DR. BRUMBAUGH'S SUPPORTERS. It was inevitable that the campaign of abuse and vilification of Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh...

Contractors on the River Front work are pushing ahead with ginger in the face of approaching cold weather...

While the first Arbor Day was not generally observed throughout the city, it is not too much to hope that every effort will be put forth to have a general planting of trees during the next few days.

They builded better than they knew? Who planted those beautiful trees more than a century ago upon the roadways in the older portions of our New England States...

All the important metropolitan newspapers agree that Pennsylvania is again safe within the Republican column. It is also indicated that there will be a large increase of Republicans in the next House at Washington.

It is unfortunate that through what was doubtless misinformation or error in arithmetic, the Washington party candidate for Congress misrepresented Congressman Aaron S. Kreider in the matter of his attendance at Washington.

It is worth while, therefore, to consider seriously the abundant planting of trees. In the city, notwithstanding restricted opportunities, the property owner is advised to plant trees in the outlying boroughs...

This correspondent and those who have given attention to the subject of tree planting realize how necessary it is for the congested cities of our country to plant more trees for the health and comfort of the people.

Now that Congress has gone home, the voters have only to overthrow the Democracy next Tuesday in order to get back to solid ground in business and working conditions.

There is a day coming in which God will bring to light every little hidden service of His children, and will let assembled worlds see the delight He has had in that which has met no eye, but which has gladdened the heart of our Father in Heaven.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo seems at last to have awakened to the necessity of ceasing to create doubt about banking conditions.

OMEODY has asked, and quite reasonably so: "If Dr. Brumbaugh is for local option why does his name appear on the Personal Liberty ticket?"

that William Draper Lewis' name appears on the Roosevelt Progressive ticket. Mr. Lewis didn't know his name was there, that is all. He wanted to get out of the race in favor of McCormick, but his name is on the official ballot because he was nominated by an obscure little party...

The same is true of Dr. Brumbaugh. He never knew his name was on the Personal Liberty ticket until the sample ballots were issued. And now he is trying to get his name off. Here is his own explanation of a trivial incident that his enemies, desperate in their knowledge of pending defeat, have tried to magnify into something of importance:

"I never heard of the party until on Saturday, and they had no authority to place my name on their ticket. Had I been notified, as I should have been, I would have seen to it at once that my name was withdrawn. I have instructed my attorney to do all in his power to get the Secretary of the Commonwealth to recall those ballots."

"Billy" Sunday does not intend that his language shall be distorted. He has just sent a telegram stating positively that he is not opposed to Dr. Brumbaugh.

CANDIDATES AND ELECTIONS. DR. BRUMBAUGH spoke a great truth when in one of his campaign addresses the other day he said: "The man who does not show himself to be a gentleman when he is a candidate will not be a gentleman after election."

In the heat of a campaign you get the true measure of a man. If as a candidate he is upstanding and, as Billy Sunday puts it, "four-square for righteousness," he will be that kind of man in office. If he goes about slandering everybody who happens to be opposing him, spitting venom at every utterance, crying reform and scattering his money where votes may be purchased, he will be the same kind of a destructive influence in office.

Which kind of a man do you want for Governor of this great State of Pennsylvania?

Contractors on the River Front work are pushing ahead with ginger in the face of approaching cold weather, and it is probable that the last gap in the reinforced concrete steps, near the pumping station, will be closed this week.

EVENING CHAT

The street which runs along the eastern city line is probably the only one in Harrisburg to be known by three names, and all three are used regularly. The street extends in real life through a part of Pennbrook and then loses itself in the hills and comes to life a short distance south of Berryhill out near the city line.

Speaking of street names, there are still some people who call Green Two-and-a-half street, although it is a quarter of a century or more since a council changed the name from the clumsy "half" designation, and some who still talk of Seventh as Pennsylvania avenue, or the Avenue.

One day not so long ago a man who had not been in Harrisburg for longer than he could remember came here and wanted to look over the city. He took some trolley rides, and seeing a car marked with a big C, asked where it went. Capital street, remarked the conductor easily.

