An Unusual Stroke of Good Fortune Makes Possible This Sale of

Imported White China FOR HAND PAINTING

Wednesday, November 18th, 1914

Had it not been that we made early provision for this sale which we have been accustomed to hold for our patrons at this time of year, we would have been compelled to omit the event this year. Importers will tell you that since the breaking out of war in Europe there have been no importations of china. Nor will they hold out any encouragement to buyers that there will be any importations inside of the next

We are, therefore, obliged to advise our patrons that this occasion will be the last of its kind that we will be able to present, until conditions abroad adjust themselves again. Those who have requirements of this kind should take advantage of the present occasion which under the circumstances is of two-fold importance, for notwithstanding the scarcity of the merchandise, we will offer it in this sale at no increase in price.
