can't be kept up on goods that are deficient in muscle-making material, that heavily tax the digestive organs. The effort to digest high-proteid foods in Summer uses up vitality and lays the foundation for disease.

SHREDED WHEAT

will keep the body at top-notch efficiency for work or play. It is what you digest, not what you eat, that supplies strength for body and mind. Every particle of the whole wheat grain is digested and converted into sound muscle, bone and brain. Your grocer sells it.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness; then pour over it milk or cream, adding salt or sugar to suit the taste. Deliciously nourishing for any meal when served with sliced peaches, milk or cream, or with fresh fruits of any kind. Try toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat Water with butter, cheese or marmalades.

Tener Discusses the Career of Brumbaugh and the Low Tariff

End Clubs marched in they had to hustle for seats. And when the colored brethren arrived there was hardly standing room and some climbed into the bandstand.

Governor Tener in accepting the gavel had to wait until the applause broke out spontaneously all over the hall and audience. Then he made a short speech in which he set forth what the campaign means. The Governor said:

Governor Tener's Speech
"It is not my purpose to-night to undertake a comprehensive review of this campaign and its issues, nor attempt to discuss the merits of the several candidates on the various tickets.
"There are just two nominations that I propose to consider and there is but one general statement that I intend to make.
"The first thing I have to say is with respect to the next Governor of Pennsylvania--Martin G. Brumbaugh. My successor is about 62 years of age. During more than thirty years of that time he has been instructing, molding the character and fashioning the ideals of the rising youth of this Commonwealth and this nation. That has been his one consecration and delight.
"The word conservation has come into our industrial, mineral, agricultural, State and national problems, and it has transformed, if not elevated our politics and possibly some of our politicians, but whether we be conservationists or not, when they say to us that the paramount conservation is the conservation of our youth which comes through education, we all agree, and such has been Martin G. Brumbaugh's contribution to the cause of conservation.
"Man of Achievement
"He comes of that sturdy stock which is representative of the highest type of solid citizenry, stout patriotism and every-day, hard-working manhood. He is a product of the common schools, with a university finish, self-earned. He has been a teacher and superintendent of public instruction in his native county. He was the organizer of the American school system in Porto Rico, to which island he was sent by another school teacher named William McKinley, and since then he has been at the head of the educational system in Philadelphia. This has been his record for more than thirty years, nor has anyone found a single flaw in that record, nor is there ought in his whole life or life's work to be explained away or glossed over in this campaign.
"They say, however, that Dr. Brumbaugh is supported by men more or less tainted with party regularity. Admitting that he is, since when, may I ask, has it been called strange for a blameless man, a man of rectitude and righteous instincts and orderly inclinations, to inspire the admiration and enlist the sympathy and support of the regular Republicans, as well as of those who have thought differently.
"Safe in Brumbaugh
"Look over Martin G. Brumbaugh's career and you will find only great achievements and great goodness; and I am persuaded that a good man does not become a bad man by the mere fact of his election to the governorship of Pennsylvania. Your interests will be safe in the hands of Martin G. Brumbaugh.