It has been very noticeable that the first remark former Harrisburg people make in coming back to the city is to comment upon the abundance of lights in the streets. Fifteen years ago Harrisburg was noted as one of the best lighted cities, but it rather lagged behind in the Fourth street commonwealth street.

While we are about it, let us not forget that in the street nomenclature of Harrisburg there continue the names of these highways, some of which, fortunately, exist on the map only: Bluebird, Horn, Crane, Pigeon, Cream, Turtle and Crabapple.

People who have been away from Harrisburg for a year or apt to wonder what has hit South Second street since the subway makers commenced work.

Dr. W. C. Farrabee, head of the University of Pennsylvania Amazon expedition, has made some valuable finds in Brazil.

Congressman Warren Worth Bailey spoke in Johnston pulpit on Sunday on the return of peace.

Imagine the morals of a man—a candidate for the high office of Governor—who would even suggest to the ministers that they convert the pulpit into a political rostrum, and the assembly for worship into a Democratic rally!

But McCormick, in his mad attempt to gain votes to further his political ambition, falls at nothing and even the cross at the door of the church does not deter him in his wild endeavor!

And how accommodating! He even offers to furnish material for the sermon, to press upon the ministers a mass of political literature in the following paragraph:

If you desire any facts upon the present issue, this office will gladly supply them to you.

If any minister should even suggest such a conversion of the pulpit into a political rostrum, and yet be pressed by official duties, probably McCormick would even be so obliging as to have one of his political agents, write the sermon for deliverance by the minister!

M. G.'S BEST DEFENSE. In the meantime the life work of Dr. Brumbaugh is his best defense against slander.

MACHINE'S RULES

TURNED INSIDE OUT. Judge McCarrell's Decision Shows Up the Democratic State Organization's Schemes

The machine built up by McCormick during the Federal patronage jingled and jangled in every joint last night as the result of the decision given yesterday afternoon by Judge J. M. McCarrell holding that the executive committee of the Democratic State committee had arrogated to itself powers not conferred by the primary act of 1913.

McCarrell holding that the executive committee of the Democratic State committee had arrogated to itself powers not conferred by the primary act of 1913.

There was a pretty sad bunch about the Democratic State windmill last night when the news of the McCarrell opinion came in on top of the avalanche of predictions of Republican success.

Democracy from every point for fifty miles around will be impressed to come to Harrisburg, and the Dauphin county Democrats will be glad to show for the Democratic candidates at the wind-up rally on Saturday night.

The Vore brothers gave the Market Square crowd an awful disappointment last night when attending the meeting of the Republican city committee in Philadelphia these leaders urged strong support for the Republican ticket and declared that it would win.

POLITICAL SIDELIGHTS

The Patriot's ever-ready attendance adding machine must have been taken along with the Roosevelt campaign party.

The action of the Vares in urging that everyone stand up for the Republican ticket was a sore disappointment to Market Square.

Those rude men who shouted for Penrose and Brumbaugh when the Colonel was in Northumberland court will have their free copies of Harrisburg's worst newspaper shut off.

A choice lot of those souvenir pocket-knives given to the committee men at the Democratic State headquarters.

State Chairman Morris has not yet stated how much of the $25,000 was given by the McCormick brothers or how much they have promised.

Judge McCarrell's opinion on the unwarranted assumption of authority by the Democratic executive committee will not be circulated as a Democratic campaign document.

The Democratic city committee met last night in the Central Democratic Club and the committee men went home sad with speeches by Moeslein and Lybarger ringing in their ears.

Jim Blaske will take some more time off from his duties at Washington to make speeches for the machine ticket. James A. Stranahan will appear beside William H. Berry and get into the how they handled the Capitol cases.

The New York papers' predictions are not a popular topic at a couple of places on the east side of North Market Square.

The Philadelphia Press calls Palmer and Pinchot the Class B senatorial aspirants.

The only claim that Vance McCormick has to Class A is that he is abusive.

The Progressives appear to be rather busy whacking Palmer these days. McCormick, however, will take support from men who assail his colleague without a word of objection.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. T. R. MAN HAS ENOUGH. To the Editor of the Telegraph: In 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt went through this State as the candidate of the Progressive party, he received a great ovation and he received that ovation from the Progressives and a great many Republicans.
