"GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST."

Another success! That was the unanimous opinion of those who attended the Myrtle-Harder production.

My! But "Putnam's" Eases Corn Agony

Not only ease for corns, not only quick relief from the agonizing pain, Putnam's does more; it roots the corn out for all time. Lets you wear a shapely boot again, takes that ugly eye sore out of your toes.

No pain, no burnt flesh, no fussing with acid salves or troublesome plasters. No more monkey business. Just use Putnam's and out comes the corn and stays out too. Nearly 50 years in use, costs a quarter, sold everywhere, and by C. M. Forney.—Advertisement.

er presentation of the "Girl of the Golden West" at the Majestic last night. As on the previous evening, a good house was present, and applause ran high. If there were any who believed that the stock company's first play on Monday represented its greatest effort, they must have been somewhat surprised last night. They witnessed "The Girl of the Golden West." Faultless interpretation of a stirring play emphasized the fact that the Myrtle-Harder aggregation realizes that Harrisburg theatergoers want the best.

To-night, by special permission from Cohen & Harris, "Stop Thier" will be presented. This play was New York success last season, and from the fact that a very large royalty is being paid by Mr. Harder, he is permitted to present this late success, as five one-night stand companies are touring different parts of the United States at $150 prices. It is the latest of "Crook" plays and is a combination of drama, mystery, police and comedy.

To-morrow night's production will be "What Happened to Mary," a drama of intense interest and on Friday evening, November 10, of John Drew in "The Prodigal Husband," the new comedy by Dario Niccodemi and Michael Morton, in which Mr. Drew has been appearing at the Empire Theater in New York since the opening of the present season. In his newest vehicle he is said to have a role fitting him to a nicety and supplying him with ample opportunities for the display of those delicate comedy methods and moments of sincere and sympathetic characterization that have given him first place in the list of our American players.

JOHN DREW

Extremely welcome announcement is made of the coming to the Majestic Theater for one performance only, Tuesday evening, November 10, of John Drew in "The Prodigal Husband," the new comedy by Dario Niccodemi and Michael Morton, in which Mr. Drew has been appearing at the Empire Theater in New York since the opening of the present season. In his newest vehicle he is said to have a role fitting him to a nicety and supplying him with ample opportunities for the display of those delicate comedy methods and moments of sincere and sympathetic characterization that have given him first place in the list of our American players.

MAURICE COSTELLO AT THE PHOTOPLAY TODAY

The popular screen actor, Maurice Costello, will be seen today in a new graph production, "The Mills of Life." To satisfy his vanity, believing he is irresistible to women, a wealthy and polished rascal tries to gain the love of a young woman, even after her marriage. He succeeds in separating her from her husband, until she is on the verge of self-destruction. Fortunately, her husband returns and the persecutor is brought to justice. It is a recital of what many a good woman has to endure in defense of her honor and duty.—Advertisement.

Charles Frohman has surrounded Mr. Drew with a splendid supporting company. Martha Hedman, recalled for her splendid success in "The Attack" two seasons ago, is seen as the young girl in whom the prodigal evinces an interest. The company also includes Ferdinand Gottschalk, Harry Leighton, Grace Carlyle, Helen Hayes Brown and Rose Winter.—Advertisement.

ORPHEUM

The Orpheum's whole ticket was elected, too, so there's no one round there to go up Salt River either. And now that we are in for prosperity and good shows are and are just as sure of one as we are of the other, who cares? There's only one thing that we do know and that is that it will be well nigh impossible for the Orpheum management to send an aggregation of talent to Harrisburg that will eclipse the attractions that are being presented there this week. Such clever artists, such varied and really diverting entertainment would be hard indeed to surpass. Intense interest centered in the big headline of called "The Last Tango," that is magnificently staged, beautifully costumed and about the best enacted play yet shown at the Orpheum. And its Parisian! It deals with a romance the scene of which is laid in the summer garden in the rear of a Parisian cafe, overlooking Paris. Fletcher Norton, who is clever and interesting as of yore, is an idol at the cafe, he is a general adventurer, and he's do-well, and loved by a singer in the cabarets of Paris. During the action of the piece an old sweetheart of his appears, and as they dance together his new love stabs and kills her. The police appear on the scene because of a scream, and in an effort to shield the Norton dancer from the police with the dead girl. The police, seeing that no one is killed or hurt, leave. Plenty of music, superlative acting, ingenious staging and a splendid cast make "The Last Tango" the best playlet the Orpheum has had this season. The Orpheum's entire bill is unusually clever and deserves capacity audiences all week.—Advertisement.

COLONIAL

A pleasing and clever singing comedienne is pretty Rita Redfield, who won raptures here on former visits, and who is adding to her subjects at the Colonial this week. Miss Redfield first appears as herself, then does a little number that she herself, then does a little number with her little rag-a-muffin number, "The Black Sheep of the Family." Miss Redfield is an artist and a winsome singing comedienne. Walter Nieland and company are offering a fine comedy playlet; Daley and Kraver are a breezy pair in comedy and songs, and the Bradshaws in a comedy acrobatic turn give an excellent performance of the mixed emotions. Another fine program in moving picture features is slated for to-day.—Advertisement.

AT THE PALACE TOMORROW

Dorothy Phillips and Alexander Garden are being featured to-morrow at the Palace Theater in an Imp two-reel drama, "The Futility of Revenge." In this drama, one of the big situations finds the victim of revenge in court being tried for murder. The man who has blasted his hopes in order to hurt his father, the judge, sits to one side gloating. And the girl? She was known as "Dinah Nell." She had been used as a tool by the man seeking revenge, but in the carrying out of the plot she had suddenly realized that it was his own name who stood before him as the real victim. In that moment he also carefully planned, will always have it realize that revenge, no matter how reaction. It is a big moment, with the keynote of tragedy.