"To the Governor we look for the disposition of purely domestic matters and such of our affairs as are within State control. To our United States senators we have confided our representation in the settlement of those affairs which concern the whole nation. The Congress of the United States deals legislatively with the great problems of revenue, protection and supervision, touching the most vital questions of our national prosperity. Unless we prosper as a people, we cannot prosper as a State. We go up as forty-eight States or we go down as one union. When iron and steel, coal and coke are not enjoying normal demand the East, South and West must share in our misfortunes; and is it not a fact that the disaster which has overtaken the cotton of our Southern States has helped to paralyze the energies of the North.
"These, however, are minor considerations alongside the nation-wide problem of a protective tariff which preserves the opportunity for prosperity for the whole country alike, while the Democratic low tariff either minimizes or destroys the opportunity. Protection renders prosperity possible, while we know of a bitter truth, encountered more than once, that the sort of tariff written by the Democratic party imperils the opportunity of the Almighty as expressed in extraordinary harvests is record-breaking.
"Mr. Penrose represents the protective tariff principle, and above all the opportunity for prosperity, and I warn you that without prosperity there is not much use fussing about advance in education, progress in the care of our workingmen, enlightened adjustment of the conduct of our hospitals and charities, the good roads problem, or any of these things, for if there is no prosperity there will be no funds; and if our corporations and people are not making money the State cannot keep up its revenues.
"Democrats and Prosperity
"Reform, progress, improvement and the instrumentalities for the beauties, comforts and uplifting influences of life are to be desired, and they will come day by day, but let it be the word for the Democrats to produce the prosperity necessary to realize them unless that party changes its policies and revises its principles. So that, having in mind the years of Boies Penrose's public life, his remarkable range of experience in legislation, his fidelity to his State and its people, his Republicanism, his high rank in the United States Senate, and above all the position he will be in, if re-elected, to aid in the restoration of that general prosperity which we all hope and pray for, it becomes our duty in Pennsylvania to follow the first law of nature, which is self-preservation, by returning him six more years.
"A few words now as to our State government, the administration about to terminate. We have nothing to conceal, and there is nothing for which we seek to apologize. The past four years will compare favorably with those of any other State, and with any other four years in this State. The records have the truth and the facts are ascertainable of all men.
"There is not a department for which I am responsible that I am not prepared to defend, including the Highway Department, the management of which will be justified by time and the tests and developments of time.
"I am glad to have been of a long and honored line of Pennsylvania's Republican Governors, and I can look every man in the face frankly and tell him he is at liberty to measure the administration of which I have been the chief, by its work and results."
"Senator Penrose's Speech
Senator Penrose spoke for almost forty-five minutes, but the audience never diminished. In fact, when he finished speaking there were more people in the hall, in the gallery and in the aisles than when he began. The first part of his speech raked the Democracy for its theorizing instead of governing, and its pretenses, its ignorance and its war tax. The Senator did not like the war tax and neither did the audience.

