ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE PLACES WHOLE LOCAL OPTION MOVE IN PERIL [Continued From First Page] tion were to have a square deal, but notwithstanding the candidates for Governor on all tickets have declared over and over again in favor of local option and pledged their support to the measure of the Anti-Saloon League the bosses have persistently engaged in a partisan canvass for the benefit of the Democratic candidates in most instances. So our cause are many of the honest supporters of the cause in the State as a result of this action that they have declared their purpose to never again contribute to the cause while the present men are at the head of the League.

Reacting on League Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, the Republican candidate for Governor, has thousands of supporters among those who are urging the adoption of a local option law. He has made his position so clear on this question on many occasions and in many speeches that the Anti-Saloon League bosses are finding a strong reaction against their course and their efforts to sell out the cause for the benefit of McCormick. Their attention has been called more than once to the fact that all the candidates for Governor having declared for local option, it was important to help candidates for the Legislature that must pass the bill. Certainly McCormick could do no more than Brumbaugh in the gubernatorial chair. Right here in Harrisburg the feeling against the course of the Anti-Saloon League is so bitter that no attention whatever has been given the appeals of Superintendent Moore and others to support McCormick. It is a question whether the whole local option movement has not been seriously injured by those conducting its affairs.

Many of them were employed by the Pennsylvania Steel Company in Steelton until retrenchments threw them out of work. Dullest Period in 20 Years "But are conditions really so bad in Middletown, Mr. Seiders?" he was asked. "Well, I have lived in Middletown for more than twenty years, and I can't recall when it was ever so dull as it is now," he replied. "Until two years ago I was a painter
