The TWENTIETH CENTURY CHURCH

Back over a span of centuries we find a period when church and state were inseparably linked. Wayside shrines received man's devotions as he fared on his journey.

Religion went hand in hand with man's daily life. The scientific invasion of the past few centuries has driven us away from the church. One generally hears it expressed in the opposite way; we would rather console ourselves by saying that the church has not kept pace with us, or perhaps, the church has changed.

But the deep, undeniable truth is; the people are not in accord with the church to-day. The church stands for the same principles to-day as she did centuries ago. Her one great doctrine is salvation and redemption for man through the Living Christ.

Lack of time; press of business; interest in other affairs—all of them common enough, are the excuses we offer for absenting ourselves from church services.

Excuses, mere excuses, every one of them. There isn't a man living who doesn't want to see a better world—a higher moral and social standard. But we deliberately neglect the church. And the church is the most powerful factor in raising these standards.

What is your attitude? The best way that you can become acquainted and thoroughly familiar with the work of the church is that you

Halifax Girl Who Followed Road Show Taken Home

Special to The Telegraph Marysville, Pa., Oct. 17.—Hazel Hammaker, 15 years old, of Halifax, who followed the Clifford show to Duncannon, where she begged to be employed as an actress, was placed under arrest by Constable John Myers, and given a hearing before Squire W. H. Baughman. Her stepfather, Oscar Hammaker, hearing that the show was at this place, had warrants sworn out for the arrest of C. G. Clifford the showman, and John Morris an employe for harboring the girl. They were given a hearing, but for the want of sufficient evidence the case was dismissed. Miss Hammaker was placed in charge of her stepfather by the squire.

GUEST OF HONOR IS OVER CENTURY OLD

First Reformed Church Dedicates Centennial Anniversary to Mrs. Anna Sipe

Special to The Telegraph Carlisle, Pa., Oct. 17.—Marking the centennial anniversary of the founding of the oldest Sunday school in the county, a unique celebration will be started here to-morrow, when the members of the First Reformed Church begin the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Bible school.

The celebration is dedicated to Mrs. Anna Sipe, Cumberland county's oldest resident, who celebrated her one hundred and second birthday recently, and who for ninety-five years was a member of the Sunday school. The celebration, bearing a variety of features, will continue until it culminates on Friday with a banquet, at which Professor Calvin Altshouse, of Philadelphia, will be the speaker.

The First Reformed Church is one of the oldest in this section of the State and the following authentic history has been given by Mrs. Sipe who, in spite of her advanced age, is credited with a wonderful memory of the early life in the region: "The first Sunday school in Carlisle was the Reformed Sunday School. It was begun in the year 1807, Mr. Hengel, a schoolmaster and an officer in the Reformed Church, being the first superintendent. In 1814 the school was moved to the church building, which stood on the present site of the south college building of Dickinson College. It was organized an officially conducted as part of the church, the pastor acting as superintendent for a number of years." The Sunday school now consists of 600 enrolled members, thoroughly organized and completely graded, and is the largest in Carlisle. The Rev. Emory L. Coblenz is the present pastor of the church, while Dr. E. A. Shulenberg, a prominent dentist, is the superintendent of the school.
