CACTUS DERBY PUT CARS TO SEVERE TEST

Paige Maps Out New Route For Famous Los Angeles; Phoenix Road Race

The eyes of the motoring public will turn westward November 9 when the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race, known as the Cactus Derby, will be run. This will be the seventh annual start of the Pacific Coast Classic, and the victorious driver who pilots his car successfully through desert sands and up and down the precipitous mountain trails will be crowned "Master Driver of the World." In addition to the title he will receive a purse of $5,000, a silver cup and other awards.

Here and there splendid highways and hard desert roads will enable the contestants to speed their cars to the limit, but other sections offer the worst road conditions conceivable. Only one who has covered the course in a racing car can realize what a driver and his mechanic suffer in the Phoenix race. Cars start out in perfect condition and finish with bearings loosened, motor shaky, axles bent, truss rods broken, transmission shaken out, tires eaten up, brakes worn out, steering knuckles bent and barely holding up under the strain. Cars which start out with a speed of 80 or 90 miles an hour reach Phoenix with but 40 or 50 miles on tap. But the driver and his mechanic suffer too.

At the finish of the Cactus Derby the men who have crossed the desert in the racing cars are bruised about the back and limbs sometimes for days. Their hands are swollen, their lips are chapped and bleeding, their eyes full of sand which seeps behind the goggles and their feet are swollen. The factory officials do not know what their cars go through in that great race on the desert trail and the public does not realize what the driver will have to stand up under to win the seventh annual Cactus Derby.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

Lieutenant-Commander Max B. Horton of the English submarines is an enthusiastic motorcyclist. And in times of peace he spends much time on the two-wheeler.

Joe Essler, of Quincy, Ill., the motorcycle globe trotter, has not given up the 30,000-mile world tour which he had planned for this Fall, but expects to start out as soon as the European troubles are settled.

"I now get more business in this territory than anyone ever did before," says Elmer Riley, a salesman of Atchison, Kan. Riley has recently purchased a motorcycle, and says that on it he can make as high as thirty towns a day.

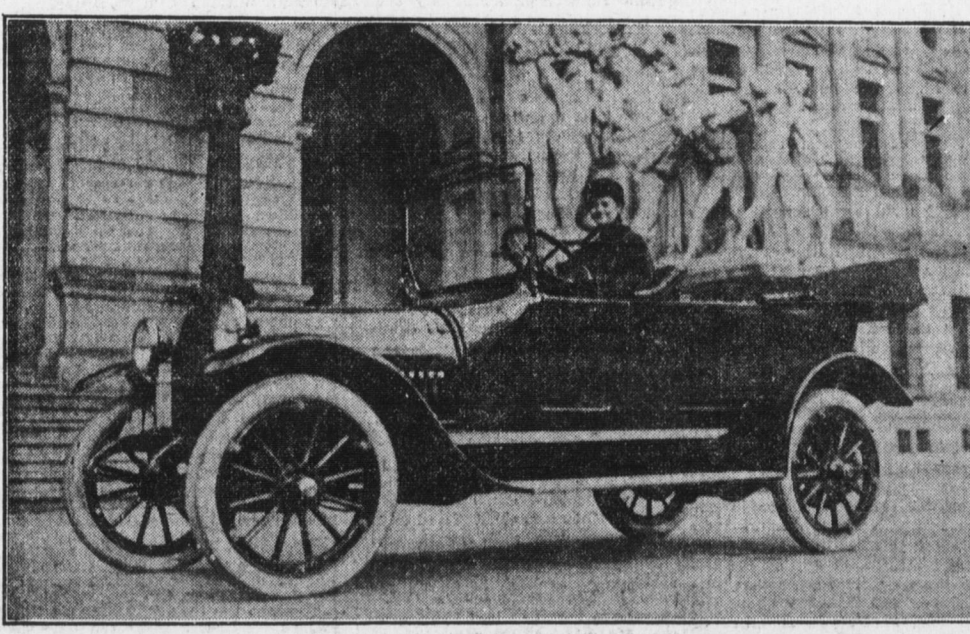

A run from Asheville, N. C., to Atlanta, Ga., is being planned for Thanksgiving Day by the Asheville Motorcycle Club.

The Canadian government has ordered 500 American motorcycles to equip the dispatch riders of the troops they are raising to send to England.

Peoria, Ill., is planning to leave nothing undone to land the 1915 convention of the Federation of American Motorcyclists.

Bob Perry, the winner of last year's 300-mile motorcycle race at Savannah, is expecting to again take part in a similar event on Thanksgiving Day.

MISS HAGER IN STUDEBAKER SIX

The above picture shows Miss Cordella at the wheel of a Studebaker Six. Miss Hager is among the galaxy of stars playing at the Orpheum this week in the Moore-Hager vaudeville team. The Capitol building and the famous Barnhart statue were among the points of interest visited when caught by the camera.

Words Fail Utterly

To depict the sensation you experience when you take your first ride in the new 1915.

EIGHT CYLINDER

One man sat silently trying to find words to express himself while the car crept up a 12 per cent. grade without sound or tremor, when suddenly he exclaimed: "It's uncanny, the way the thing glides around."

The supreme motoring experience of your life awaits you when you take your first ride in this truly remarkable car.

Arrange for an early demonstration.
