to-morrow is as follows:

English, Mongolian, Chinese and ringneck pheasants, ten in one day, twenty in one week, fifty in one season—October 15 to November 30.

Hungarian quail, five in one day, twenty in one week, thirty in one season—October 15 to November 30.

Quail or Virginia partridge, ten in one day, forty in one week, seventy-five in one season—November 1 to December 15.

Ruffed grouse or pheasant, five in one day, twenty in one week, fifty in one season—October 15 to November 30.

Woodcock, ten in one day, twenty in one week, fifty in one season—October 15 to November 30.

GOWDY, HERO OF TWO WORLD SERIES GAMES

Hank Gowdy, Boston Braves' catcher, was again the hero of the world series when the third game was played in Boston. He had practically won the first game in Philadelphia for his club, and there was no question about his winning the third game. He had two doubles and a home run. His double in the twelfth inning won the game for Boston.

RECORDS BROKEN BY BOSTON BRAVES

First Time in Nine Years World's Championship Is Won in Four Straight Games

Special to The Telegraph
Boston, Mass., Oct. 14.—With the world's series over, dopsters who went wrong are now telling how it all happened. Boston won, and in doing so set a record that will be hard to duplicate.

Beginning with their rush from last place in the senior league in the middle of July, the Braves have broken traditions and records in the national sport with speed and abandon during the last three months. They emerged late yesterday afternoon champions of the universe, leaving a trail of startling surprises and upsets in their wake which it will be hard to duplicate in years to come.

To the victors belong the spoils and the credit, and unexpected as was the crushing defeat, the Mackmen took it sportsmanlike, praising the winners and offering no excuses for their failure to hold the National League rivals in check. In fact, none are available, for the Bostonians outplayed and out-gamed their more experienced opponents in every game and department of play. The best that could be said of the Athletics by their warmest admirers was that the team neither collectively nor as individuals appeared to get going in the manner shown in previous world's series.

Not since the National Commission assumed charge of these annual inter-league contests in 1905 has this feat been achieved until to-day. Several clubs have won four out of five games, and in the early days of the Temple Cup and National League vs. American Association straight victories were chronicled. In 1884 Providence defeated the Metropolitan three straight. In 1894 the New York club defeated Baltimore in four games for the Temple Cup and two years later Baltimore won four consecutive victories from Cleveland and there the simile ends.

Of the Boston club, twenty-six players are eligible to share in the prize money, giving each man $2,312.10, should the money be divided equally. On the Athletics, twenty-four players are entitled to divide the losers' end, which would give each Mackman $2,031.68 on a share and share alike basis.

The players of neither club have, as yet, notified the National Commission just how the money will be divided. The players receive less money than has fallen to their lot since the series of 1910. Each of the four umpires receive $1,000, the money coming from the National Commission's percentage of the profits.

The world's series of 1914 was the tenth between the pennant winners of the two major leagues since the National Commission, the highest court in baseball, took charge of the annual autumn championship battle in 1905. Yesterday's victory of the Braves brings about a tie for inter-league honors, since American League and National League clubs each have won five championship pennants. The American League victories and the clubs that won them are as follows:
1905—New York. 1910—Athletics.
1906—Chicago. 1911—Athletics.
1907—Chicago. 1912—Boston.
1908—Chicago. 1913—Athletics.
1909—Pittsburgh. 1914—Boston.

No Kind Words For the Team Managers

Special to The Telegraph
Boston, Mass., Oct. 14.—Managerial rancor, bred over the episode in Philadelphia, did not permit the rival chiefs to mingle in congratulations or condolences. Here is what they say:
Connie Mack: "A great ball team won the series. One of the best I ever have seen. It played the better ball every game and the result would not have been fair to Boston if we had not been licked four straight. That means on the form showed by the two clubs in the series. To President Gaffney, Captain Evers and the Braves I want to extend my heartiest congratulations. They call the team the Braves and a truer word was never uttered, but Stallings has too much of the Jack Johnson about him for me to include the Boston manager in my felicitations."
George T. Stallings: "The victory in the world's series is no surprise to me. I don't mean that I thought we would take four straight, but I never had the least doubt we would beat the Athletics. I have the gamest, best fighting ball club on earth, and we fought the Philadelphia bunch just as we planned, and, just as we expected, the result was victory. No pitchers can show me more than my Big Three, and I am more than pleased we beat the Athletics four straight games, for, of all the poor sports in the world, Connie Mack is the worst."
