Fruit Ship Rammed in Fog; All Safe on Board

Special to The Telegraph
New York, Oct. 15.—The steamship Metapan, coming from Colon, foundered in the lower harbor late yesterday after a collision with the freighter Iowan, leaving port for San Francisco. All of her seventy-seven passengers and her crew were rescued. The Iowan, less seriously damaged, stood by and her boats took aboard two of the Metapan's passengers. The remainder were transferred to rescuing craft and landed in New York last night.

The crash occurred in a dense fog. The freighter was first seen when she was only a short distance away. In an effort to avoid the crash the Iowan is said to have let go her anchor, but the headway was greater than she could overcome. She hit the Metapan about thirty feet from the bow of the ship on the port quarter, plowing through the steel and iron and inflicting a wound that caused the Metapan to fill quickly.

The wireless operator on the Metapan immediately sent "S. O. S." calls for assistance, which were answered quickly by six or eight vessels.

As soon as it was seen that the ship was sinking, she was headed toward shoal water. The boats were ordered out, and all hands were taken off without panic or confusion.

RUMANIAN KING BURIED

Special to The Telegraph
Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 15.—With impressive ceremonies King Charles of Rumania was buried yesterday. The formal funeral exercises, which were exceedingly simple, were held at 9 o'clock this morning. The entire city is in mourning.

CASCARETS FOR YOUR BOWELS IF HEADACHY, SICK

To-night! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomachs

Get a 10-cent box. Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and fowl gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Severe Colds, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.—Advertisement.

The Last Shot

By FREDERICK PALMER

"Right! Hold me to it!" he exclaimed resolutely. "Hold me to the bargain! So a woman worth while should hold a man worth while."

"Yes!" she managed to say, and turned to go in a sudden impetus of energy. Half running, half stumbling, the light of the lantern bobbing and trembling weirdly, she hastened through the tunnel. Usually the time for taking the receiver down till Lanny replied was only a half minute. Now she waited what seemed many minutes without response. Had the connections been broken? To make sure that her impatience was not tricking her she began to count off the seconds. Then she heard Lanstron's voice, broken and hoarse: "Marta, Marta, he is dead! Partow is dead!"

Recovering himself, Lanstron told the story of Partow's going, which was in keeping with his life and his prayers. As the doctor put it, the light of his mind, turned on full voltage to the last, went out without a flicker. Through the day he had attended to the dispositions for receiving the Grays' attack, enlivening routine as usual with flashes of humor and reflection ranging beyond the details in hand. An hour or so before dark he had reached across the table and laid his big, soft palm on the back of Lanstron's hand. He was thinking aloud, a habit of his in Lanstron's company, when an idea requiring gestation came to him.

"My boy, it is not fatal if we lose the apron of Engadir. The defenses behind it are very strong."

"No, not fatal," Lanstron agreed. "But it's very important."

"And Westerling will think it fatal. Yes, I understand his character. Yes—yes; and if our counter-attack should fail, then Miss Galland's position would be secure. H-m-m-m—those whom the gods would destroy—hm-m-m. Westerling will be convinced that repeated, overwhelming attacks will gain our main line. Instead of using engineering approaches, he will throw his battalions, masses upon masses, against our works until his strength is spent. It would be bating the bull. A risk—a risk—but, my boy, I am going to—"

Partow's head, which was bent in thought, dropped with a jerk. Convulsion shook him and he fell forward onto the map, his brave old heart in its last flutter, and Lanstron was alone in the silent room with the dead and his responsibility.

"The order that I knew he was about to speak, Marta, I gave for him," Lanstron concluded. "It seemed to me an inspiration—his last inspiration—to make the counter-attack a feat."

"And you're acting chief of staff, Lanny? You against Westerling?"

"Yes."

The colonel of the 128th and Captain Fracasse were eating their biscuits together and making occasional remarks rather than holding a conversation.

"Well, Westerling is a field-marshal," said the colonel.

"Yes, he's got something out of it!"

"The men seem to be losing spirit—there's no doubt of it!" exclaimed the colonel, more aloud to himself than to Fracasse, after a while.

"No wonder!" replied Fracasse. Martinet though he was, he spoke in grumbling loyalty to his soldiers. "What kind of spirit is there in doing the work of navvies? Spirit! No soldiers ever fought better—in invasion, at least. Look at our losses! Spirit! Westerling drives us in. He thinks we can climb Niagara Falls! He—"

"Stop! You are talking like an anarchist!" snapped the colonel. "How can the men have spirit when you feel that way?"

Sir Lionel Carden Interview Is Denied

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—Sir Lionel Carden has repudiated the interview ascribed to him upon his sailing from New York recently, in which he was said to have reflected severely upon President Wilson's policy in regard to Mexico.

The repudiation came to the State Department through Ambassador Page in London, who had inquired of the British Foreign Office as to the authenticity of the interview.

Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister, told Mr. Page that while Sir Lionel had submitted to an interview regarding conditions in Mexico as he left them, he had not reflected in any way upon the policy of President Wilson.

It was intimated at the State Department that this closed the incident.

"DEADBEAT" LIST READ

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—The lists of "deadbeats" were first read last night at the meeting of the St. Louis Retail Credit Men's Association. A copy of the list was furnished each member of the "deadbeat" credit bureau. Slow paying customers, however, are not included. The bureau is designated to protect retail dealers.

TAFT PRAISES PRESIDENT

Providence, R. I., Oct. 15.—Praise for President Wilson for his neutral attitude in the present war was bestowed yesterday by ex-President Taft and Andrew Carnegie at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce. "President Wilson has taken the exact stand," Mr. Taft said, "and has expressed it with admirably accuracy."
