WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question and "How to Prevent Colds" is asked a thousand times every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but due to a disordered condition of the blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the body better able to withstand the varying elements.

This is the underlying reason why the medicinal fats in Scott's Emulsion quickly overcome colds and build strength to prevent more serious sickness. It contains nature's medicinal fats, so skillfully prepared that the blood profits from every drop, and it is free from harmful drugs or alcohol.

during former years when our plant was enjoying prosperity. We hope that these improvements will give us a modernly equipped steelmaking plant; but we also know that now we have no orders to keep even the present plant in operation.

Plant at 40 Per Cent. Capacity
"Why they try to tell us here in Steelton that this depression is all 'psychological,' that it's all theoretical. Why, men, only this morning I examined the figures and found that this plant upon which most of us depend for our living is operating at far less than 40 per cent, and that these men, less than 40 per cent of the number that should be employed if we enjoyed protection, are working at far less than the regular number of hours a week. We here in Steelton can't be fooled; we know it isn't 'psychological' and we know it isn't theoretical."

William M. Hargest, Assistant Deputy Attorney General, also spoke of local conditions. In part he said:

"When I pick up McCormick's daily personal political pamphlet and read that down here in Steelton you are going through a 'psychological period of depression' I wonder how you must feel. Why, I am informed on the most reliable authority that to-day there are less than 2,000 men working in these works where there should be 7,000, as there was under a protective tariff. I wonder how these men who are out of work feel when they read this stuff. Talk about 'psychological rot!' This is a real condition that you face."

The addresses were listened to with intense interest by the big audience of voters and not once did the crowd begin to dwindle, although the meeting lasted until nearly 10 o'clock. At the frequent mention of Dr. Brumbaugh's name in connection with his candidacy for the governorship there was a hearty outburst of applause.

Cheers for School Men

One of the speakers who pleased the audience by his rapid-fire manner of talking and his plain statement of the issues of the campaign was Colonel Thomas M. Krego, candidate for congressman-at-large. Mr. Krego recalled the high tribute paid by Dr. Brumbaugh to L. E. McGinness, Steelton's superintendent of schools, and spoke highly of Judge George Kunkel. At the mention of both names he was greeted with hearty cheers.

John C. Nissley, candidate for the Assembly, spoke for the first time last evening to a Steelton audience in thirty years of campaigning. He was roundly cheered, as was his colleague, Walter S. Young, who was unable to speak because of a sore throat.

with him and promise him their support.

Big Crowd at Hershey
After the great rally at Middletown, where the Ready Theater was filled to overflowing and where one of the best meetings of the trip was held, the party journeyed to Hershey, via Hummelstown, halting for brief speeches and hearty receptions as it went. At Hershey luncheon was served at the Hershey Cafe and Dr. Brumbaugh hurried out to address between 500 and 600 people who had gathered to hear him.

Makes Ringing Speech

Inspired by the size of his audience and the enthusiastic reception he received, Dr. Brumbaugh at this point made one of the best speeches of the entire trip, saying during the course of his remarks:

"I crave your indulgence for a moment to make a statement somewhat personal in its nature. I have carried my campaign on the basis of my primary platform everywhere in Pennsylvania. I stand here as I have stood everywhere else in Pennsylvania for the large social program contained in that platform; for a workingman's compensation act, an advance in employers' liability act, better laws for the protection of women who toil, and for as advanced a local option law, county by county, as the chivalry and the justice of our people can possibly write into our statutes; for a widening of agricultural opportunities; for a reorganization of our road system in Pennsylvania, and for every other thing which like unto this has to do directly with the welfare of the people of this Commonwealth. In all the discussions relating to these and other matters I have tried to carry myself as a candidate in precisely the same way that I will carry myself as an official, for I believe that a man who does not behave himself decently and seemly in a campaign is not fit to be an official at the hands of the good people of Pennsylvania.

"I WILL NOT SAY A THING TO GET AN OFFICE THAT I WILL NOT DO WHEN IN OFFICE, and it is to me a source of wonder, rather than of resentment, that men with personal grievances have had the temerity—may I say, the impudence?—to come into the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania absolutely unfamiliar with every detail of the thoughts and purposes of our people and undertake, without one iota of the personal knowledge of the situation, to tell the people of Pennsylvania whom they should elect Governor of their Commonwealth? Such mountebanks clamoring for public applause and voicing the sentiments of disgruntled, disappointed and discredited citizens, should be invited by a conclusive and overwhelming resentment to return to their own affairs and to their own legitimate spheres of activity. This State is large enough and free enough and proud enough of itself to manage its own affairs, and needs not the dictation nor the advice of those who care little for it, but who care much for themselves.

"I was born in Pennsylvania. I have spent my life in the schools of Pennsylvania; I have lived with the good people of this Commonwealth; I have preached in their churches; I have visited in their homes; I have lectured in their great religious and educational assemblies. I have the touch of the common people in my heart, and I know that they do not need to be exploited for the narrow, selfish aims of sordid and disappointed politicians.

CROWDS GREETING DR. BRUMBAUGH

Upper picture taken with Dr. Brumbaugh addressing people gathered at Eighteenth and Walnut streets to greet him. Lower picture, Dr. A. M. Rickert, who introduced Dr. Brumbaugh, shaking hands with the candidate.

many people had gathered at the invitation of Dr. Rickert, that both Dr. Brumbaugh and Mr. Houck smilingly accepted invitations to make speeches. Dr. Brumbaugh shook hands with Dr. Rickert and was introduced to the crowd by the Doctor. Indeed during the entire stop Dr. Rickert was in charge of the gubernatorial candidate.

Many in this party were former Progressives. Dr. Rickert himself was instrumental in turning his district for Roosevelt in 1912, but he couldn't stomach the sell-out of his party by Bill Egan and he is one of the staunchest Brumbaugh boosters in Harrisburg.

Scores upon scores of such instances might be recorded of yesterday. The Washington party vote is going to fall off to only a few hundred in Harrisburg this Fall, and in the eastern part of the county it is almost extinct.

Answers Questions

"Are you really for local option?" asked a woman who stepped forward to shake hands at Penbrook. "I am," said Dr. Brumbaugh, with one of his frank, firm looks straight into your eyes. "Is it necessary for me to say more?" "Oh, no! I knew you were all the time. I just wanted to let John hear you say it," tweaking her finger toward a bashful husband nearby.

"Can any of you guess how John will vote?" asked "Uncle Henry" Houck as the automobile moved off. Down in Enhaut an old Southern negro approached the Doctor, shook hands and asked:

"Say, Doctor, are you a real, sure-nuff, old-time Republican, without any of them new style fix'n's?" "I am a real Republican and I am old-fashioned, too," replied Dr. Brumbaugh.

"Den it's all right," said the negro, "cause I made an awful mistake an' voted Mr. Wilson into office and mahnself out of work by suppo'tin' some of them Washin'ton party gemmen in 1912, an' I wants to vote for steady work this time."

You Will Never Enjoy Bigger Shoe Values Than in This Sale

The liberal reductions that will prevail in this sale will make a forcible appeal in these days when dollars are required to do double their ordinary duty.

Of course, it means a heavy loss to us—one that we would rather not suffer. But a backward season has left too many shoes on our shelves, and we would rather take the loss we face now than a greater one which would come later. The advantage is all yours—to grasp it lies solely with you. Come to-morrow.
