READING FIREMEN DECLINE CONVENTION

Big Expense Given as Reason For Union Voting Down State Invitation

Special to The Telegraph
Reading, Pa., Oct. 21.—Reading does not want the State Fire Association's convention next year, although it is said that the organization was anxious for an invitation. At a meeting of the local firemen's union the suggestion to urge the executive board of the State association to select Reading for next year's convention raised a storm of protest. The opposition was based on the high cost of entertaining. It is estimated that from $15,000 to $20,000 would be necessary and the members expressed themselves as opposed to such an outlay. So the proposition to extend an invitation was voted down, this being possibly the first time that Reading's firemen ever took such action.

BRUMBAUGH WINS DELAWARE'S WOMEN

Candidate Closes Day With Speech in the Y. M. C. A. at Chester and Pledges Service

RECEIVED WITH ACCLAIM

Senator Sproul Presides at Meeting; Candidate Goes Into Schuylkill Today

Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh closed a very successful and gratifying tour of Delaware county last evening at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. at Chester in which Senator W. C. Sprout presided and men from all parts of the county were present. Some of the most representative men of the district, ministers and laymen, gathered to pay tribute to the doctor. The visits to Media and other places were a continuous ovation. Delaware will be for Brumbaugh good and strong, as will Chester, Montgomery and other counties in that section.

To-day Dr. Brumbaugh is in Schuylkill county and he goes into Westmoreland to-morrow.

In his Chester speech Dr. Brumbaugh said:

"Won't Change a Bit"

"I submit that to you to-night as I do to all my fellow-citizens in Pennsylvania as my platform and my pledge of service to you. In other words, I have lived too long and have worked too steadily at one thing in one way ever to change my methods or my purposes and precisely the same quality of service that I have given to the people of this Commonwealth for a generation is the kind of service you can expect from me if you elect me Governor of your Commonwealth."

"We live just now in a very fortunate time. All the traditions of our party have been broken in the last two years. Every party has felt the shift of public sentiment and the chastening of the public will.

"The Republican party comes from that experience just as drilled, just as earnest and just as strong as any party dare come from it and offers you through its candidates here before you to-night as fine a program of social, educational and moral reform as any party in this Commonwealth dare offer to you.

"We offer it with this peculiar difference that instead of dreaming about it and theorizing about it we have the practical judgment and power to make good in our party. I therefore appeal in no apologetic mood or attitude, as we have no apologies to make.

"We are an aggressive and virile people, fighting for the rights of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

"I want you to understand that and help us to put before the people of this State with some degree of definiteness and clearness and force the fact that if elected to the office of Governor of this State I will pledge to you, and I will pledge to the party, that I will go into the office with my views on constructive and comprehensive and advance legislation and an administration as progressive as any reasonable people in this Commonwealth can ask for.

"Therefore, who have known me in my school work and those of you who have been my pupils or my associates; those with whom I have touched elbows in the work of my life, know very well that one thing, that I never was bossed and never will be bossed; that if elected Chief Executive of this Commonwealth, under my own conscientious and the will of the people, I shall endeavor to deal justly and righteously by all who live in this Commonwealth.

"I spoke a moment ago of the social progress that is taking place in this Commonwealth. We are beginning largely because of the advances made in our public education to build here in America a homogeneous people—that is to say a people that together, who work together, who live together, who legislate together and who in their common knowledge and common ideals constitute the very power of this government of ours. This social program of legislation which faces the people of Pennsylvania is the definite outgrowth of that solidarity of feeling in the hearts of our people and worked out in its details it comprehends many important legislative enactments, all of which at their hearts they do with this fundamental fact: that the Commonwealth through its law and through its administration more than any other thing must conserve the lives of the people who live in Pennsylvania.

For Compensation Law

"Therefore, I am anxious to see enacted in this Commonwealth our workmen's compensation law; I am interested also in an advance employment act and certainly there is not a man in this room who would not join me in the thought that not only the justice of this Commonwealth, but its chivalry, should be pledged to make conditions under which our workmen in Pennsylvania as kind and as remedial as our laws can possibly make them.

"These are the potential mothers of a generation that is to come and the very life of our Commonwealth demands that we should conserve and care for these women who under our social and domestic conditions are obliged to labor in Pennsylvania and wish it might be so that we would not neglect that kind of labor."

NERVOUS CHILDREN

Special to The Telegraph
York.—Constables Augustus Doll and John R. Willets, of this city, are Children are nervous because they inherit a tendency to nervousness, because they overstudy or overwork or because they are run down physically. What to do, however, the parents and children need careful management. Scolding does no good and most forms of punishment are harmful. See that the patient does not overwork or overstudy; give good nourishing food, a sufficient out-of-door exercise and a safe, non-alcoholic tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the tonic for such cases, harmless, sugar-coated and easy to take. As the tonic treatment builds up the child's nervous strength there will be less demands on your temper, less temptation to scold. When nervous children get in "tantrums" put them to bed, whatever the hour of the day. If the paroxysm continues, give the child a warm bath and return it to bed. And persist in the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the nourishing food, and the exercise. It is surprising how many nervous disorders are corrected by building up the blood. Even St. Vitus' dance will yield if you are faithful.

A book on Nervous Disorders will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Advertisement.

What Happened to the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't. made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in coffee).

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 5 1/5 grains of caffeine—about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 cups of coffee.

What do you suppose happened?

The Cats All Died!

See Gov't. Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and cripple a man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the coffee-drug, "caffeine."

It is easy to shift from coffee to for in POSTUM one gets a delicious drink with the true nourishment of whole wheat from which it is made. Postum is roasted (like coffee) with a bit of wholesome molasses, looks like coffee and has a delightful flavour resembling Old Dutch Java, but is entirely free from the coffee-drug, caffeine, or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum which must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form—made in the cup instantly with hot water. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.
