CENTURY-OLD ORDERS REVIVED IN LONDON

Citizens Given Instructions as to What They Should Do in Case of an Invasion

London, Nov. 17, (correspondence of the Associated Press).—The request voiced by several London newspapers that the citizenry of England be instructed by the war office just how to act in case of a German invasion—whether to fight as citizens or remain passive—has prompted the Daily Mail to reprint orders issued more than a hundred years ago to meet a similar contingency.

Commenting on this ancient document, the Daily Mail says it is of special relevance at the present time, when the Germans are loudly proclaiming their intention of attempting invasion of this country.

"We must naturally suppose, from the host of foes that surround us and form the advantages of our insular situation gives us while they can be kept at a distance, that their great object must be an invasion of these countries.

"On the first landing of an enemy, if he cannot be prevented in the attempt, not a moment must be lost in assembling the troops and pushing on the most advanced, however few in number, till more can be collected.

"As soon as ever he has quitted the coast he must be surrounded in front, flank and rear; a knowledge of the country and a superiority of cavalry gives that advantage. He must be obliged to fight for every article of sustenance. The country must be driven and everything useful within his reach destroyed without mercy; this the necessity of the case and the infinite consequence of giving him an immediate check; cattle and horses must at all events be removed."

TREE CENSUS URGED BY J. H. M'FARLAND

Believes Shade Now in Streets Should First Be Conserved; Forester Needed

Immediate census of all the trees in Harrisburg with a view to treating and properly maintaining those that now exist in the city's streets rather than extensive planting of new ones, was urged this afternoon by J. Horace McFarland in an interesting talk to City Council on the shade tree commission law.

Mr. McFarland, father of the law and a former park commissioner, had been invited to talk to the commissioners on the subject and to explain some of its sections over which there has been considerable discussion.

Chief among these is the question of the equity of levying the cost of planting the trees upon the abutting property owner when his neighbor who enjoys the shade is not required to pay. This question as Mr. McFarland pointed out, is more or less academic, as it has never been raised in the practicable carrying out of tree planting under municipal direction.

Census Necessary Harrisburg's first act he pointed out should be to take a complete census of its trees and to provide the method of cleaning, spraying and otherwise properly caring for those it now has, and to regulate the future planting in order to insure uniformity.

A resolution providing for the appointment of a Shade Tree Commission was recently drawn up by Commissioner Lynch who appreciates the advantage of the law with respect to regulating the planting of trees in streets where pipes are put down.

Mrs. Howard Gould Joins Ranks of Authors

MRS. HOWARD GOULD

Mrs. Howard Gould is the latest wealthy woman to join the ranks of the "women who do things." The John Lane Co. has announced the publication of a book she has written under her maiden name of Katherine Clemmons. It is entitled "The Crystal Rood" and is an American Indian story.

The speaker quoted data from other cities, including Philadelphia, showing what has been done for the care and maintenance of its trees, and compared the splendid results that have been obtained from year to year. This data included the trees that had been planted by the municipality and those planted by individuals by permit issued by the Shade Tree Commission.

THE TERRIBLE FURIES OF WAR "The Story of Europe" Reveals the Causes of History's Greatest Conflict

Europe to-day is a colossal, blood-soaked battlefield—a scene of universal carnage and waste. The flowers of Europe's manhood is being mowed down by awful engines of destruction. Whole regiments will be left decimated and bloody. Tens of thousands of unmarked graves will shelter the corpses of husbands and fathers, sons and brothers, whose smiles and affection and support will never be known again.

45 Farmers Fooled to Dillsburg With Wagon Loads of Choice Apples

Forty-five farmers of Cumberland county picked a wagonload of apples and drove into Dillsburg yesterday for—Nothing.

It was this way: A. E. Fries, 40, supposedly of Scranton, advertised that he was in the market for apples and would buy all that were brought to him at Dillsburg, Monday, November 16. So yesterday forty-five husbandmen drove in with wagonloads of pippins, smokehouse, Baldwins, and what-not. But they learned that Fries had gone. Not only was he gone, but so was a team which he had hired from A. Swartz, a Dillsburg liveryman.

The Harrisburg police have been asked to help in the search for the horse thief and waster of apple-growers' time.

New Dance and Song Act Pleases at the Colonial

Practically unheralded, a pretty musical and dancing playlet called "A Dream of the Orient" slipped into the Colonial yesterday and scored a triumph that was easily the most successful of the playhouse's whole career.

Posing and reclining about an elegantly furnished stage setting representing the interior of a Turkish harem is a bevy of pretty and clever girls. They sing songs and dance their numbers in keeping with the scene. The dreamer soon arises and joins the funmakers, and he is a dancer on the moon abbey, too.