But where the Senator caught the crowd was when he drew the parallel between the depression in the Cleveland administration and the present bad state of affairs. Everyone appreciated what empty dinner pails and smokeless chimneys mean, and everyone knew what happened when McKinley was elected and the Republicans were returned to power. And everyone knew what was going to result from Republican victory this Fall.
When he took up the invasion by the Colonel, the Senator found a very appreciative audience. These are some of the things he said:
"A notable statesman has come over from New York and is telling us that Pinchot is all right on the tariff. He never wrote a line in his life except about trees in the case of Jones and Pennsylvania except to fish for trout, and yet we are told he knows all about the tariff. Why, gentlemen, he knows more about the tariff as a bulldog does about astronomy. We should think of the certificate given to Mr. Pinchot about his knowledge of the tariff? He claims to be a Progressive. Mr. Roosevelt was out in Pittsburgh yesterday urging the voters to elect Clyde Kelly, a Progressive member of Congress in the old Daizeil district, who is running against a Republican, and attacks the Republican party and Kelly voted for the Underwood tariff bill. Does he represent the ideas of Roosevelt and Pinchot? If so, God help the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
"Pinchot and McCormick
"Mr. Palmer has been travelling along dead-head in the McCormick wagon. It is the case of Jones and the whale. They are getting ready to throw Palmer overboard and the fight now is for Pinchot and McCormick.
"Mr. Roosevelt comes into this State and attacks the Republican party and me individually, notwithstanding the fact that I was his dearest friend for fifteen years. What a change! I was a rising statesman until two years ago and now I am a political boss. Are his hands clean? He comes into this State to criticize the great Republican party, that had administered the affairs of Pennsylvania for two generations with the exception of only two gubernatorial terms, in rank and open association with a discredited and corrupt political boss in Pittsburgh, whom the Republican party threw out ten years ago. Roosevelt says: 'I am for Flinn and Flinn is for me'--a happy condition of reciprocity. This is proof positive to my mind that Flinn was opened up and is probably paying for the train that is carrying Roosevelt through Pennsylvania to-day; Flinn, whom I helped to cast out of the Republican party on account of his arrogant and corrupt methods, who always has been affiliated with corrupt and scandalous contracts, and who now has contracts over in New York dependent on the favor of Tammany. He says that his next step will be to become a Democrat, which he practically has become because he has handed the Washington party over to McCormick. What fight has Mr. Roosevelt to criticize me or any one else when at the same time he is breathing the tainted environment that comes from association with Bill Flinn, of Pittsburgh.
"Challenges Roosevelt
"Gentlemen, Mr. Richard Quay stated the other day that he had some correspondence with Mr. Roosevelt, and particularly from him, which Mr. Roosevelt declined to let him publish. Mr. Roosevelt always has boasted that he was willing to have anything published that he has written, and I challenge him here to-night to permit the publication of his letter to Richard R. Quay regarding Mr. Quay's protest against the immigration of William Flinn in the councils of the Washington party. I have here in my hand a postal card signed by Theodore Roosevelt from Oyster Bay. It was received by me on the morning of October 29. Evidently the delivery is premature. Perhaps the date is just as correct as the statement in it. It simply asks the voters of Pennsylvania to vote for Clifford Pinchot against Boies Penrose. It says further that 'Penrose stands in public life for all those evil forces against which every clean and decent citizen should unflinchingly stand.' I would like to ask Mr. Roosevelt whether there should not have been put on the face of this postal card 'postage prepaid by William Flinn.'
"Senator Penrose made scathing reference to Vance C. McCormick, the candidate for Governor. He said: 'McCormick, your fellow townsman, is going around branding Republicans, and yet he never earned a dollar in his life, but has only been spending the millions he inherited.'
"We know him, yelled a man in the audience, as he walked into the hall.
"He is a young millionaire, a young plutocrat, who never saw a wage-earner in close contact, unless it was his valet, and who has absolutely no understanding of the striving and aspirations of the wage-earners here in this great industrial Commonwealth. He has an idea that he can purchase the election of Governor. He spent quite a sum of money in purchasing the primary (I thought that thing had been stopped by new legislation), and now, according to campaign rumor, he is willing to indulge in unlimited expenditure to purchase the governorship. But this year the Republican current is so strong that he may spend every penny he is worth and yet he will never land, within sight of the executive chair.
"Thomas S. Crago in his speech raked the Democrats for their tariff and war tax and said that he hoped that the Democrats would come when the mean men, men with only money and inherited wealth, will not dare to go before the people for an office."
"Mr. Crago said that the South was in the saddle in Washington, but that the Republicans would regain control. The Republican party has lived through many things, oftentimes its ruin was predicted, but it survived as it will survive in 1915. This year it will be victorious and will win again in 1916.
"It was an enthusiastic rally from start to finish. The cheering began long before any of the speakers entered the hall. Somebody in the crowded gallery proposed 'three cheers for Brumbaugh,' and they were given and repeated. Then from another part of the gallery came a call for cheers 'for the whole Republican ticket,' and they were given just as heartily.
"As the speakers entered the hall from the rear the audience stood and let loose cheer after cheer. Senator Penrose, when he arose to speak, after a brief introduction by Governor Tener, was given an ovation that lasted several minutes.
"City Chairman Harry F. Oves called the meeting to order and presented Governor Tener, who got an enthusiastic greeting at the hands of the crowd. The Governor acted as presiding officer of the meeting and introduced the speakers, after a brief but eloquent address.
"Senator Penrose, who was the first speaker, was never in happier mood than last night. His words had a 'punch' to them that showed very plainly that he had approved the work of the campaign begun to let him self out.
"He vigorously assailed those who have attacked him and went after Theodore Roosevelt in a manner that caught the favor of the crowd and
